A Duty to Presidents.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

AVIATION continues its progress. St. Louis yesterday celebrated quietly the anniversary of Lindbergh's great flight.

Miss Johnson, twenty-two-year-old English girl, flying alone from England to Australia, crossed the sea of Java, landed, for lack of fuel, then started again.

PRESIDENT HOOVER yesterday reviewed warships and fighting airplanes, in an interesting "mimic battle" off the Virginia Capes, the silvery Los Angeles sailing overhead.

It was a pleasant spectacle, and President Hoover, commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy, doubtless found time to remember that one-half the air force of France could destroy everything that he saw on the water and in the air and do it in less than half an hour.

PRESIDENT Calvin Coolidge, Republican, but a real democrat, recently sat on the porch, before his half of a little two-family house, close to the road, undisturbed by automobiles, well loaded, stopping and gazing, one every six seconds.

Mr. Coolidge said that it is the people's duty "to back the President." National success depends on this support.

On the other hand, it is the public's duty to be frank with the President, and let him know public opinion.

It is unjust to a President not to let him know the thoughts of the 115,000,000 Americans that he will never see.

MUSSOLINI believes in emphatic words and energetic deeds to back them. Last week he told a crowd of 100,000 in Florence that Italy was prepared for everybody, France included. Now he is adding 22 submarines to the Italian navy.

With those 22 submarines Mussolini could do a great deal to the peace of mind of France, Great Britain and other ship-owning nations.

Peace is beautiful, but Mussolini means to be ready for the other thing.

MR. DORAN, prohibition commissioner, finds the prohibition problem based on the fact that "people are willing to pay ten dollars for fifteen cents' worth of sucker whisky." Says Mr. Doran:

"Sucker whisky is put in special bottles, corked with aged corks burned with the right mark, labeled with salt water-stained labels, packed in salt water-stained burlap, and sold to country clubs as 'just off the boat.'"

GREAT BRITAIN has stopped immigration in Palestine and the Jewish National Council proclaims a general strike throughout the Holy Land, in protest. Jews in Palestine say the British order means "the doom of Zionism."

The idea of Great Britain is to give the present inhabitants of Palestine, Jews and Arabs, a chance to become acquainted and friendly. This is offensive to the Zionists.

DR. GOLDSMITH, of the Radio Corporation of America, thinks we need a world language "to link the people by radio." A world language will come through "survival of the fittest." Maybe the English language, as that language dominates in movies, talkies, and radio.

Other nations need not be offended by the suggestion. English is a fair compromise, being made up of French, German, Saxon, Italian, Greek, Sanskrit, Arabic and other languages.

DIFFERENT countries, different customs, as the French say. In Santo Domingo, Gen. Trujillo, having won the presidential election, the American receiver of Dominican customs, Mr. Pulliam, returning home, finds defeated candidates sitting on his doorstep asking protection from the successful candidate.

Imagine Gov. Al Smith after the election, hurrying to the doorstep of the British ambassador for protection from President-elect Hoover.

THE AMERICAN Booksellers' Association is told that price-cutting in the sale of books will ruin the book trade. On the other hand intelligent reduction in prices of books would establish the book trade. Selling ten or fifty thousand books means nothing.

Books should be read by the millions. And the book business, like other great businesses, should build up on big sales and small profits, instead of selling for $2.50 a book that can be made for 40 cents.

PINCHOT GAINS ON BROWN AS BOTH CLAIM VICTORY

BATTLE ANEW IN FALL FOR ANTI-DRYS

Strong Support in Primaries Spurs Showdown; Bolt Seen If Pinchot Nominated

Threat came from Philadelphia today that if complete returns show Gifford Pinchot to have captured the Republican nomination for governor, the Republican organization there may bolt the ticket and support an independent anti-dry candidate.

In any event, there will be an anti-dry ticket in the field.

Francis H. Bohlen, anti-dry candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, conceded the nomination of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis and congratulated him. He added:

"In the event Mr. Pinchot wins the nomination for the governorship, it is certain the supporters of the wet ticket will oppose him.

"We made a remarkable showing with an amateur organization and we shall keep our forces intact, so that the voters of Pennsylvania will always be enabled to express their convictions on the wet-dry issue. This work will be continued until we have effected the repeal of the prohibition laws."

IMPRESSIVE SHOWING

An impressive showing was made by the anti-dry candidates for the Republican nomination. In Philadelphia, Thomas W. Phillips, while receiving only a little more than half the number of votes polled for Francis Shunk Brown, got more than twice as many as Pinchot, the complete unofficial vote being: Brown, 214,485; Phillips, 114,300, and Pinchot, 53,564.

Phillips appears to have carried Erie County, and on incomplete returns was leading Brown, but trailing Pinchot, in Butler, Clearfield and Lawrence Counties, and running ahead of both Brown and Pinchot in Mercer County.

While it is certain there will be candidates in the November election who will base their appeal for votes almost solely on their

STATE SENATOR BRANDT WINS

State Senate

State Senator Herman Brandt was re-nominated on the Republican ticket in the Fortieth Senatorial District of Allegheny County. With more than three-fourths of the districts reported, Brandt is leading Park H. Martin, his nearest opponent, 11,325 to 8,031.

Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., was nominated for State Senator in the Thirty-Eighth Senatorial district practically without opposition. P. P. Riley, although appearing on the ballot, withdrew a few weeks ago.

State Senator Morris Einstein, of the Forty-Second District, had the unique distinction of being the only senator nominated without opposition.

State Senator W. D. Mansfield won the nomination for another term in the Forty-fourth District without serious opposition from the other candidates, Mrs. Mary P. Walthour and Paul B. Wagner. Returns from 223 out of 335 districts gave Mansfield 19,989, Wagner 7,851 and Mrs. Walthour 3,945.

Senate Gets Primary Reports

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP.)—The Senate Campaign Funds Committee will meet tomorrow to examine reports by the committee agents who observed the Pennsylvania primary yesterday.

Chairman Nye said today the committee had altered its previous request to district attorneys at Philadelphia, Scranton and Pittsburgh, to telegraph latest official tabulations in those cities.

The district attorneys will make their report by mail.

P. J. SULLIVAN WINS OVER O'MALLEY

Congress

Returns from 231 out of 243 districts give Congressman P. J. Sullivan a victory in his campaign for renomination in the Thirty-fourth District over his opponent, P. J. O'Malley, of the state auditor general's office by a vote of 20,682 to 19,160.

Previous unofficial figures gave Sullivan a slightly greater lead.

Sullivan appears to have carried the First, Third, Fifth, Sixth, Ninth and Eleventh wards. O'Malley, the Second, Fourth, Tenth and Fifteenth. Sullivan carried the Ninth by three votes and the Tenth by 11 votes.

The contest was unique in that both candidates are members of Mayor Kline's political family. The Mayor repeatedly indorsed Sullivan at campaign meetings, but invariably declared that "his opponent is a nice boy."

O'Malley was backed by State Senator James J. Coyne, while City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley and Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh were active for Sullivan.

Sullivan carried his own ward, the sixth, by 2,089 to 499. O'Malley carried his own ward, the Second, by 1,517 to 477, and Coyne's wards by 4,859 to 804 in the Fourth and by 2,677 to 1,969 in the Fifteenth.

Of the more independent wards in the district, the Tenth went to O'Malley by 2,544 to 2,155 and the Eleventh went to Sullivan by 2,988 to 1,114.

DEFEAT LOOMS FOR DAVIDSON

Assembly

The indicated defeat of Representative Albert B. Davidson, of Tarentum, by former Representative Thomas W. Neely, of Bellevue, is the most sensational upset of the Allegheny County returns on the General Assembly. Neely, with 48 districts missing, is leading both Davidson and Assemblyman Louis W. Hasmaier, of Aspinwall, by 1,000 and 500 votes, respectively.

Second only in interest to the Neely-Davidson-Hasmaier contest is the battle for fourth place in the legislative fight in the Twelfth District, with Miss Helen Grimes, incumbent, trailing in the returns from about three-fourths of the district. In the same district, Mrs. Sarah L. Gardner was behind the four leading candidates. Sarah C. McClelland was defeated in the Fifth District.

McCANN IS DEFEATED

Representative William J. McCann, was defeated. George C. Metzler and Patrick J. Maloney won the two nominations in this district.

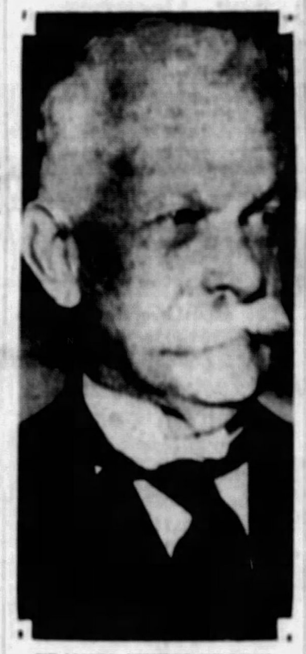
GIFFORD PINCHOT



FRANCIS SHUNK BROWN

DREW LEADING JUDGE GRAFF

Complete returns from Philadelphia gave Judge James B. Drew, of Common Pleas Court, a majority of 195,075 over his opponent, J. Frank Graff, in the race for judge of Superior Court. The vote was: Drew, 255,065; W. P. Linn, 296,637; Graff, 59,988. In Allegheny county 1,250 districts out of 1,458 give Drew 152,020; Linn, 85,645, and Graff, 73,362. Two are to be nominated.

Judge George W. Maxey of Lackawanna easily won out over Judge Albert Dutton McDade for the nomination as justice of the Supreme Court. The vote in 1,200 districts out of 1,458 in Allegheny county was: Maxey, 160,162; McDade, 36,394.

BULLETIN.

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—(AP.)—Returns from 7,255 districts out of 8,701 in the state show that the plurality for Francis Shunk Brown for governor in yesterday's primary over Gifford Pinchot now stands at 24,337. The returns include the unofficial complete vote of Philadelphia and 1,265 out of the 1,458 districts in Allegheny County. The total vote for the districts received was: Brown, 558,281; Pinchot, 533,944; Thomas W. Phillips, 328,387.

Returns from 6,740 out of 8,701 districts in Pennvania gave Secretary of Labor James J. Davis for senator in yesterday's primary a plurality of 215,911 over Senator Joseph R. Grundy. The figures included the complete unofficial vote of Philadelphia and 1,185 of the 1,485 districts in Allegheny County. The figures were: Davis, 609,241; Grundy, 393,330; Bohlen, 202,333.

By GEORGE E. HOLMES,
International News Service.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis defeated Senator Joseph R. Grundy for the Republican senatorial nomination by a margin of about 200,000.

Gifford Pinchot, the veteran Progressive, apparently has a good chance to win the Republican gubernatorial nomination from Francis Shunk Brown, the Vare organization candidate, by a narrow margin. The contest is close and it may take the official count to determine the winner.

The anti-dry ticket of Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., for Governor, and Prof. Francis H. Bohlen for Senator, polled a heavy vote throughout the state, but ran third.

BOTH CLAIM VICTORY

As Brown's early lead wilted under the onslaught of Pinchot votes in later returns this afternoon, both camps claimed victory in the gubernatorial nomination.

Pinchot declared:

"I'll win by 75,000. This is a victory against the gang and the real fight has just begun. The people have voted their disgust of the selfish and corrupt political machines, which raised taxes, abused confidence and degraded the name of Pennsylvania."

Ex-Kaiser Not Dead; Berlin Rumor Spiked

BERLIN, May 21. — (INS.) — Newspaper circles here were thrown into excitement by a sudden and groundless rumor today that ex-Kaiser Wilhelm, of Germany, was dead at his exile castle in Doorn, Holland.

Then this word was flashed from Doorn:

"The Kaiser is in the best of health. He walked in his garden all morning."

Former Gov. Gifford Pinchot made a sensational run in Allegheny County, carrying it by a decisive majority over Francis Shunk Brown, who was backed by the Kline-Armstrong-Mackrell organization.

Returns from 1,339 districts out of 1,458 in the county give: Brown, 88,218; Pinchot, 98,438; Phillips, 40,056. Pinchot's lead is 10,225.

Pinchot carried 11 and probably 13 Pittsburgh wards. These are the Second, Fourth, Seventh, Tenth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth, Nineteenth, Twenty-Sixth and Thirtieth. The official count will probably determine the winner in the Eighteenth and Twentieth wards.

Whether the Allegheny county organization or Pinchot's own backers suffered the greater astonishment at his unprecedented success here is a question. The fact remains that every political leader in the county, save James

5 BOND ISSUES APPROVED

Bond issues totaling $1,042,000 were approved by voters in various boroughs and townships at yesterday's primary election. Port Vue defeated a bond issue of $90,000 for street improvements and $85,000 for schools. Shaler Township defeated a school bond issue of $250,000. Scott Township voted $25,000 for street improvements, but defeated a $90,000 bond issue for funding the floating indebtedness.

The bond issues approved follow:

Bellevue—Grant grade school annex and new high school, $450,000. Yes, 1,725; no, 727.

Castle Shannon — Street improvements, $42,000.

Dravosburg — Street improvements, $50,000.

Mt. Oliver—Borough improvements, $35,000.

Mt. Lebanon—New high school, $440,000.

Thaw Takes Hint; Shuns England on Tour

PLYMOUTH, May 21.—(AP.)—Harry K. Thaw arrived today from New York but made no attempt to go ashore from the French Line steamship The De France. Thaw said he was going on a continental tour by way of Havre, remarking:

"I couldn't go ashore if I wanted to."

This indicated he thought the home office order which barred him two years ago as an undesirable alien still was effective. His arrival coincided with reports he was again to be excluded.

Thaw said he was enroute to Paris, Berlin, Budapest and Switzerland on a holiday trip. He continued:

"I am going to try to do some mountain climbing in Switzerland—that's better than your French and English night clubs."

He posed for photographers and chatted with reported.

Thaw asserted he felt no bitterness, only amusement, at being barred from England, saying:

"All I wanted, anyway, was to get some new clothes before going to the continent. Now I have no desire to visit England."

Only once during the interview did Thaw show emotion. That was when he was asked if there was any possibility of a reconciliation with Evelyn Nesbit, his former wife. He dismissed the subject with a muttered phrase understood to be "obviously impossible."

PINCHOT GAINS ON BROWN AS DAVIS SWAMPS GRUNDY

peared that Pinchot did have an edge.

"I am not boasting, but I am supremely confident."

Previously, Bernard J. Myers, state chairman of the forces supporting Brown, had issued this statement:

"I have ben in touch by telephone with every one of the 67 county leaders, and after carefully checking all the official and private returns there is every indication that Mr. Brown's lead over former Gov. Pinchot will increase instead of decrease."

LEAD CUT STEADILY

Brown's big early lead, based upon the mountain of votes compiled for him in the Vare stronghold of Philadelphia, steadily decreased as the day advanced. He carried Philadelphia by some 187,000 votes, but he was behind Pinchot in Allegheny County and the out-state counties were showing steady majorities for Pinchot.

GRUNDY GRIM, SILENT

Senator Grundy, with characteristic grimness, retired early this morning, refusing to concede the victory of his cabinet opponent, but the verdict was written in such figures that a concession was hardly necessary.

Grundy ran far behind Davis in the two great organization strongholds of the state, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, and although he made up some ground in the other 65 counties, it was impossible to overcome the tidal wave of votes rolled up in the two large cities.

The strength of Pinchot and the weakness of Grundy were the outstanding features of the results to the politicians.

GRUNDY FALTERS HERE

Grundy fared only slightly better than Pinchot in Philadelphia, and failed to gain the large support in Pittsburgh that enabled Pinchot to make a race of it. With unofficial and incomplete returns from most of the counties, it is expected that Grundy will have carried a score of counties in the final showdown, but some of them were counties that do not have as many votes as some of Philadelphia's populous divisions.

The anti-dry showing, on the whole, was pronounced today by that ticket's managers to be fairly satisfactory.

The county results ran true to predictions as to the crossing and re-crossing of inter-party lines. In some counties, Grundy and Brown led the ticket; in others, Pinchot and Davis were on top, and in a few counties, Phillips, the anti-dry candidate, ran ahead of the field. Prof. Bohlen ran behind Phillips in nearly every instance.

VARE VOTE SOLID

The Vare organization in Philadelphia delivered handsomely for the entire Davis-Brown ticket despite widespread reports Davis would be cut to save Brown, and also rumors of bolting to the anti-dry slate.

"Bill" Vare may have been denied the seat in the Senate to which he was elected four years ago, and his health may now be broken, but the results in Philadelphia speak for themselves. His is still the big voice in Philadelphia politics. He asked his followers to support Davis and Brown "to vindicate me." They did so, handsomely.

DEMOCRATS UNOPPOSED

There were no contests for state-wide offices in the Democratic party, Sedgwick Kistler, of Lock Haven, becoming the minority party nominee for senator and John H. Hemphill, of West Chester, for governor.

Grundy sought a mandate from the electors to return to the Senate to which he was appointed by Gov. John S. Fisher when the Senate rejected Vare. He sought the place that he might continue his battle for a high tariff.

Davis, chosen as the Vare candidate when physicians prevailed upon Vare himself to withdraw from the race, also promised to work for protective tariff and asked for the labor vote on his record as Secretary of Labor.

Pinchot, in addition to pleas to keep the Philadelphia organization out of the state administration, campaigned as an ardent dry and as a foe of the State Public Service Commission.

Brown urged a referendum on state prohibition enforcement as his answer to the question in this state and pointed to his record in humanitarian and as attorney general of the state.

Do you like your room? If you don't, find a better one. There are plenty advertised in the Classified Section of this newspaper.

BOND VOTE WINS IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, May 21.—(AP.)—A bond issue of $38,800,000 for the extension of the Los Angeles aqueduct and the acquisition of water rights in Mono Basin carried at a special municipal election yesterday by a large majority.

Included in the project for which the bonds were voted are plans for enlarging the present Owens River Valley Aqueduct.

A single item included under the bond issue was $5,790,000 for the purchase of the towns of Bishop, Laws, Big Pine, Independence and Lone Pine. Also $6,660,000 for the purchase of privately owned property in the Owens and Long valleys and $7,000,000 for buying lands and water rights in Mono Basin.

Victory Triumph For Decency, Davis Says

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP.)—Returning to Washington today, Secretary Davis hailed the result of the Senatorial primary in Pennsylvania as "a triumph for decency in politics."

Asked when he would resign as Secretary of Labor, to asume actively his role as Republican senatorial nominee, he replied:

"I shall write my annual report."

The annual reports of cabinet officers are written after the fiscal year ends on June 30.

F. Malone, went down to smashing defeat.

Among these leaders were W. L. Mellon, Joseph G. Armstrong and Mayor Charles H. Kline, whose power was supposed to be unshakable. What effect the next campaign will show are being discussed already.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, on the face of incomplete returns, has carried Allegheny County with a lead of 3 to 1 over Senator Joseph R. Grundy for the Republican nomination for United States senator. In Pittsburgh, Davis carried 30 of the 32 wards, losing only the Second and Fourth.

The vote in Allegheny County in 1,175 of 1,458 districts, for Davis was 112,239, Grundy 39,383, Bohlen 31,771. The vote in 5,945 of the 8,701 districts of the state gave Davis 528,098, Grundy 334,420 and Bohlen 175,810.

The state vote for governor in 5,896 districts was: Pinchot 406,688, Brown 464,897 and Phillips 208,844.

Brig. Gen. E. C. Shannon, candidate on the Davis-Brown ticket for lieutenant governor, was leading Pinchot's running mate, C. F. Armstrong, by a vote of 32,522 to 16,960 in 423 districts.

Judge George W. Maxey was far in the lead of his rival, A. D. McDade, for the nomination as justice of the Supreme Court.

James F. Woodward is far in the lead in Allegheny County for the nomination for secretary of internal affairs. Returns from 1,177 districts out of 1,458 in the county give Woodward 91,340 to 56,005 for Philip H. Dewey.

NAVAL EXPERTS AGAIN SCORE TREATY

Object to Cruiser Clauses; Great Britain to Proceed With Building Program

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP.)—Objections to the London naval treaty were presented before two Senate committees today by Rear Admirals J. V. Chase and J. R. P. Pringle.

Repeating in large measure the testimony they gave yesterday, these officers opposed particularly the cruiser clauses decreasing the number of projected American 8-inch gun ships.

Pringle, before the Foreign Relations Committee, encountered a severe cross-examination while Chase, testifying before the Naval Committee, was helped along in his criticisms by Chairman Hale and others.

GRILLED BY JOHNSON

"Did you favor that proposal of the American delegation?"

"I did in every particular except in the matter of cruiser categories," said Pringle. "I pointed out we needed more eight-inch ships."

Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, a delegate at London, asked if the American delegation did not consult "thoroughly" with its advisers before the cruiser program was put up. Pringle replied:

"Perhaps it was so, but I never was."

"I beg your pardon," Reed interrupted, "don't you remember coming into the conference? You were there."

Pringle retorted:

"Yes, I was in some conferences, but I was not with the delegation itself."

ENGLAND SOON TO BUILD

LONDON, May 21.—(INS.)—Work will start immediately on a numbers of new warships for Great Britain whose construction was held up by the London naval conference, it was announced in the House of Commons today by A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty.

The vessels are two 650-ton submarines, an 1,800-ton submarine, a six-inch gun cruiser and two destroyers. All are part of the 1929 construction program.

Work on two other destroyers and a destroyer leader, the remaining unbuilt vessels in the 1929 program, will begin shortly, the first lord said.

PITTS ORDERED TO TESTIFY

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(INS.)—G. Bryan Pitts, much indicted head of the F. H. Smith Company, whose tangled affairs have involved many of his associates, must appear before a bankruptcy receiver and answer questions.

Facing trial for financial jugglery, he was ordered by Justice Hitz, of the District Supreme Court, to testify in the bankruptcy proceedings.

Pitts had been cited in contempt for refusing to testify because, as he alleged, he had been served with a subpena while in the sanctuary of a courthouse, in connection with certain criminal charges.

Among the complaints is the alleged embezzlement of $1,500,000.

Ford Buys Cottage, Has Stones Shipped

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP.)—A stone cottage built at Chedsworth, England, in the fourteenth century, has been taken down and sent, stone by stone, to Dearborn Mich., 500 tons of it. Henry Ford bought it.

INDIA'S TENSION GROWS; WOMAN CHIEF HELD

International News Service.

BOMBAY, May 21.—With the Nationalist assault upon British sovereignty in India rapidly reaching its climax, the country seethed with unrest today as plans went forward for new raids upon the government salt depot at Dharasana, where Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, the self-styled "modern Joan of Arc" and scores of others were arrested in a clash between independents and police earlier in the day.

Latest reports from Dharasana said V. J. Patel, secretary of the Indian Nationalist Congress, had arrived there to carry forward the banner of independence which fell from Mrs. Naidu's hands when she was taken into custody.

GUERILLA WAR FLARES

The "passive resistance" of the Nationalists changed suddenly today into guerilla warfare. More than 1,500 raiders attacked the salt depot, first trying to uproot its electrified barbed-wire entanglements and then attempting to break through the lines of police and troops to reach the salt pans.

Time after time groups of raiders were beaten back by the police with bamboo batons. Many of the raiders were severely cut and bruised.

FIGHT ALMOST 2 HOURS

The battle, one of the most prolonged and serious since Mahatma Gandhi launched his "passive resistance" campaign weeks ago, lasted almost two hours. When the raiders finally were repelled, scores had been taken into custody, including Mrs. Naidu and Manilal Gandhi, grandson of the Mahatma.

Among those arrests were Vice President Choksey, of the Bombay Provincial Congress, two secretaries and the treasurer of the Congress, the editor of the Congress Bulletin, the Congress publicity officer and two members of the "war council."

More than 2,000 Nationalist volunteers participated in the raid at Dharasana, while Mrs. Naidu looked on. The volunteers attempted to break through wire fences around the salt pans, but the police charged them.

RAID CONGRESS OFFICES

At almost the same time the salt raiders were arrested, 300 unarmed police and fifty armed police under high officers invaded the headquarters at Bombay, of the All-India National Congress. All office workers, including the president of the local council, Narimat, were arrested.

Police charging a crowd which attempted to free the prisoners, injured four persons. Later, another big crowd, warned to disperse, threw stones at the police, who charged with their batons, injuring 10.

NEW BUILDINGS PUSHED BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(INS.)—All efforts are being exerted by the Treasury Department to speed up the public building program. While more than $40,000,000 worth of work is under contract, it will be the first of the year before the construction program is moving ahead at top speed, it was learned today.

By midsummer it is expected Congress will have enacted a bill authorizing beginning of 200 new projects under consideration by the House Appropriations Committee.

After appropriations are made available, the Treasury will advertise for sites, select sites and let contracts for construction.

PARTY HEADS' LOBBYING SCORED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The Senate today received from its Lobby Investigating Committee reports on the activities of Claudius Huston, chairman of the Republican National Committee, and John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Huston was linked with Muscle Shoals legislation. Raskob was depicted as having had an important part in all the affairs of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

The report on Huston was submitted by Chairman Caraway, of the committee; that on Raskob by Senator Robinson (Rep.), of Indiana.

CRITICISM WITHHELD

Senator Walsh (Dem.), of Montana, author of the report on Huston, refrained from criticising him, but quoted from the committee's record of Huston's stock market operations with money furnished by the Union Carbide Company to the Tennessee River Improvement Association for the Muscle Shoals lobby activities. This money was paid back, but Huston kept whatever profits there were, the report showed.

Walsh mentioned the legal fee of $168,760.88 paid by the American Cyanamid Company for drafting the Muscle Shoals bill which would give that company the billion-dollar Alabama power project. Of this fee, Walsh explained, $99,158 was paid to the law firm of Hughes, Rounds, Sherman & Dwight, of New York. Charles Evans Hughes, now chief justice of the United States, was a member of the firm at the time.

RASKOB GIFTS LIBERAL

The report said of Raskob:

"Throughout the activities of the association, the name of John J. Raskob appears and reappears, and apparently few important activities were engaged in without reference to him. Indeed, it developed that a letter was sent out over his signature to prominent Democrats throughout the country, asking them for contributions to this organization."

Again, the Senator said, Raskob's contributions to the association were among the largest and the association has generally had his active aid and assistance in all of its plans and undertakings.

Fort Candidacy Wins Dry Chief's Approval

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP.)—The "Amen" of the Anti-Saloon League to an endorsement by its New Jersey branch of the senatorial candidacy of Representative Fort was given to the Senate Lobby Committee today by F. Scott McBride.

Chairman Caraway of the committee inquired. The League superintendent testified he would "say amen" to the state branch decision. Senator Blaine, (Rep.), of Wisconsin, asked:

"So you endorse the manufacture and use of home brew?"

McBride replied:

"No. Neither did Fort in his speech in Congress."

McBride testified John D. Rockefeller, Sr., and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., had contributed to the League. In 1921, the younger Rockefeller gave $20,000 and the elder, $10,000. In 1924, the younger gave $15,000 and the elder $10,000. In 1925, both gave $20,000 jointly.

The league superintendent said Henry Ford had never contributed to the league but had supported other prohibition work.

anti-dry stand, it is not certain they will be Bohlen, Phillips and Dorrance.

BROWN NOT ACCEPTABLE

Brown will not be acceptable as an anti-dry candidate because of his refusal to commit himself definitely. He has proposed to submit the prohibition issue to the citizens in a referendum.

The suggestion was made that while the anti-dry crowd will have a full ticket on the November ballot they may indorse, outside of the candidates for governor, United States senator and lieutenant-governor, Republican nominees whose position on prohibition is satisfactory.

At any rate citizens are to be afforded the opportunity to vote for emandidates definitely pledged to work for the repeal of the prohibition laws.

DRYS SAY ISSUE WANES

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP.)—F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, in a statement issued here today said:

"The showing in the Pennsylvania primaries demonstrates conclusively that the wet issue is not a good one for either state or national candidates. It has lost its pulling power completely."

BETTY COMPSON

BETTY COMPSON GETS DECREE

LOS ANGELES, May 21.—(INS.)—Betty Compson, blonde screen star, yesterday was awarded an interlocutory divorce decree from James Cruze, film director, on her testimony that their home was broken up by Cruze's persistence in keeping "open house." Judge Harry R. Archbold signed the decree.

Miss Compson said she was unable to rest at home from exacting studio duties because of the constant stream of people that Cruze entertained at their home Sundays and evenings.

"My home hasn't been a home at all; there were constant streams of people going through the house all day Sunday and evenings," she said.

McKeesporter Held As Hit-Run Driver

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 21.—Ben Merritt, 22, of McKeesport, is being held in jail without bail, pending the outcome of injuries received by Mrs. Blanche Butler, 42, of East Pittsburgh, who was struck by an auto driven by Merritt, police say, as she was walking on the highway.

After the accident police say Merritt fled. He was later arrested.

Plane's Passenger Killed in Crash

NEW YORK, May 21.—(INS.)—Levin Norheim, 33, of Brooklyn, was killed last night when the monoplane in which he was a passenger dived into mud flats near the Municipal Airport on Barren Island.

Conrad Jatza, 35, also of Brooklyn, the owner and pilot of the plane, was critically injured. The plane fell 500 feet in a nose dive.

Weather Conditions.

There was a change to cooler over the Middle Atlantic states as a result of the high pressure area developing over that section, while from the Appalachian Mountains westward to the Rockies the temperatures are rising.

The rainfall for the last 24 hours is limited to a few small scattered areas and cloudiness this morning is widely scattered. It is snowing this morning at Yellowstone Park, Wyoming, and at Edmonton, Canada. The principal low pressure is centered over Manitoba and extends southwestward to a center over Wyoming.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary or falling slowly. Stage at Franklin is 4.5 feet. Lock No. 7, 11.3; Pittsburgh, 12.8; Dam No. 4, 10.3; Dam No. 6, 9.8; Dam No. 9, 10.9, and Dam No. 12, 7.7. The dams are up.

Aviation Bulletin.

There is an area of cloudy weather over Northwestern Pennsylvania, where the ceiling is only 3,000 feet. Elsewhere east of the Mississippi the ceiling is unlimited with only thin scattered clouds. Visibility at 10:30 a. m. was three to seven miles, except in the mountains, where fog and haze reduced it to one mile. The wind is light from the Southwest.

Good flying weather will continue this afternoon, tonight and Thursday.

YOUNG CURTIS FACES QUIZ ON CONTRACTS

Vice President's Son Took Fees for U. S. Building Jobs, Charge in Chicago

CHICAGO, May 21.—(A.P.)—The Daily News said today that Harry K. Curtis, son of Vice President Charles Curtis, was to be questioned at the state's attorney's office concerning complaints of Chicago contractors that they paid fees to Curtis in connection with public building contracts.

Patrick Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, said he was endeavoring to reach Curtis and admitted the questioning would relate to government contracts.

LOOK INTO COMPLAINTS

Prosecutors have been investigating the complaints of Chicago contractors that they had paid a "substantial sum" as retainers to Curtis and several associates, the News said.

The newspaper quoted Roche, however, as expressing belief government contracts could not be delivered by the vice president's son, and that his inquiry was only to determine whether state laws had been violated.

Sub-contracts on the proposed $14,000,000 postoffice here and general contracts for federal buildings in Milwaukee, Racine, Aurora, Minneapolis, Fort Wayne and other Mid-Western cities had been promised by Curtis, according to statements the News said were made to Roche and Richard V. Jackson, assistant state's attorneys.

REPORT PAYMENTS TRACED

Newspaper stories were published in Milwaukee several weeks ago alleging unnamed persons had approached Milwaukee contractors with a proposition to deliver the government work, but the district attorney there was quoted as saying no money had been paid.

Roche and Jackson, the News said, have traced the payment of a total of $3,250. Mike Malloy, alleged go-between, was understood to be in custody for questioning.

ROBERTS SOON TO BE SWORN

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(INS.)—With accession of Owen J. Roberts, Philadelphia lawyer and special government counsel in the oil scandal cases, the Supreme Court is expected to maintain and perhaps improve its record for speed in handling court business.

Roberts, confirmed by the Senate yesterday without opposition, is known as a hard-working lawyer as well as a man of great ability.

Since Chief Justice Hughes came to the bench, the court has been handicapped by the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Sanford. Despite this, the court will virtually be current with its work by June 2, when it adjourns for the summer.

Roberts will have little opportunity to take part in the deliberations of the court this year. Arguments have been discontinued for the term, although petitions for writs of certiorari will be received until Monday.

He may take his oath Monday, however, and during the summer vacation work on petitions coming in during the recess. The fall term will open in October.

County Competition For U. S. Aid Plan

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(A.P.)—Authority for the Secretary of Agriculture will expend up to $25,000 annually for ten years in one county of each of the 48 states, "to promote agricultural progress" would be provided under a bill introduced by Representative McSwain (Dem.), of South Carolina.

Under the measure, the county in which the expenditure would be made would be selected through competition.

BLUE LAW FOES HOLD GAINS

Pittsburgh voters taking part in the primary election also filed heavy returns in the Blue Law Poll of the city conducted by the Sun-Telegraph, casting 1,771 ballots and increasing the total to 17,721, divided as follows:

For the Blue Laws	2,249
For modification	1,236
For repeal	14,236

These totals represent 80 per cent favoring repeal, 13 per cent favoring continuance of the law and seven per cent for modification.

The ratio of voters in favor of repeal compared to voters supporting the Blue Laws continues about 6½-to-1.

The poll totals are divided between men and women as follows: For the Blue Laws, 1,266 men and 983 women; for modification, 732 men and 504 women; for repeal, 9,703 men and 4,533 women.

The latest batch of ballots to be counted, totaling 1,771, is divided as follows: For the Blue Laws 277; for modification 152; for repeal 1,342.

Ballots were cast from all of the 32 city wards in the day's total, the spurt in the returns evidently being due to interest stimulated by the primary election.

Ballots have been returned or are in the hands of one-half of the registered voters of Pittsburgh. The distribution thus far has extended to 50 per cent of voters in each ward.

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—Letters! Letters! Letters!

Each one written in the hope of winning one of the five hundred dollar prizes Marion Davies is offering for the two best letters discussing styles for women.

Miss Davies, who wears the fluffy, flowing costumes of the "Gay Nineties" in her new picture, "The Floradora Girl," which opens June 4 at the new Pantages Theater in Hollywood, wonders whether women ever will go back to those fashions.

Trains, corsets, long hair (with "rats" and false ringlets), narrow, high-heeled slippers—and such underwear! Girls, they starched it! Petticoats, corset covers, long gloves, enormous hats, anchored with hat pins.

LOVELY AND QUAINT, BUT—

Feminine and lovely and quaint, you say, looking at these elaborate creations upon the screen. Yes—but just try running for a street car or playing a game of tennis in such an outfit!

Miss Davies thinks that the present trend of fashions in women's clothes shows symptoms of a return to such styles. Are women tiring of their new freedom so soon, she wonders? Will they return, without protest, to the "modesty" of trailing dresses, long hair, a million hooks and eyes and corsets to squeeze their waists until they can be spanned with their hands.

So she is offering two prizes of $500 each, one for the best letter from a man and one for the best letter from a woman, expressing opinions upon these questions: Do you want the fashions of the "good old days" to return? Why? Or, on the other hand, why not?

OPINIONS DIFFER WIDELY

The avalanche of letters which has descended upon Marion since her announcement of the contest in last Sunday's Sun-Telegraph shows a wide divergence of opinion.

Much has been said for the practical features—the comfort and healthfulness of the new modes—but little about their beauty. Women rejoice in their emancipation from tight-laced, steel encasements, high collars, hairpins and long undies. Men bemoan the loss of woman's femininity and mystery.

Oddly enough, the majority of letters in the first batch have been from men.

One woman who says she is old enough to have worn herself the dresses of the Gay Nineties, remarks:

"I've held a baby with one arm and held up my dragging skirt with the other and managed to board a street car without accident! But—hurrah for the freedom of 1930!"

What is your opinion on these matters? Write your answers to Miss Marion Davies at the new Pantages Theater in Hollywood. You may win a $500 prize!

SOUTH DAKOTA PICKS GREEN

PIERRE, S. D., May 21.—(A.P.)—Warren E. Green, of Hazel, "dark horse" candidate, was nominated for governor of South Dakota Republicans at their state convention late yesterday over other candidates, including Gladys Pyle, secretary of state.

Miss Pyle led in most of the ballots but was defeated when Brooke Howell, of Frederick, her strongest opponent, withdrew. Howell's support then was thrown to Green, who received more than the majority of 55,995 necessary to nomination on the eleventh ballot.

Ohio Stores Burned In $30,000 Blaze

MARTINS FERRY, O., May 21.—Two store buildings at Adena were destroyed by fire with $30,000 loss early today. Dillonvale and Harrisville fire departments helped extinguish the blaze.

BISHOP CANNON FIGHT RENEWED

DALLAS, Tex., May 21.—(A.P.)—As the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, neared its close today, an attempt was begun to protest formally the exoneration of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of charges of stock market speculation.

Judge G. T. Fitzhugh, of Memphis, prime mover in the convention fight against the militant Washington, D. C., bishop, declared, however, that he would protest exoneration on the ground that such action of the espionage committee was illegal, the exoneration could not be given after the committee previously voted to bring the churchman to trial, Mr. Fitzhugh contended.

Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, one of those who sought to bring Cannon to trial in a statement indicated his belief that Cannon had been saved "by the quality of mercy which drops on erring bishop and Congoan alike."

Mexican Bandits Killed in Fight

MEXICO CITY, May 21.—(A.P.)—Special dispatches from Colima said that a bandit named Arteaga and eight of his followers, including four women, had been killed in a fight with soldiers near Coalcoman, Michoacan. The fight continued four hours.

70-MILE GAIT HELD WITH 4 MOTORS

Eckener Saves Gas Supply; Passengers Comfortable On First Night at Sea

(Copyright, 1930, by International News Service.)

BULLETIN.

FRIEDRICHCHSHAFEN, Germany, May 21.—(A.P.)—The Graf Zeppelin wirelessed her home port this afternoon that she passed the Cape Verde Islands at 6:15 p. m., mid-European time, (1:15 p. m., Pittsburgh time). The Graf was about 800 miles north of the equator and about 1,400 miles from Pernambuco, Brazil.

ABOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN, AT SEA, May 21.—With four of its five motors roaring out a symphony of renewed triumph over space, the Graf Zeppelin soared through the blue of a cloudless sky today, making fast time on its commercial venture across the South Atlantic to the new world.

Reeling off 70 miles each hour with no sign of storms or no unruly wind to spoil its smooth motion, the giant dirigible had covered more than 1,300 miles of open water since leaving Cadiz at the time this dispatch was filed.

At 8 a. m. (4 a. m. Pittsburgh time), the position of the Graf was 24 degrees north, 19.30 degrees west. The huge ship was heading southwest, making in the direction of the Cape Verde Islands, about 600 miles distant.

(Later reports, radioed by the Graf Zeppelin to its base at Friedrichshafen, Germany, placed the airship less than 100 miles northeast of the Cape Verde Islands, 1,550 miles out from Cadiz, Spain. This was at 9 a. m. Pittsburgh time.)

USES ONLY 4 MOTORS

Commander Dr. Hugo Eckener allowed one motor to loaf unused, finding four sufficient to maintain a speed of approximately 72 statute miles an hour, with considerably less consumption of gasoline than if all five were working.

From the windows of the cabin gondola the passengers saw beneath them a seemingly limitless expanse of sea, mirror-smooth. The sun shone brightly. All the passengers arose early, none seemingly the worse for their first night at sea. Even those prone to sea-sickness found nothing in the gentle motion of the dirigible to upset them.

Graf's Royal Passenger Swats Flies on Voyage

By LADY DRUMMOND HAY.
Radio via Chatham, Mass.

ABOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN En Route to Pernambuco, May 21.—This is the first dispatch sent direct from the Graf Zeppelin to a radio station in America.

It was filed as we were pushing along through the air above the Atlantic Ocean.

A beautiful burst of sunshine in the late afternoon, flooding the lounge and cabins, galvanized to life some stowaways we had not previously observed—flies!

It struck me as an amusing incongruity to see our royal prince, the Infante Alfonso, awaiting flies in an airship over an ocean.

There is a great demand for eau de cologne and cold cream as substitutes for our cleansing water, on which we have been requested to economize to the utmost until we reach Pernambuco, which we water in taking off at Seville.

I understand it was a question of Zeppelin or husband. The husband prevailed.

Many are asking me how I feel at the prospect of my third trans-Atlantic flight. They are eager to know how women passengers prepare to meet so many changes in seasons within such a few days.

The passenger salon, gay with flowers, is now adorned with a beautiful reproduction of Seville's famous picture, "Our Lady of Hopes Macarena," in an elaborate carved and gilded frame. It is a ceremonial gift from the Senate of Seville to commemorate the Graf Zeppelin's visit.

Foes of Grundy at Capital Jubilant Over Defeat

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(INS.)—The victory of James J. Davis, secretary of labor, over Senator Joseph R. Grundy in Pennsylvania's Republican senatorial primary was hailed with delight today on Capitol Hill.

Republican leaders privately seemed glad Grundy was defeated because they felt it would lessen the effect of the issue of "Grundyism" in the coming congressional campaigns. The emocrats publicly expressed delight because of Grundy's attack on "backward states" in the west and on senators representing the smaller states.

Senator Caraway (Dem.), Arkansas, remarked:

"Mr. Grundy's advent into the national political arena, other than as a collector of money, seems to have been brief. Even Pennsylvania repudiates Grundyism. The result may rob the Democrats of a great campaign issue, but it certainly is a major contribution to good government."

Senator Stephens (Dem.), of Mississippi, said he was tickled to death at the result.

"Fine!"

Gold Star Mother at 92 Leads New Pilgrimage

NEW YORK, May 21.—(A.P.)—With a sigh of relief, Mrs. Elizabeth G. Hutchings, 92, boarded the liner George Washington today, to sail for France with the third contingent of 262 gold star mothers.

She was tired, she explained, but not from the effects of her five-day trip across the continent from Oakland, Cal. Continuing, she said:

"It's the doctors. They won't leave me alone. They think I'm too old to go to France—I, who still earn my living by running a rooming house out in Oakland—and they keep pestering the life out of me.

"All the way across the continent, they kept hopping onto the train and wanting to take my pulse. I suppose people in Oakland wired ahead to them, and they meant well. So I tried to be nice and polite about it."

ROMAGNE-SOUS-MONTFAUCON, France, May 31.—(AP.)—Nearly two-thirds of the American gold star mothers looked for the first time today on their soldier sons' graves in the principal American military cemetery here. There are buried in this cemetery half of America's war dead in this country.

The mothers came in motor cars from historic Verdun where they had spent the night resting after their long drive from Paris.

The sky itself was tinged with sadness and rain cut short the pilgrimage after an hour. Many of the mothers had brought evergreen wreaths, some entwined with flowers. Others found wreaths ready for them here. Some also brought little American flags, which they placed on the graves.

Permit Marine Band Concerts for G. A. R.

WASHINGTON, May 21. (AP)—President Hoover would be authorized under a bill passed by the House to permit the United States Marine Band to give concerts at the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Cincinnati, O., during the week beginning August 24, 1930.

Two Despondent Men Hang Themselves

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., May 21.—(AP.)—Gust Anderson, 50, of Falconer, and Eugene Stuckenbeck, 72, Dunkirk, ended their lives by hanging here. Despondency over ill health was given as the cause in both cases.

Bishop Manning Ordered to Rest

NEW YORK, May 21.—(INS.)—William T. Manning, Episcopal Bishop of New York, on the advice of his physician will spend the summer resting, it was learned here today. He will not attend the Lambeth conference as he had planned. He was to have sailed on June 22.

Amy Still Delayed In Australian Hop

SOURABAYA, Java, May 21.—(AP.)—Despite feverish efforts to repair the magnet on her plane, Amy Johnson, British aviatrix, today found it impossible to continue her trip from England to Australia. Miss Johnson hopes to continue her flight tomorrow.

LEACH WINNER IN CAMBRIA

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., May 21.—J. Russell Leech, incumbent, won the Republican nomination for Congress in yesterday's primary election in Cambria County on the face of unofficial returns from more than two-thirds of the 170 districts in the county today. Leech defeated Jay Sheesley, anti-prohibitionist, by almost 2,500. Charles H. Defreitas and Paul Caulfield were the winners in the city assembly fight. While in the county five candidates in a field of 12 for Assembly are closely bunched and the official count may be necessary to determine the three winners.

Gifford Pinchot will carry Cambria County by almost 5,000 majority over Francis Shunk Brown, while Joseph Grundy will hold a lead of over 2,500 on James J. Davis in the fight for senator. There were no contests in the county for Democratic offices.

Parents, Teachers Honor Buffalo Bill

Suit Asks $25,000 For Loss of Teeth

Stephen Vinski, who lost several teeth and received permanent injuries to his right arm when run down by an automobile owned by John A. Roth, has brought suit against the latter for $25,000 damages. The accident occurred February 2 at Farmerie Stop and East Ohio street, just after Vinski had alighted from a Pittsburgh Railways Company car. The Roth car was traveling in the same direction as the street car. The plaintiff charges the defendant with negligence.

Socialists, Drys Find No Ballots

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., May 21.—Lre of Socialist and Prohibition party voters in Point Marion and Springhill townships was aroused yesterday when they appeared at their respective polling places and found that there were no ballots for their parties.

County Commissioner George Hibbs declared, when asked for an explanation, that the number of Socialist and Prohibition voters in the county had fallen off to such an extent that it was not necessary to print ballots.

Seek Two Bandits For Slaying Chef

CHICAGO HEIGHTS, Ill., May 21.—(INS.)—Sheriff's deputies today were searching for two bandits who shot and killed Lawrence MacMichaels, a chef, during a raid on the Greenwood Inn last night.

Entering the main dining room, the bandits ordered Jocenti Laduda, proprietor, to put up his hands. Instead, he drew a gun and ordered them out. As they were backing toward the door MacMichaels emerged from the kitchen and one of the men felled him with a shotgun load. The bandits escaped.

WOMEN COMING MONEY KINGS

MINNEAPOLIS, May 21.—(AP.)—The great money potentates of the future may be queens, not kings, Thomas Temple Hoyne, Chicago economist, told representatives of the Associated Stock Exchanges here last night in an address warning against the importance of women in modern finance.

"In 1926," Hoyne said, "women made individual income tax returns on $5,297,527,898, compared with $4,741,136,177 for individual men who made returns.

"Women compose the majority of stockholders in many great companies today and are beneficiaries in 50 per cent of the hundred billion dollars worth of life insurance policies in force in the United States."

Statisticians have calculated, Hoyne said, that if women maintain their present rate of ascendancy all the wealth of the country will be in feminine hands by 2025.

MEXICANS RAP U. S. ALIEN BILL

MEXICO CITY, May 21.—(AP.)—The Mexican government has decided to make representations to the American government against the Harris bill, imposing an immigration quota on Mexico.

Foreign Minister Genaro Estrada announced that Manuel C. Telles, Mexican ambassador to Washington, had been instructed to take up the matter at once.

Consider Merging Of Rural Churches

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 21.—(AP.)—Appointment of a committee to study possibilities of merging rural churches of the state was made by the Rev. W. P. Cline, Jr., of Fairmont, president of the West Virginia Synod, United Lutheran Church, in a report to the annual synod conference here.

The recommendation was made, the synod president said, "in view of changes brought about by automobiles and paved roads."

CUBA ELECTION IN NOVEMBER

HAVANA, Cuba, May 21.—(AP.)—President Gerardo Machado last night told Independence Day celebrators Cuba's elections will be held next November, all opposition notwithstanding, and that Congress would take action to qualify as regular political parties any properly organized body of citizens.

This statement was made before some 10,000 Liberals who tendered their chieftain a three-hour demonstration at the presidential palace. It means the Nationalists, now deprived of party rights, will be able to put up their own candidates to run in opposition to the consolidated Liberals, Conservatives and Populars.

The Cuban president challenged his enemies to establish a basis of proof for their charges of licensed immorality, dishonesty and mal-administration under his regime.

He thanked the United States for sending air, navy and marine forces to participate in the twenty-eighth independence anniversary and paid homage to Ambassador Harry F. Guggenheim.

MAE MURRAY'S SUIT HEARD

LOS ANGELES, May 21.—(AP.)—Trial of a damage suit brought by Mae Murray, film star, against James M. Ferguson, Los Angeles real estate operator, and L. R. Eccles, of Ogden, Utah, for $75,967, which she alleged she lost in an apartment house trade, is under way in Superior Court here.

A jury of eight women and four men was selected and Ferguson was called to the stand as the first witness.

The actress alleged that on August 10, 1929, she engaged Ferguson to dispose of an apartment house in which she held a $132,000 equity. She said Ferfuson offered to trade another apartment house, which he claimed was valued at $147,000 but could be sold at a forced sale for $120,000.

The transaction was completed, Miss Murray said she later learned the building she acquired was worth only $45,442. It had been owned by Eccles. The damages she asked represent the difference between the price at which she was told Eccles' building could be sold and the actual value.

HORNEBILT Two-Trouser SUITS

The art of dressing well is not a gift . . . nor is it a question of money. It might surprise you if you knew how little some very well groomed men spend for clothes! The answer is in knowing where and what to buy.

Hornebilts meet the requirements of a limited budget, yet hold their heads high when they rub elbows with the bluebloods of clothingdom. We are unusually particular about the tailoring, we're right up at the ringside when the woolens are chosen. We believe them to be the town's standard of value among popular priced clothes.

If you're skeptical . . . the summer line-up is waiting. Suppose you come in and try one on. Remember, every suit has TWO pairs of trousers!

New "Low Bridge" Sports Shirts, $3.50

Another shirt that will make the low-front collar idea more popular than ever. The collar, which is attached, has no neckband, and lies flat on the chest. They are of plain-color oxford, in blue, tan, gray, green or oxblood—or of jacquard end-and-end madras in the same plain shades. Nicely finished and well tailored.

Ravelproof Rayon Union Suits, $1.95

The cool, mesh-weave underwear that so many men like for hot-weather wear—and that has the notable advantage of being non-running and non-raveling. Cut full, so that it does not stick nor bind in any position. Sizes 34 to 46.

Sports Belt and Tie Sets, $2.00

Johnny Farrell Recommends Steel Shafted Irons

Last Friday, when he was in the Golf Shop, Johnny Farrell said, "I'm using steel shafted irons now. I find they have all the 'whip' of a wood shaft, they do not crack nor split, and they do not warp, being unaffected by moisture. Many prominent 'pros' and tournament players are using them. They're especially good for the 'dub' player, for you can almost wrap them around a tree without breaking them. And of course you know they're officially recognized by the British golf association."

Matched sets of six Burke, MacGregor or Nichol irons are $33 to $75. Sets of eight, $44 to $100.

SHEER DRESSES for SUMMER TOURS and TRIPS—Ready Tomorrow

This summer a dress is a new experience in grace and femininity. That's why these Barbara Lees are such an event, for Barbara Lee in America, like Vionnet in France, means fashions which flatter the feminine figure, fine materials, handwork that less expensive dresses cannot imitate. These Barbara Lees are ideal for vacations, because every frock has its exquisitely harmonized coat or jacket! Trim, tailored sheer frocks for street. Pure dye silks. All-over silk embroidery, like petit point. "Important" afternoon dresses. Airy evening chiffons. Sketched are 6 of the new group. Come in before they go out vacationing with some one else—for Barbara Lees are frocks with a following!

For the perfect costume, Barbara Lee hats, Barbara Lee shoes, Barbara Lee bags.

Sugar Tariff Raise Urged in Hawaii

HONOLULU—Annual meetings of Hawaiian agricultural and industrial corporations held in Honolulu recently emphasized the need for increase in the sugar tariff.

Substantial failings off in earnings were reported by virtually all the sugar companies due to the low price of sugar and it is felt that only a raise in the tariff fair against Cuban sugar imports will bring domestic sugar to a price where the Hawaiian plantations can continue to make fair returns on their investments.

BETTER PRISON GROUP ON AIR

NEW YORK May 21—(AP)—The Citizens Committee on American Prisons formed to focus public attention of the needs of inmates of penal institutions met last night in the National Broadcasting Company's Times Square studios at the first public meeting held especially for radio listeners.

Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico and candidate for the Republican nomination for senator from New Jersey, urged that President Hoover's suggestion that unemployment be relieved through the speeding up of construction on needed public works be applied in building new prisons to relieve overcrowding.

Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, suggested that more convicted men be paroled without being sent to prison and that only those needing longer and more intensive training before being returned to society be committed.

The committee adopted a resolution requesting President Hoover and the governors of all the states to establish emergency measures providing for prison improvements. In the resolution the committee said it would consider itself a nucleus for a national committee of 1,000 to focus attention on prison abuses.

The meeting was broadcast over a hookup of 22 stations.

700 Boy Scouts In County Meet

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 21—More than 700 Boy Scouts participated in the annual Westmoreland County meet here.

Valuation of Man $32,000; Woman Half as Much

TORONTO, Ont., May 21—(AP)—Valuation of the Canadian people as human beings at $175,000,000,000 was made before a joint meeting of the Canadian Public Health Association and Ontario health officers by R. H. Coats, Dominion statistician. He explained the basis of the estimate by giving the figures of value in the case of a man able to earn $2,500 a year at the height of his working ability.

At birth, he said, such a man is worth $9,000; at 15 years, $25,000, and at 25 years, $32,000. Value of the female life, he said, was half as much.

HOLD YOUTH IN RIBBON KILLING

CHICAGO, May 21.—(INS.)—William Putscher, 19 years old, confessed boy burglar, who confessed that he killed Mrs. Mildred Helsing, pretty bride of a few weeks, in her apartment here April 1 then repudiated the statement, has been formally charged with the slaying.

The charge was made in a warrant sworn to by Sergt. John Hanrahan of the detective bureau homicide squad.

Putscher admitted a series of burglaries in Chicago and suburbs, them told police he had strangled Mrs. Helsing to death with a black silk ribbon when she caught him ransacking her apartment.

After signing the statement, Putscher recanted.

Police have rounded up victims of the burglaries and sought to entrap Putscher in a prolonged grilling.

At police headquarters, detectives said they had "strong circumstantial evidence" connecting Putscher with the slaying.

FORECAST RAIN OF METEORS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 21.—(INS.)—A shower of flaming meteors, whirled into space from Bradley 1147, a star in the orbit of the newly-discovered Schwassman-Wachmann comet, may be visible to the eye in the northern hemisphere sometime around May 29, according to announcement by Prof. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard Observatory.

Prof. Shapley made public a telegram from Prof. Shromgren, of Copenhagen, Denmark, in which the Japanese astronomer, Prof. Yamamoto, of Kyoto, predicted the meteoric shower. The prediction was made, it was explained, because usually just before and after the discovery of a new comet, there has been a meteoric shower when the earth passes through its orbit.

Gets Wanderlust, Boy 2, Leaves Home

Albert DeBacker, aged two and a half, got the wanderlust.

Found by an older brother wandering more than a mile from home, Albert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre DeBacker, of 285 Glenmore avenue, Dormont, offered vigorous protest at the interruption of his travels yesterday.

He insisted that he was just taking a walk. Today he was back in the family circle, a finished traveler. The child is thought to have followed older children to school.

JURY TO DECIDE ON MAN'S FATE

CHICAGO, May 21.—(INS.)—Eleven years after he disappeared from a steamer in Lake Michigan, a jury in Circuit Court here was asked to decide the fate of Ralph A. Anderson, Traverse City, Mich., undertaker, and decide also whether the Interstate Business Men's Accident Association, of Des Moines, should pay his widow $7,500.

Mrs. Orpha Anderson, of Detroit, filed suit against the Des Moines firm to collect the sum, principal and interest on an insurance policy her husband carried with the association.

Attorneys for Mrs. Anderson told the jury they would introduce evidence to prove Anderson had died accidentally. Counsel for the insurance firm claim Anderson did not die, but disappeared to take up life with a woman who had been his bookkeeper.

2 GUARDS FIRED FOR RUM PARTY

M'NEIL ISLAND, Wash., May 21.—(INS.)—Because they were alleged to have permitted S. C. Lewis, former president of the Julian Oil Company, to visit an apartment where liquor was served when the oil head was taken to Los Angeles to face trial in a California court, two guards at the federal penitentiary here were dismissed.

The dismissed men are Maj. Herman Leporham and C. E. Miller, who accompanied Lewis to Los Angeles.

Warden Finch Archer, in announcing their dismissal, said he had acted under orders from the superintendent of federal penitentiaries.

SELF-POISONING IS FATE OF HUNDREDS

Many Have Narrow Escapes From Death or Disability.

Constipation is a sure means of poisoning one's self. There are hundreds of deaths each year from its evil effects, and many who for a time escape that fate live on disabled. Constipation, when it lasts long, will result in the breakdown of some organ of the body, quite often several, and eventually in disability and death. Cases are known where blindness has resulted, and it is believed many of the so-called "strokes" are the result of the failure of the bowels to clear away the wastes of the body.

Liver and kidney troubles are many times—one might say usually—the direct result of constipation. Whatever organ may show the effect the most, the cause is the poisoning of the blood by the retained decaying matter.

Every person should have a natural, free passage at least twice each day. Three times is really the correct number—following each meal. Unless these occur, health is always in danger. Whenever a day is missed, the danger is acute. Neglect of this important function is running a needless risk.

Constipated people should not place their faith in these violent cathartics that really force their way. These do not remove the cause. They only relieve a symptom, and their continued use is in itself dangerous and will form a habit that will require larger and larger doses to have any effect. Treatment should consist of a medicine that will restore the tone of the bowels, soothe away the catarrhal conditions that are present in constipation, and restore the natural action.

World's Tonic is intended to help accomplish this. Thousands have told of its remarkable success in this line. Whenever your bowels are not acting as they should, or whenever you make up your mind that you will no longer be a victim of this loathsome and dangerous condition, see what World's Tonic will do for you. It may be obtained at Dow's, Mayo & Liggett's, Maxflower, or at any other first-class drug store. (A-38)

HUGE TRAFFIC WASTE CITED

WASHINGTON May 21 (INS)—Losses to the American people from inadequate traffic control amount to more than $2,000,000,000 annually a report of the committee on measures for relief of traffic congestion of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, declared.

The report will be submitted to the National Conference which meets at Washington May 21 to 23. Secretary of Commerce Lamont chairman of the conference will preside. E. J. Mehren of Chicago chairman of the traffic committee made it public.

According to the report traffic congestion is not a necessary evil and may be eliminated to a great degree by far-sighted planning of streets and municipal zoning.

Inadequate planning and location of streets has had the effect of indiscriminate mingling of all types of traffic with consequent confusion and confusion, according to the report.

Lake Michigan Too Cold for Swimming

CHICAGO — (INS) — Lake Michigan is a very cold-hearted stepmother, mighty dame it seems.

Recently the mercury topped 85 degrees here. Naturally the bathing beach fever began in full volume but those who attempted to really cool themselves by swimming found Lake Michigan extremely cold for any muscular gyrations. So they had to be content with being not-so-cool.

This is the renting season. Have you located yet? If not, let the Classified Ads help you find your new home.

Girl Beats Record Despite Handicap

ST. LOUIS — (INS) — Airplane pilots who seek looping records should not take the trouble to stop and fill their wing tank with gasoline.

This seemed to be a fact today following an announcement here recently that Miss Laura Ingalls, former professional dancer in New York and lately licensed pilot lost credit for 66 loops when she established a world record here by performing 344 loops over Lambert Field. Miss Ingalls really made 410 loops it was revealed, but she was deprived of credit for all of them because she paused to fill her wing tank with gasoline during her maneuvers.

RICE KRISPIES Makes You Feel Like Yourself Again

How I coaxed him to eat!

"ONCE I was worried. Mealtime was getting on my nerves. I prepared many appetizing dishes, but John simply would not eat—just 'minced' at his food. Perhaps sometimes a little grouchy. I began to fear he was 'slipping.' What was I to do? Love, home, happiness, business success—all depended upon an improvement in his condition. The blood tonic idea suggested itself to me. My Druggist recommended S.S.S. He told me that S.S.S. was a great blood tonic; that it had been successful for over 100 years; that it was made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and was beneficial to the most delicate system. Also that it would build up the blood and improve the processes by which the body is nourished. I brought home a large size bottle. John agreed to try it. Well, in just a few days I could see the difference. His improvement has been so rapid he is going to take several more bottles, and not only that, but he is now telling his friends to take S.S.S."

It is a known fact that when a man's system gets "run-down," he hasn't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play. It is dangerous to let the red-blood-count remain below normal.

It is natural to expect, when you get your blood cells up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, and those skin troubles to disappear. You should get hungry again, sleep soundly, and firm flesh take the place of that which was once flabby. You should feel strong and your nerves become steady.

You owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S. Its tonic effects will surprise you.

S.S.S.

S.S.S. is daily helping people to regain their strength. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. It promotes a keen appetite, gives vitality to the body, clears the skin and wards off disease. All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical. © S.S.S. Co.

GERMANY CUTS ENVOYS' PAY

BERLIN, May 21.—(AP)—Germany has been applying the ax to her foreign representation budget with the result that a cut of $550,000 has been effected in the appropriations for 1930 out of a total of $5,420,000.

A new schedule fixes the salary for the ambassador in Washington, the highest salaried German diplomatic official abroad, at $42,500 a year. Ambassadors in London and Madrid come next with $36,250 each. Moscow draws $35,000 and Paris $30,000.

The highest paid minister is at Buenos Aires, $36,750, followed at long distance by the ministers in Peiping, $22,000, and Rio Janeiro, $21,750.

Fossil Fish With Hinge-Neck Like Man Found

NEW YORK, May 21.—(INS)—Discovery of a fish fossil with a "hinged" neck indicating a clue to man's evolution was discussed by scientists today. Finding of the fossil of the giant fish, the age of which was estimated at 200,000,000 years, near Buffalo, was related by Dr. Anatol Heintz, noted paleontologist of Oslo, Norway, before a meeting of the Society of Ichthyologists and Herpetologists.

The huge fish, known as the dinichthys, had in common with man a mechanism in the neck described as "hinges," Dr. Heintz said.

"The dinichthys of the Devonian age probably represented a transition of life on this planet from the reptilian to the mammalian stage," Dr. Heintz said.

DICKENS GROUP ENDS SESSIONS

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—(AP)—Reports from cities in Canada were a feature of the closing business meeting of the North American branches of the Dickens Fellowship. Vancouver, Winnipeg and Edmonton were the cities represented in the reports.

Mrs. C. L. Wilson, Pittsburgh, and Frank W. Hunt, Toronto, Canada, spoke at the session at which J. K. Thompson, of Philadelphia, presided. Members attending the convention visited Longwood Gardens, the estate of Pierre S. du Pont, near Kennett Square, and the closing dinner of the convention was held at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel last night.

NEW BUS LINE AT FRANKLIN

FRANKLIN, Pa., May 21.—A new bus service to Erie, via Oil City, Titusville and Union City, went into effect this week. Two buses will leave here in the morning, and two in the afternoon. At Titusville the line makes connections for Meadville, and also connects with buses for Edinboro, Cambridge Springs, Conneaut Lake and Greenville. At Union City connection is made with buses for Corry, Warren and Jamestown. And at Jamestown the passenger can proceed to Olean, Bradford and Salamanca.

Franklin is becoming the bus center of Northwestern Pennsylvania. The West Ridge Transportation Company of Erie is operating the new line from this city to Erie.

DENTISTS LOSE GOLD SUPPLIES

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 21.—Dental gold supplied loot in a series of robberies in this county. The office of Dr. L. B. Lutes in Washington was ransacked. All gold in the office was taken.

The office of Dr. P. G. Toothman, of Monongahela, was robbed while the dentist was out for dinner. All scrap gold had been disposed of a few days ago and the only loss was some gold solder and a small plate.

In Canonsburg, the office of Dr. W. F. Diffenderfer was entered through a rear window and gold valued at $150 was taken. An attempt to enter Dr. T. M. Boggs' office failed.

Gettysburg Vet, 94, Dies at Barnesville

BARNESVILLE, O., May 21.—William S. Hobbs, 94, veteran of the Civil War and former member of the Sixty-third Ohio Volunteer Infantry, which took part in the battle of Gettysburg, died at his home following a week's illness.

DYE TO REVEAL CANCER FOUND

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—(AP.)—Progress in the development of a dye that makes it possible to detect internal cancers in the early stages of their growth was announced last night by Dr. Donald A. C. Butts, director of Emery Laboratory, Hahnemann Hospital.

The discovery, he believes, provides a method of accurately detecting small cancerous growths and paves the way for prompt surgical removal or radium and X-ray treatment of cancers that have not spread too far.

The dye, which has been in secret use at the hospital for two years, is used at present only as an aid to early diagnosis, but further possibilities of the chemical are being studied.

Dr. Butts, who has devoted 13 years to cancer research, said injections of the dye, known at the laboratory as "E-47," are made directly into the veins of patients. The doses are small and are gently diluted or modified forms of the original chemical, which is a synthetic material of the xanthene dye group.

The dye, bright vermillion in color, has two special characteristics. It has a special affinity for the cells of cancerous growths, that is, these cells absorb the dye more quickly and completely than the normal body cells, which are virtually immune to its staining properties. Also its color makes the cancerous area loom up clearly on an X-ray photograph.

Technically, Dr. Butts explained, the dye increases the capacity or resistance to X-rays, of the cancer infected area, causing it to throw a definite shadow in the photograph.

VICE GROWING WITH RUM EVIL

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP.)—A report made public here by the Committee of Fourteen declared that commercialized vice in New York City "seemed" to have grown steadily, hand in hand with the "rapidly increasing speakeasy," since the low ebb of 1920.

The committee is a voluntary organization working for the prevention of organized crime and commercialized vice "through the elimination of character destroying influences."

The report pointed out that there were more arrests last year in the social evil than in any other year since the old days, with the exception of 1928, when there were 3,625. In 1920 there were only 1,583, and in 1929 there were 3,605. The committee said this slight decrease last year indicated that Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen "would seem" to have succeeded in stemming the tide of professional sin.

RADIO DOCTOR TERMED PERIL

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP.)—Dr. Hugh H. Young, of Johns Hopkins University, testified before the Federal Radio Commission that the broadcasting of prescriptions by physicians for unknown patients was a "great public danger."

Dr. Young appeared as an expert witness for the Commission at the hearing on complaints that Dr. John R. Brinkley, of Milford, Kans., who conducts a daily medical question box over station KFKB, had made statements contrary to the public interest. Representatives of the American Medical Association have urged the commission to revoke the license of the station.

Dr. Young said that in his opinion it would be practically impossible to make a scientifically accurate diagnosis without a physical examination and that he personally never would be willing to give "long distance" treatment for individual cases.

Counsel for KFKB introduced the affidavits of 1,200 listeners testifying to the high character of Brinkley's talks and the general popularity of the station. Several women who said they had paid their own expenses to come to Washington from Kansas and Nebraska to help Dr. Brinkley testified that the prescriptions had greatly benefited them.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications.

GRAF BRAVELY PLUNGES INTO PERIL ZONE

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND.
Radio Via Chatham, Mass.

ABOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN, En Route to Pernambuco, May 21. The Graf Zeppelin, after having its course changed twice, is now making its steady way through the night to the Cape Verde Islands.

We should easily pick up Pernambuco tomorrow before noon.

At 11:30 last night (7:30 Pittsburgh time) we were skirting the edge for a time and then boldly dashing into the shallow low pressure zone moving westward from Morocco.

MAKING GOOD TIME

The Graf Zeppelin covered 630 miles in the first 12 hours of the Seville to Pernambuco flight.

Dr. Eckener, finding he could not get around the depression and being unable to locate the lost trade winds, turned the Graf's nose directly into the low pressure zone and said:

"We'll buck through it."

Yesterday he changed his course from the Canary Islands to the Madeiras but in the afternoon whirled back again.

SALUTE STEAMSHIPS

At 9 o'clock last night we were heading for Santa Cruz de Tenerife, Canary Islands. We were flying 800 feet above the smooth Atlantic with the weather good except for varying contrary winds.

At 7:10 p. m. we passed over the British steamer Nigeria which saluted with its ensign and dipped the Union Jack three times. The Graf acknowledged by bowing its nose three times.

The motors are working smoothly. All day the Atlantic slipped away level more than 1,000 feet beneath us. Mists limited the horizon. The ship was steady and the passengers lolled about at ease.

Dr. Eckener presided at table with the usual dignity. Prince Alfonso was one of his guests.

RADIO FROM KING

Soon after leaving the Spanish coast Prince Alfonso received a message from King Alfonso wishing Dr. Eckener, the passengers and the ship fair winds and a good voyage.

We sighted the glorious Atlantic on the Graf Zeppelin's sixth crossing of that great ocean less than an hour after we had said goodby to Seville.

The tri-motored Junkers plane, with six German newspaper correspondents aboard, which had accompanied us, turned back after waving us Godspeed.

"All board for South America! Pernambuco next stop Thursday morning."

Captain Von Schiller, standing at the Zep's gangplank, so called to the passengers yesterday. Our air argonauts were on the ground promptly when the big bus drove alongside the mooring mast.

Dr. Eckener smiled at our promptness.

It was an ideal day. It is difficult to believe that on Thursday we shall be in South America.

The passengers reflect no excitement, some even affect to be blase, although we are on another epochal flight that is to bring Europe within two days of South America.

Mrs. Sturges Given Divorce in Paris

PARIS, May 20.—(Universal).—Mrs. Olivia Wheeler Sturges, of Baltimore, has been granted a divorce from Thomas Rush Sturges, of Boston, it was disclosed today.

So in the courts here ended a marriage which, barely four and a half years ago, was a genuine social event of the season, joining together as it did the two well-known families of the Walter Knight Sturgeses, of Boston, and the J. H. Wheelers, of Baltimore. The civil separation was granted on the grounds of desertion.

Dancer Travels 13 Blocks on Her Toes

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP).—Mary Rizzo, dancer, seems to have done something nobody ever did before. She moved on her toes down Broadway for 13 blocks.

Practical and Attractive House Dress

Pattern 1931

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

A model so easy to make and so very becoming to wear could be developed in any number of fabrics and colors. Tucks at the shoulders and waistline give ample ease, and a shapely collar adds a smart touch. The sash is joined under a tuck to simulate a slashed effect and there are large, useful pockets.

Pattern 1931 would be fresh and crisp made of gingham, percale, pongee, cotton broadcloth, pique or rayon. Tiny colorful designs on white or pastel grounds are charming to wear about the home.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 36-inch material.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our PATTERN BOOK of NEW SPRING and SUMMER STYLES is FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West 17th street, New York City.

1.—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.
4.—If you want SUN-TELEGRAPH Style Book send 10c extra.
5—Address your request to

2 MARYS DENY FILM LESSONS

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 21.—(INS.)—Mary Pickford and Mary Carr, motion picture actresses, have denied that they had ever attended a motion picture school operated by U. M. Bailey and V. M. Barnett, who, it is alleged told pupils they were responsible for the success of many prominent stars. The school operators are being tried on 11 grand theft charges.

Other witnesses testified they had paid amounts ranging from $200 to $1,000 for instruction in acting in the school operated by the defendants.

Son's Rum Plea Fails to Save Mother

ERIE, Pa., May 21.—(AP.)—Andrew Takar, '20, attempted to plead guilty in court to violation of the prohibition laws in an effort to shield his mother, Mrs. Bertha Takar, 55. The mother was brought into court by a state policeman and was sentenced to 10 days in jail and fined $300 and costs.

Corporation Head Makes Hole-in-One

SAN FRANCISCO.—(INS.)—M. Lee Marshall, chairman of the board of directors of the Continental Baking Corporation, New York, made a hole-in-one on the Sequoyah Club links here.

CHICAGO STOCK BROKER SLAIN

KENTLAND, Ind., May 21.—(INS.)—The body of William Simons, well-known Chicago broker and for 20 years a member of the Chicago Board of Trade, was found in a highway three miles north of here late yesterday, shot twice in the back of the head and once below the heart.

Sheriff's forces, after a preliminary investigation, said Simon had been murdered, apparently a short time after he left his residence here to board a bus for Chicago. Police pointed out that $21 was found in Simon's pockets and discounted robbery as a motive.

It was believed the broker might have been shot by someone in revenge for a market loss suffered through his office.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

COL. CHARLES A. LINDBERGH'S heroic flight to Paris three years ago this month will be celebrated by the Mobiloil Orchestra of 55 pieces on WCAE at 8:30 tonight. Del Staigers, cornet soloist of the Goldman Band, will play a concert polka entitled "Soaring." Symbolic of Lindbergh pushing across the Atlantic in his little cabin monoplane, "The Spirit of St. Louis," Staigers will offer a muted trumpet selection of Dennis' "Mystery of Night." Other selections of an air-minded nature will be "Skyward" and "Flight."

Eddie Rickenbacher

Edward Vernon "Eddie" Rickenbacker, celebrated war ace and auto racer, will describe the thrills which always characterize the Indianapolis Speedway classic when Grantland Rice interviews him for Coca Cola, WCAE, at 10:30.

The Welcome to WPG" over WJAS at 10 o'clock will celebrate the addition of that station to thes Columbia System. An elaborate program will originate in three different cities.

". . . and please play Rudy Vallee's 'Steam Song.'" importuned a KQV fan not long ago.

Their leader, Frederick Schmadel, Jr., composed "That's Why I Love You" for the Pitt show last year . . . he's only 24 . . . and Harry Baker plays a tenor and an alto "sax" at the same time.

Jo Tyler is to take a 40-piece Masonic Band to Indianapolis June 16 for a national gathering of the fraternity.

Elevator boys, janitors, night watchmen announcers and operators take part in radio studio parties given by Will Rogers out West.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

Under the windows of WJAS studios a hurdy-gurdy man stopped to pick up a few coins from passersby. A cop told him he was too near the broadcasting plant. "Sura ting," he replied, "Guda musish up there, too."

MacDonald Accepts Mosley's Withdrawal

LONDON, May 21.—(INS.)—Premier J. Ramsey MacDonald last night accepted the resignation of Sir Oswalt Mosley from the Cabinet, according to the Daily Telegraph. Sir Oswald, one of the wealthiest members of the British Labor Party, was said to have resigned becase his memorandum suggesting a remedy for unemployment was rejected.

It was understood in well-informed circles that Maj Attlee is considered a possible successor to the post.

All Healing Is Done Through the Blood Stream

A patient does one of two things after a disease process has invaded his system. Either he recovers or else he succumbs to the disease, (Chronic Stage).

There is no treatment that can have a healing effect until it reaches the blood. To strengthen the power of it—to make it nearly perfect as possible must be the basis of all treatment. No matter how radical may be the advocates of any particular science or mode of healing, there is the one great common premise which every system of treatment must acknowledge, and that basic element is THE BLOOD.

By administering BLOOD CELL PROTEIN SERUMS directly into the blood stream, their healing virtues are not lost. A great truth comes into view, and that is, intravenous therapy is fast becoming one of the prime autocrats of medicine. A method that is scientific while the results are more certain.

BLOOD CELL PROTEIN SERUMS affect not only one organ, but have a corrective influence on every part of the body. One serum frequently gives relief. Chronic and obstinate diseases often readily yield to the action of BLOOD CELL PROTEIN SERUMS.

We invite you to call for a free consultation, no matter what your ailment is. No doctor charges. Patients pay for the serums only. We are successfully treating Anemia, Asthma, Rheumatism, Kidney and Stomach trouble, High Blood Pressure, Neuritis, Varicose Veins. All Skin Diseases yield quickly. Laboratory Examination Free. Come and talk to the patients. Results are what you want.

"Nerves Shattered, Run-Down and Depressed. Almost Overnight Flaxolyn Brought Me a New Grip on Health!"

Says Merle Snyder, of Pittsburgh

Mr. Merle Snyder, 22 Isabella St., Pittsburgh

"Flaxolyn Certainly Is Wonderful"

If your nerves are frayed and you feel all tired out; if you suffer from a nervous indigestion that upsets you and causes gas, bloating and belching, you will be interested in the case of Mr. Snyder, a popular Pittsburgher.

Headaches and Acid Stomach Corrected

"I have been bothered constantly by the most miserable constipation. It has drawn me down and brought on spells of headaches and sourness that have been awful at times. My food would stay in my stomach like a lump; I would get nervous attacks and fits of gloom. I have used Flaxolyn but a short time and I certainly do feel like an entirely different person. I am in perfect health and am always cheerful and happy. Flaxolyn is a wonderful tonic."

What Is In Flaxolyn?

Flaxolyn is a safe, harmless compound of medicaments which have the approval of the highest authorities. In Flaxolyn there are many of the good old-fashioned herbs, including: Licorice Roots from Spain, Sarsaparilla Roots that come from Mexico and South America, Chinese Rhubarb, Buchu Leaves from South Africa, West Indian Ginger, Belgian Valerian and other seeds, roots, barks and berries.

Brings the Beauty of a Flawless Skin

Miss Anne MacThomas who has just found that it pays to

Take Flaxolyn for Healthy Color

Do you want a more beautiful skin right away?—a skin that sparkles with the rugged glow of natural health? Then, do as this Pittsburgh young woman did—give your system the benefits of Herbal Flaxolyn.

"Flaxolyn enriched my health and cleared up my skin marvelously. Words fail to describe what a big general improvement in health I have gained through Flaxolyn."

Flaxolyn clears away the impurities that so often keep the skin sallow, yellowy and dull."

Stomach Gas, Constipation Headaches, Rheumatic Pains, Acid-Dyspepsia, Liver Torpidity Are But a Few of the Conditions Which Respond to the Healthful Influence of Flaxolyn.

According to Reports from Users Right Here

Flaxolyn is widely recommended by doctors from Coast to Coast, because it can be depended upon to keep you feeling fit. All the constipated waste, toxic gases and sour bile are swept out of the lower intestines without griping, because Flaxolyn is natural.

There will be no poisons to invite colds, influenza, sick headaches, sleeplessness, fatigue, biliousness, dizziness or that terribly "washed-out" feeling on rising in the morning.

Don't wait. Try Flaxolyn without delay and you will be promptly impressed with your splendid improvement in health and appearance. If, by any chance, you are NOT satisfied, just return the partly-used bottle to your druggist and get your money back.

CHURCH BAN ON STRIKERS ENDS

MARION, N. C., May 21.—(AP.)—In contrast to turbulent scenes last summer when strikers and county law enforcement officers clashed in mill villages here, 16 persons dismissed from the East Marion Baptist Church because, they said, they were members of a union, have been reinstated.

Dismissal of the members, on charges other than belonging to a union, according to church officials, followed riots in the Clinchfield and East Marion mill villages. Six men were killed and more than 30 persons wounded in a clash at the gates of the Marion Manufacturing Company early one morning.

The announcement of the reinstatement said the members were restored May 18 as church members in good standing, without their consent or request.

FRAUD WITNESS HITS MINE

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP.)—A geologist, appearing as a government witness in the second trial of Charles Beadon and six other defendants for mail fraud, testified in Federal Court that although the Utah Lead Company's mine at Marysville, Utah, was a good prospect half a century ago, he had examined it last summer and found it "worked out."

The witness, John W. Finch, said one section of the mine which the defendants had advertised as "producing ore worth $60 a ton," actually could produce ore worth only from a few cents to $5.73 a ton.

Finch admitted under cross examination by Michael Barnett, president of the lead company and one of the defendants, who is acting as his own counsel, that he found ore in another part of the mine worth $26 a ton.

Judge Knox, who is hearing the trial with a jury, reserved decision on a motion to set aside the conviction of Joseph Shalleck for conspiracy to bribe a juror in the first trial of the lead case.

CHURCH FAVORS BIRTH CONTROL

BOSTON, May 21.—(AP.)—Delegates to the annual meeting of the American Unitarian Association adopted a resolution favoring birth control "that they may support all reasonable efforts in their communities for the promotion of the birth control movement." There were only a few dissenting voices.

The resolution was presented by Dr. Minot Simons, of New York, who made an impassioned plea for its adoption and urged the delegates to work intensively to eliminate opposition to the movement. Dr. Simons said:

"Birth control is here. It is among the well to do and not the ill to do who need it most. It is not here in the way where the question of the health of the mother and child might be determine. by inform tion given through proper channels."

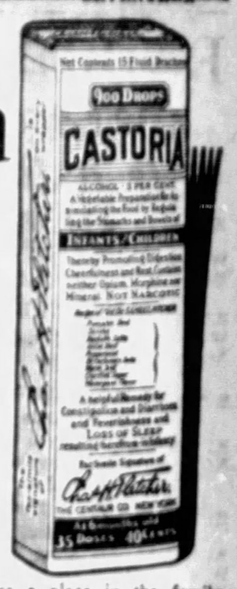
Children Cry for it



Children hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria. And this pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes; just as bland and harmless as the recipe reads. (The wrapper tells you just what Castoria contains.)

When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed, asleep again in a jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea. When coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, invoke its gentle aid to cleanse and regulate a child's bowels. In colds or children's diseases, use it to keep the system from clogging. Your doctor will tell you Castoria deserves a place in the family medicine cabinet until your child is grown. He knows it is safe for the tiniest baby; effective for a boy in his teens. With this special children's remedy handy, you need never risk giving a boy or girl medicine meant for grown-ups.

Weaver Refuses To Oppose Norris

LINCOLN, Neb., May 21.—(AP.)—Gov. Arthur J. Weaver will not be an opponent of Senator George W. Norris in the forthcoming Nebraska primaries. He made this clear today when announcing his decision to be a candidate for re-election.

For weeks the Governor's name had been linked with the senatorial contest as the candidate of the Nebraska "Regular" Republicans who are seeking to defeat Norris.

KONJOLA PROVES DEADLY FOE TO DREAD NEURITIS

Other Ills, Too, Yield to New and Different Medicine—All Else Tried Failed.

Here is abundant cheer and hope for all who suffer from neuritis and who may fear that there is no relief from the pangs of this dread disease. Konjola, the new and different medicine, is daily winning victory after victory over this ailment.

MRS. MARY SCHLEGEL

At the same time Konjola is supreme in the obstinate cases of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel trouble and of rheumatism and nervousness. Every sufferer wants to get well, and, surprising as it may seem, Konjola is at the very peak of its powers in those cases that have defied and resisted all other medicines and treatments tried. Would you not like to know all about this remarkable medicine? You can get all the facts about this super-remedy from the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh. He has a message of cheer and hope. Why not profit by the experiences of others? Take, as a typical example of Konjola at work, the case of Mrs. Mary Schlegel, 1305 Hilldale avenue, South Hills, Pittsburgh, who said to the Konjola Man:

"If only I had taken Konjola in the first place, think of the suffering and distress I would have escaped. A complication of ailments made my life miserable. Stomach trouble, neuritis and nervousness were the bane of my life. I could not eat a meal without suffering afterward. Naturally I lost all desire for food. Then the neuritis pains became so severe that they were almost unbearable. Day and night they pierced my body. Nervousness was the natural result and as medicines failed to benefit me, I was at a loss to know what to do for myself.

"One day I read how Konjola had benefited a lady with ailments the same as mine. I dared not hope for too much, and yet I could not allow this chance for betterment to slip by. So I secured several bottles and started the treatment. That was the turning point. Konjola worked wonders that I thought impossible. Daily my condition improved. My nerves were calmed and settled; my digestion was restored and the neuritis pains were swept away. They have never returned and I can hardly realize I am the same person. Glorious, indeed, was the health Konjola gave me. No words of mine can express my praise and gratitude.

"Is it not logical to believe that what Konjola did for Mrs. Schlegel, as well as for thousands of others, it will do for you—for everyone?

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine.

ABOUT PLAYERS AND EVENTS IN HOLLYWOOD AND PITTSBURGH

By GEORGE SEIBEL

THE STRANGEST dramatic creation Pittsburgh has ever seen was unfolded last night at the Playhouse of the Y. M. & W. H. A. and held an overflowing audience spellbound until long past midnight. It was "The Legend of the Golem," the author of it is Boris S. Glagolin, and it is a fantastic composite of mystery and miracle play, medieval chronicle and rabbinical lore, ritual of church and synagogue, Symbolism, Delsarte and Satire.

George Seibel

Have you ever seen a volcanic landscape—craters, lava, rocks of basalt, skies of sulphur? Most of the time this strange dramatic composition resembled such a Dantean dream.

Glagolin has taken the old legend of the Golem, a giant made of clay by a wise rabbi of Prague and endued with life by kabbalistic magic, and turned it into a weird chronicle, full of tortured symbolism, veiled philosophy and shadowy poetry.

The method he has used he called Constructivism, which is merely a name. The thing he has achieved is an impressive phantasmagoria in which William Blake and Albrecht Duerer might have collaborated with Epstein, Matisse and Schoenberg.

ALWAYS SOMETHING DOING

There is not a moment when the action is not going forward, and sometimes two or three actions are going on at the same time. While the center stage is filled with flesh and blood characters, shadow silhouettes are playing their part on screens at right and left. As the scenes are changing two clowns, who have real Shakespearean blood in their veins, play interludes and discuss the play with each other and with the audience. These clowns were interpreted excellently by Philip Greenwood and Alfred Smith.

But the really impressive acting of the production was done by Milton Brauman as Rabbi Judah and by Jacques LeVine as the Golem. The scene where the Rabbi awakes the Golem to life and the scene in which he exercises him into dead clay once more were powerfully effective episodes of drama.

Nor could anything be imagined more poetic than Sheba Strunsky's interpretation of Deborah, the Rabbi's daughter. The palpitating grace of her movements and the passionate sweetness of her voices were like a vision of Botticelli across Lear's blasted heath.

GREAT STAGE MANAGEMENT

To single out specific performances appears almost impossible as great stage management had welded the thing into almost perfect harmony. No doubt Glagolin has the unwearying Helen Stout to thank for this just as the resourceful Frank Stout must have conjured up all those rocks and other pieces of landscape and architecture.

Music too had its part in the charivari, or tohuwabohu or whatever term may describe it best, and Elizabeth Spear Levy had provided appropriate organ accompaniment which she also played with sympathetic touch.

In a dozen different ways various people had collaborated to bring about the perfect precision of the performance—what intelligent patience must have been required, for example, to direct the children's scenes that went so spontaneously!

Everything is different, weird, strange. Even the curtain does not rise on the drama—it is lowered to reveal the stage.

Boris S. Glagolin has produced a work of titanic force. It is like reading the Talmud by flashes of lightning. It is like unveiling a canvas of El Greco to music by Richard Strauss.

Gold Star Mothers Invited to Picture

An invitation is extended to every Gold Star mother in Western Pennsylvania to view the war film "Journey's End" now being presented in the R-K-O Sheridan Square. The invitation is extended by the theater management. Gold Star mothers are requested to send in their names and addresses to Gold Star Mother Committee, care of the theater and a special invitation will be mailed to them.

Free Circus for Children of Hospital

Youngsters at the Children's Hospital are to have a treat Thursday afternoon, when Rubin Gruberg, president of the Rubin and Cherry shows, playing a two weeks' engagement at old Exposition Park, is sending out a number of entertainers to stage a circus at the hospital.

The performers will include the Ritter midgets, a family of 10 tiny men and women; "Silver King," star dog of the screen; Hawaiian native musicians and singers, Col. Jim Eskew's Wild West and Rodeo, "Alpine," Florida's fat girl; George Laidlaw, magician; John Fingerhut's circus band, clowns and everything that goes to make up a circus performance. The show will take place on the lawn, and the youngsters will be wheeled out on to the spacious porches to witness the fun.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

Boomerang

A year ago some glamour that I had Made you a docile and submissive slave;
I know I was a harum-scarum lad
Who couldn't conjugate the verb "behave."

I courted Bacchus—spurned fidelity
And minimized the power of your charms,
But you dismissed the vagrant streak in me
And made your haven my unwilling arms.

Now times have changed—a model male am I
Who asks for nothing more than you alone,
But debonair and cool you pass me by
And place another lad upon my throne;

I wonder if this game, propriety,
Is everything that it's cracked up to be!
—Brooke Edison.

Nifty

Bert Halon's best quip in an age deals with the two Chocolate Drops who were engaged in a verbal battle.

"Boy," threatened the first, "Ah'se goin' to lose mah head in a minute and bust you right in yo' mouth!"

"Brother," drawled the other, "wot you means to say is that you is goin' to bust me in mah mouth and THEN LOSE yo' haid!"

A Form of Criticism

"Howz Frank Fay doing out there?" asked Conrad.

"Very good," was the retort, but not nearly so good as he thinks he's doing."

And They Hang Pictures!

Grace Brinkley, one of the eyefuls in the "Flying High" show, heard it with her own rouged ears. A chorus girl had been in one of those mental tests sponsored by the press agents of shows and girl colleges. During the test the score-keeper said:

"And now we will go into mathematics."

"Oooh, gee," the chorus chump chirped to a chum. "Here's where they make a fool out of me. I'm very bad on fractures."

Wotta Racket!

Speaking of mathematics, a certain night club operator remarked that two customers who remained in his place a half-hour had to pay a bill of $6.85. He explained:

"Two couvert charges at $2 each makes $4. Two bottles of White Rock at $1.25 each makes $2.50, and then there is the five per cent war tax of 35 cents, making a grand total of $6.85."

"That's an easy way of making a living," we remarked. "But why do you charge five per cent war tax when the government only demands three?"

Oop!

The new Casanova Roof reopened the other midnight and La Guinan was among the "honored" guests. A columnist cornered her to catch her flippancies but a drunk kept interrupting:

"Lissen," growled the paragrapher at the disturber. "Please stop talking, I came here to pay my respects to this show."

Novelette

One of the Sixty-ninth Regiment's greatest heroes was being discussed again. He cornered over 25 Germans single-handed, for which he was decorated by the Allies, and America weighted him down with every medal it offers to its men who distinguish themselves in action. But these decorations do not pay the landlord, the baker, the butcher and the other creditors.

Every time a new President is inaugurated, Washington sends for this great hero. He has his picture taken alongside the nation's chief. Then they forget him for another four years. They have promised to vote on a pension for him, but it appears that a Congressman's promises are like a Broadway manager's.

In fewer words, this hero, who has been experiencing nothing but bitter breaks, is frequently handed ten and twenty-dollar bills by local members of the underworld (most of whom fought the war with him), because they know if they fail him he will be forced to solicit alms.

By Way of Report

Among other things most of us never knew till now is that in Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer" (written more than 150 years ago) people who got tight, fried, boiled or stewed on liquor "got a skinful." In the Goldsmith play Tony Lumpkin sang:

When serious preachers come down
A-preaching that drinking is sinful,
I'll wager the rascals a crown
They always preach best with a skinful.

Theory

Cinema executives were grouped in a restaurant, and, of course, they chinned about their flicker stars. One of them explained why a certain star's more recent pictures were not outstanding successes. "We paid millions to take him from the stage to the screen," said the exec, "but we didn't cash in on him as we anticipated. The reason he didn't click in the sensational manner at the box office is that for many years he won his reputation by making people laugh, but since changing to the screen, he wants to make people cry."

Of All Things!

A benefit performance was given at the Liberty Theater, and the Warner Brothers contributed a new "short" featuring the American Flag in technicolor. The programs announced in this manner: "The Star-Spangled Banner—By courtesy of the Warner Brothers"!!!

Boys Will Be Bores

Harry Bestry was boasting of his golf game in the Apollo Theater lobby. He was accompanied by one of his yes-men, who chimed in with: "Oh, yeah, Bestry plays a terrific game. Why he broke an 80 yesterday. What does George White break?"

To which White's lawyer, Abe Berman, replied: "He will break Bestry's nose if he hears him boasting of an eighty!"

Life Is Earnest

Pish, tush! Even Prisco will tell you that no old (or young) maid's bed is high enough for a columnist to hide his big head!

Things That Knock Me Cold

"Some day Winchell will speak of an engaged couple as being 'on the merge'—Judge."

Exhibit of Whale Opens Here Monday

Colossus, a 70 ton embalmed whale from the Pacific Ocean, in which it lived a few months ago, will be exhibited on a specially constructed car on the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks, between Tenth and Eleventh streets, across from the Fort Pitt Hotel, for a week, beginning Monday. This monster, accompanied by other specimens of deep-sea life, is on tour under the auspices of the Pacific Whaling Company, of Long Beach, Cal.

Girls' Harmonica Band to Broadcast

A musical broadcast will be presented by the Girls' Harmonica Band of the Penn Avenue Public School during "Cousin Lora's Hour" of station WCAE, Gimbels, Friday, May 23. A trio of boys from the boys' band will also take part in the festivity.

Dick Leibert Out Of Penn Program

Dick Leibert, Penn organist, who returned to that theater last Friday after an illness of several weeks, again is absent. He is said to have suffered a minor accident. His absence is temporary.

LIBBY-OWENS MERGER VOTED

TOLEDO, O., May 21.—(AP)—Merger of the Libbey-Owens Glass Company and the Edward Ford Plate Glass Company was formally ratified yesterday by a special meeting of the Libbey-Owens Glass Company shareholders. Approval was voted of the proposed name for the new organization, the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company. New directors elected were J. B. Ford, of Detroit, and George R. Ford and G. P. MacMichael, Jr., of Toledo.

The new company will operate six plants in the United States. The company, with a combined value of its securities aggregating over $50,000,000, is now one of the largest manufacturers of plate and window glass in the world.

Good Will Industries To Stage Operetta

The annual exhibition of children's work of the Goodwill Industries will be held today and tomorrow in the Goodwill gymnasium, 2601-17 Liberty avenue. In connection with the exhibition, an operetta, "Cinderella," will be given each evening by a company of small girls who have been studying music, voice culture and dramatic art.

Dorothy Mackaill Leaves Studio She Has Been With Five Years

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.

After five years with First National Pictures, during the course of which she weathered several drastic executive personnel changes, Dorothy Mackaill concludes her contract with that company in July. My memory (never of the best) has caromed me into so many blunders lately that I hesitate to state as a fact that Dorothy's first big success for First National was in "Chickie," I think so, anyway.

She rose to stardom in short order after this film and has managed to keep stellar balance despite the talkies. Dorothy's future plans are in mid-air. In all likelihood, after her contract expires she will sign with another company and then board a train enroute to London, via New York.

Dorothy Mackaill

The Mackaill hasn't been east in three years. Every time she figured herself set for the trip, the studio decreed otherwise and as she signed a straight 52 week contract she took orders 52 weeks a year from the studio. The average contract is 40 weeks a year. The idle 12 weeks sees a player either traipsing Europewards or enjoying himself in some other chosen locale. But Dorothy for the most part, has had to be content with rare trips to Honolulu. Most of these saw her spend only six days there and then sail home to the grease paint.

A PRIVATE SWIM

Of course, she may be wrong. But my informant says she and a friend motored to the beach Beyond Malibu. Beyond Zuma. To a spot where there would be no trespassing. There, they went in for a swim. Pretty soon, along purred a Rolls Royce limousine. Stopped. The chauffeur jumped out. Dragged a tent after him. Set it up on the sand. Returned to the car. Opened the door. Out stepped two children and a woman reported to be Gloria Swanson.

Gloria Swanson

The children went into the tent. They exited in swimming suits. Pretty soon, Miss Swanson exited also in swimming suit. Into the water. A merry time. Back to the tent. Into clothes. To the car. The chauffeur folded up the tent. Placed it in the car. Took the wheel. Turned. And headed for Hollywood.

Now that is what you call an attempt at private swimming in the Pacific . . .

WEDDING PRESENT

Sh-h-h-h, latest whisper. That Producer Howard Hughes' wedding present to Ben Lyon is the release May 27 (premier here) of "Hell's Angels!" Ben worked in this flick two years. He marries Bebe Daniels, June 14. With "Hell's Angels" blowing here on the twenty-seventh, it does look like Hughes' wedding gift. Darn subtle (?) these producers. . . .

The safe and insane rumor route brings static to mine ears which clears sufficiently for me to tune in on the ah-ha that Ann Harding is wanted for the leading fem role of Sabra in "Cimarron." RKO is going to make this Edna Ferber romance, U know, with Richard Dix as Hero Yanci. Miss Harding is very much in demand these days. Maybe her own company (Pathe) can spare her. Maybe not.

ALUMINUM TEST PLANT OPENED

The new building housing the Aluminum Company of America's $1,000,000 research laboratories at New Kensington, was opened for public inspection yesterday, Roy A. Hunt, president of the company, headed a group of officials who explained workings of the new unit to visitors.

The building contains 56,000 feet of floor space, and is equipped with the latest devices for testing new products. Dr. F. C. Frary, director, and J. D. Edwards and H. E. Bakken will direct the activities of 150 research experts making up the staff.

FAVOR CHICAGO IN WATER WAR

WASHINGTON, May 21 (INS.)—Chicago scored another point against the Great Lakes states opposed to the diversion of water from Lake Michigan when the Senate Commerce Committee late last night, by a vote of 10 to 8, refused to accept proposals limiting the diversion in the Illinois waterway to 1,500 cubic feet per second.

Instead, the committee voted for operation of the waterway "with the smallest amount of diversion possible in the development of a commercially useful waterway," as adopted in the measure, adopted by the House.

Lakes states senators, led by Senator Vandenberg (Rep.) of Michigan, are expected to fight the provision when the bill is brought into the Senate.

Under the terms of the Illinois item in the omnibus rivers and harbors bill the Federal government is authorized to expend $7,500,000 for the acquisition and completion of the state link of a nine-foot channel from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico.

BAKER TO GET TERM FRIDAY

NEW YORK, May 21.—(INS.)—"Texas Jim" Baker, 23-year-old roustabout, who claims to have murdered 10 persons for the adventure of it, yesterday was permitted to plead guilty to second degree murder in connection with the poison slaying of Henry Gaw, a night watchman in the Guggenheim Laboratory here.

Baker will be sentenced Friday and faces imprisonment of from 20 years to life.

State and defense attorneys agreed that Baker was morally and medically insane. His plea of second degree murder came suddenly in the midst of his trial for the murder of Gaw.

Baker was arrested in Detroit and admitted killing Gaw by sticking a revolver with poison on the end down the watchman's throat.

Rail Executive College Speaker

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., May 21.—William H. Coverdale, president of the board of the Seaboard Air Line and an alumnus of Geneva College, will deliver the commencement address June 3 when a class of 83 will receive diplomas. Ground will also be broken for the new gymnasium on that day. The senior class play will be presented May 29.

Memorial Day the tri-state track and field meet will be held at Reeves Stadium.

Hit-Run Suspect, Long Missing, Held

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., May 21.—After a six-months search by State police, Harrison Edwards, Jr., a Negro coal miner of Kilarm, was jailed here this morning as a hit-and-run driver, charged with murder. He was arrested at Kilarm.

Officers say he confessed to being the driver of a car that sideswiped another automobile last Thanksgiving Day in the state highway near Erie and killed Socrates Crites, 60, of Clarksburg, and injured his wife.

Honolulu Population Shows Big Increase

HONOLULU, May 21.—(AP.)—The population of the city of Honolulu was announced as 138,600, an increase of 66.51 per cent. The city and county of Honolulu, including all of the island of Oahu, has a population of 204,000, an increase of 65 per cent.

Midway Island, which is a part of Honolulu County although 150 miles distant, has a population of 36. Midway is a cable station mounted on a coral atoll.

Van Loan, Writer, Sues for Divorce

LOS ANGELES, May 21.—(AP.)—H. H. Van Loan, widely-known fiction writer, has filed suit for divorce. He and his wife have been separated nine years. He accused Mrs. Van Loan of undue attentions to other men and with refusing to maintain a home for himself and their 12-year-old daughter, Gertrude. The couple were married in New York City, May 20, 1916.

10 FACE ELECTION ROW PROSECUTION

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

A. B. McSwigan, the president of Kennywood Park, satisfies our passion for statistics on children lost at picnics. Ninety-two per cent of these temporary waifs can be comforted with a lollypop. Twelve per cent will give their first names, but not their last names. Twenty-one per cent of all lost children have yellow curls. Four per cent of the lost kiddies will cry until they are claimed by their parents. All this totals 129 per cent, and we want to thank the management of Kennywood Park, whose slogan is: "Lose your kiddies here."

Sir:

I was reading that fellow McIntyre the other day and I see where he talks about himself, which is what most columnists do. And I wonder if you would be interested in a few facts about me.

I have my hair cut once a month and I eat three meals a day. When my appendix bothers me I go to the doctor. I always go to bed at night and get up in the morning. When I ride the street cars I put a chip in the box. I do not go to church on Monday, but I do go on Sunday. It is a peculiar fact that I cannot write with a pencil whose point is broken. In the morning I read the morning paper and in the evening I read the evening paper. I am deathly afraid of a train and when I am driving over railroad crossings I always stop and wait rather than cross while the train is passing. In the winter I wear an overcoat, in the summer I drink iced tea. I always remove my hat when I'm introduced to a woman, but I cannot speak Chinese.

ELIM WHEEL.

How it got here we don't know, but we find before us a copy of the list of art supplies ordered for the Jackson School in Bellevue. This is an unexpected treat, enjoyed, we'll bet, by no other column writer in this country. Casting an analytical eye over its contents, we discover that five gross of brown crayon refills were ordered, against four gross of orange crayon refills. Of purple only three refills were needed. Under the heading Tone H (plate violet), 12x18, we find four packages. Can any other school match this record?

One of the trusted spies of this department is Frank Shenkel, the demon watchdog of Central Police Station. His latest contribution concerns the cabbage plant.

It seems that cabbage is the popular food of the amateur gardener, but that there are difficulties in raising the stuff. The deadly cabbage bug usually gets in its work and the amateur farmer's efforts are of no avail.

Well, Mr. Shenkel has found a tricky but dependable cure for the cabbage bug. This, if you are an amateur farmer, is what you should do:

(1) Spread ordinary flour on the cabbage plant at night.

(2) Sleep soundly during the night while the deadly cabbage bug romps over the flour-covered cabbage plant.

(3) The next morning dress, eat a hearty breakfast, visit your cabbage plant and discover that the flour, dampened by the dew, has caught the cabbage bug in its clutches.

(4) Trip from cabbage plant to cabbage plant pushing off the late cabbage bugs with a stick!

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 21.

See where the church freed Bishop Cannon for plunging on Wall street. They figured that a man's losses were punishment enough. Imagine a preacher having to wait till the deacons come in with the collection box to see if he could buy United States Steel, or just Bluejay corn plaster. The church has asked him and any others to stop it; you can't save souls and margins, too.

During the crisis last fall the bishop might have had one eye on the text, but I bet the other was on a ticker. Yours,

WILL.

CHURCH UNITY PLAN URGED BY PEPPER

Union Without Demand for Creed Uniformity Seen as Hope at Joint Dinner

A plan whereby Christian churches of the world may cling to a unity in Christ through the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, without demanding of them all a uniformity of creed and organization, was advanced by George Wharton Pepper, Philadelphia attorney, who spoke last night to 600 or more Presbyterians and Episcopalians in the William Penn Hotel.

The dinner, which presented the former United States senator as its only speaker, was held by the Church Club of the Episcopal Diocese of Pittsburgh, and the Ruling Elders' Association of the Pittsburgh Presbytery. John W. Chalfant presided.

LIKENED TO BUSINESS

Likening the structure of Christianity to the various forms of business, Pepper drew analogies in church structures to those of "tenants in common," in which each individual's acts bind only himself; "partnership," in which the act of one binds the other partner; "corporation," in which the acts of official representatives are the only valid ones.

He visualized the little group of 120 Disciples of Christ following the ascension, and reconstructed their debates as to what form of representation, what organization-structure they would have chosen.

HOPE OF UNITY

"Strangely," he said, "the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper that was intended to be the sacrament of unity turned out to be the storm center of the controversy. Nobody in his right mind would attempt to force the church units into uniformity. But it is essential that it be the sacrament of unity. Our differences over it have caused many other differences. May we hope that we cannot be irritated by the other man's viewpoint. On this we may hinge our hope of unity."

TRIPS ON ROPE, $35,000 ASKED

Alleging that she was tripped on a rope and hurt, Mauro Gentile and his wife, Maggie Gentile, have brought suit against two Pittsburgh business concerns for $35,000 damage for injuries sustained by Mrs. Gentile.

The defendants to the suit are Nathan Rice, trading as the N. Rice Cigar Co., and Louise Boreman, trading as Boreman's Drug Store, the action being for $10,000 and $25,000 respectively.

It is averred that on June 24, 1929, Mrs. Gentile was walking along Stanwix street at Liberty avenue, when the defendants were engaged in pulling some merchandise out of the Boreman cellar by rope. She was told to cross the rope, but as she did so, it was given a sudden jerk and she fell to the sidewalk, spraining her right wrist and injuring her left side.

BOY LOSES LEG, $65,000 ASKED

The boy, Wendell, aged 11, was waiting for a car at the end of a private right of way at Hillmore avenue and Cemetery lane, Ross Township, January 3, as a car, to which was attached a trailer, came along. The platform, maintained on the private right of way, gave way and Wollemar was precipitated under the wheels of the trailer. In addition to his left leg being so badly crushed, it had to be amputated, the right leg also was fractured.

The father asks $15,000 for expenses and the likelihood of being deprived of the boy's aid and $50,000 for the boy.

SISTER GONE, BEGINS HUNT

The Bureau of Missing Persons today is searching for Yoddie Adams, 23, who has disappeared from the home of her sister, Miss Susanna Adams, 2610 Forbes street.

Cecile Argues With Ken Over Money Matters

CHAPTER XXXVII.

Mrs. Kent Gleason sat in her boudoir vigorously wielding her buffer. But Cecile's attention was not on her already shining nails; her eyes weer narrowed on her husband.

Ken spoke, his voice weary—the voice of one who has gone over the same argument many times.

"Please can't we talk this over without getting into a row over it, Cecile? It isn't that I'm trying to dictate to you—or that I want to spoil your pleasure in any way——"

"Oh, don't be so almighty sanctimonious about it!" interrupted the lady. "You know perfectly well you're raising an objection simply because you don't want to go!"

"No, that isn't so," he returned evenly. "I'll admit I don't like Coralie Gaines or that rowdy crowd she gathers around her. I don't like the way they drink—or the high stakes they play for——"

"I believe—" Cecile's smooth voice cut in, "that I settle my own bridge debts."

Ken reddened. There was a hint of temper in his voice. "That's another thing—how do you suppose I feel to have everyone know you write checks to settle your bridge debts for more than my earnings each month?"

Cecile's lip curled. "Can you afford to pay my card debts?"

The man's eyes narrowed. "I just said I couldn't."

"Then"— his wife's voice was icy, "until you can, don't you think you might permit me the spending of my own money?"

Ken Angered

Thought of Ardeth Keeps Him Quiet

Ken's cheekbones were burning. "That isn't fair, Cecile, and you know it. Good Lord, you rub it in on every pretext that it's your income which keeps the house going! That lets us go out on parties and week-end trips which cost hundreds of dollars—"

Cecile's brows raised in an exaggerated semi-circle. "Perhaps you'll suggest how we could manage otherwise?"

Ken had begun to pace the room. Now he wheeled like a goaded animal. "Yes—I can! Give up this expensive apartment! Get a small place I could afford to pay the rent on. Manage with one maid. Cut out some of our expensive friends!"

"I suppose—" she put in contemptuously, "you'd like me to live and dress like a shop girl. Shop girls appear to be your ideal."

From beneath her lashes she studied the result of this shot. Ken's mouth contracted. She saw the outline of his jawbone go white under the skin. But he crushed back the angry words before they formed. A scene — that was what she wanted. A scene—like the hundreds which had gone before. When she'd fling Ardeth's name at him. Not that! He couldn't stand that again.

Cecile's Boudoir

Enough Cosmetics to Stock Drug Store

He paced the room in silence. A large room, this boudoir, and filled with the superficial glitter which naturally collected about any intimate background of Cecile.

Summer sunshine, slanting between orchid silk drapes, struck rainbow gleams from the cut-glass stoppers of the bottles on the vanity. An army of bottles and jars. They covered the top of the dressing table. They overflowed to a small glass-covered stand. A carved tabourette held a number and Ken knew that the green and lavender bathroom held as many more behind its wall cabinets.

Skin lotions, massage creams, foundation creams, cleansing creams. Toilet water, bath salts and perfumed oils. Jars of what appeared to be rosy mud which turned Cecile's complexion startling shades to match various gowns. Brilliantines and eye shadow paste. Heavy Oriental perfume in an amber glass elephant. Flower perfume in a rose of pink blown glass.

He hated this room with a vigorous, if secret, hatred. Too bright . . . too overdone . . . The triple-glassed vanity mirror . . . the affected night lamp—the taffeta-skirted doll flung on the taffeta cushions on the bed . . .

Notices Doll

Compares Appearance With That of Cecile

That doll caught at his attention unpleasantly. Ugly sprawling creature with its long snakey legs . . . He hated the expression of coy lasciviousness painted on its silk face. Why did women fancy those grotesque creatures! Hair of yellow silk floss, parted in the center and drawn with mock demureness each side of the oval face. Darned if the thing didn't look something like Cecile!

He tried to crush the disloyal thought as it rose, but the comparison was so apt that he had the impulse to shout with nervous laughter.

He found himself slyly eying her . . .

Cecile had returned to her nail polishing. She was fresh from the hands of her maid, her brows plucked to a thin line and darkened with mascaro. Her lips outlined in hard orange. Her upper lids had been touched with mauve tinted salve so that they shone moistly in the morning light. She wore an elaborate suit of lounging pajamas of ivory satin trimmed with ecru lace—an ensemble, Ken reflected grimly, which probably cost more than his whole month's income.

The Upper Hand

Cecile Is Defiant When Wishes Are Crossed

That brought the old grievance to his mind again. After their marriage, he had innocently imagined that he and Cecile would get along on the salary he earned in her father's firm. He was quickly disabused of this. If Cecile had spent money before, she reveled in it now.

It was her money which furnished this elaborate apartment of eight rooms; which paid the rent and kept it running. The thought galled Ken. He was an outsider in all this glittering magnificence. It gave Cecile the upper hand. Made her defiant where her own wishes were crossed.

Wearily he took up the task he dreaded. Smiled his old winning smile. "Aw, Cecile, please! let's be sensible about this. You know why I don't want you to go to Coralie's house party at this particular time. Dancing all night. And the way they play cards—that hectic excitement isn't good for you right now. And riding horseback—especially that. You know what the doctor said—that for the next few months you'd have to be careful. . . ."

He stopped, such cold white fury looked out of her face.

AUTOS KILL ONE, INJURE SEVEN

One man was dead and seven persons, including four boys, were injured in automobile accidents yesterday.

M. W. Meister, 43, of 230 Chalfont street, died in Mercy Hospital last night several hours after he was struck by an automobile at Forbes and Brady streets. William Butterbaugh, of Windber, Pa., alleged driver, was ordered to appear at the coroner's office today.

Injured when the coaster wagon on which they were riding was struck by an automobile at Penn avenue and Forty-fifth street, Wilbert Springel, 14, of 4628 Carroll street, and Paul Bruce, 9, of 4626 Penn avenue, were in St. Francis Hospital.

Thomas Schragle, 4, of 517 Finley street, suffered a fractured right leg and lacerations of the scalp when struck by an automobile near his home.

William Love, 28, of 1342 Lincoln avenue, driver of the car, swerved his machine into a pole in an effort to avoid hitting the boy, police said.

Two persons were injured, one seriously, when an automobile and truck collided at Dallas avenue and Thomas boulevard. The most seriously injured was a woman who gave her name as Maude McKee, but who police said is Mrs. Maude McKee Wild, 30, of Fitzsimmons street, Verona. R. W. Smith, 28, of 6945 Wiltsie street, a passenger in the woman's car, suffered bruises.

Eight in Family Share $6,500 Estate

Three daughters-in-law of Mrs. Katharina Dumrauf, of the North Side, receive $500 each by terms of her will filed for probate today, disposing of an estate of $6,500. They are Cecelia, Emma and Rosa Dumrauf. Her son, Antone, gets $10, and the remainder of the estate is divided into four parts, one each going to her sons, George and John, one to the children of Antone, and the fourth to a granddaughter, Catherine Geisler. The Dollar Savings and Trust Company is executor.

VOTE FRAUD CHARGES FILED

Board Arrested After Row in School Room; Halt Ballot Box Theft

Post-election calm settled today over the Strip, where almost all of the disorder took place. However, at its height, there was less trouble than has attended previous elections, although in one case four members of an election board were arrested.

Three outbreaks occurred in the Strip, notably in the O'Hara School, polling place of the Tenth District, Second Ward, where 10 persons, including the four vote counters, were arrested. Broken windows attested to the fight, but nobody seemed to know what everybody was fighting about or for.

TEN ARE ARRESTED

The persons arrested were Mike McMackin, 30; Thomas Kerns, 44; Daniel Kaylor, 27, and Thomas Burns, 32, all members of the board; Mrs. Marie Sullivan, 28; Mrs. Florence McMackin, 25; Anthony Fazzio, 31; John Burkowski, 27; Bernard Duffy, 45, the school janitor; Edward Kowolski, 23.

In Alderman Flanigan's office District Attorney Park filed charges of fraudulent voting and conspiracy against five men arrested at the polling place of the Eighth District, Second Ward. Earlier these five had been fined $10 each in Penn avenue police court.

THWORT BALLOT BOX RAID

In Central police court five other men were supposed to hear accusations that, armed with blackjacks and revolvers, they had prepared to stel the ballot box from the polling place at 1645 Penn avenue. But they failed to appear for hearing and each forfeited $50.

These five were registered as Walter Simpson, 33, of Lacock street; Albert Bell, 31, of Lafayette street; James Conlye, 31, of Middle street; Edward Trexler, 30, of East street; John Donovan, 26, of Industry street.

The five prosecuted by Park are Samuel Good, Peter Zolina and Walter Garstha, of Uxor way; John Dombroski, of Penn avenue, and Edward Martin, of Nusser way.

CHARGE POLLS CLOSED

There were two other minor incidents. Robert Cohen, inspector in the Twelfth District, Fifth Ward, was accused of closing the polls after only 55 of 356 voters had cast their ballots. Information was made against him by Chief Murren, of the county detectives.

Murren also prosecuted Miles Rooney, of East Ohio street, on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Pat O'Malley, congressional candidate, complained that Rooney, with a blackjack, was interfering with voters.

Charges Filed Against 3 In Show Boat Raid

The District Attorney's office today brought three charges against Milton Jaffe, "Doc" Louis Markowitz and F. T. Graham, arrested in the raid on the floating cabaret "Show Boat" by prohibition agents.

They were charged with keeping a gambling house, maintaining gambling devices and being common gamblers.

Assistant District Attorney Langfitt explained there was not enough evidence to bring charges against George Jaffe.

George Jaffe, with he others, was named as on of the proprietors, in the padlock suit brought by the government in federal court. Liquor, roulette wheels and dice tables were found on the boat, the government contends.

SIX LIQUOR RAIDS NET 11 ARRESTS, INCLUDING WOMAN

The Camera Question Box

Today's Question: Now that modern woman has won her "rights" do you believe her to be happier than her Victorian grandmother in her youth?

JOHN A. KROLL, South Side, foreman: All things equal, I believe the modern woman is happier than those who were young several years ago. The modern woman has a much broader field of activities than the old fashioned girl. This alone tends to make her happier, I believe.

J. A. Kroll

THOMAS M'KAIN, South Side, clerk: No, I don't think the modern woman is any happier than her grandmother or mother. Just because she is living in a faster and more advanced age does not necessarily mean she is happier. Happiness is a state of mind, independent of time or place.

Thomas McKain

C. J. FINK, South Side, clerk: The modern woman has more opportunity to gain happiness than the girl of former years. The Victorian woman was something to be sheltered and more or less oppressed. Our girls of today are fairly free to do as they please.

C. J. Fink

ANN AUBER, North Side, stenographer: I know I would hate to live in an age when woman was looked down upon as something terribly weak. In 1930 we can participate in most of the pleasures and sports that men have. This goes a long way to make modern women happy.

Miss Auber

IDAH LIPMAN, East End, secretary: There is no doubt that the modern woman is happier than her grandmother. Grandmother had to be just so all the time. She was denied certain things that we enjoy. Now it is different. Women are considered the equal of men.

Miss Lipman

GENNEVIEVE COHEN, East End stenographer: A lot of people sneer at woman's rights. These people, if you notice, are the kind that can't get over the fact that their mothers wore long skirts and puffs in their hair. Regardless of that, woman's rights make us happier than the old time girls.

Hawaii May Get Coast Guard Station

WASHINGTON.—An effort to break up the far-flung organization engaged in smuggling opium into Hawaii will probably result in the establishment of a Coast Guard station here. Ralph Reed, supervising agent and co-ordinator of the United States Prohibition Bureau, has gone to the Islands from Washington to look over the field of Federal enforcement. Opium smuggling is a bigger problem in Hawaii than importation of bootleg booze.

'Jakeitis' Victims Aided by Pine Oil

HATTIESBURG, Miss.—(INS.)—While the best heads in medical science have been trying for many weeks to reveal some panacea for sufferers of "Jakeitis," several victims hereabouts have found solace by drinking oil obtained from pine tree stumps.

The oil, which has been chemically treated, has brought relief to many afflicted with Jamaica ginger paralysis, neuritis, arthritis and rheumatism, according to the patients.

Poet Benefits by Cop's Admiration

EVANSTON, Ill., May 21.—(AP.)—Lew Sarrett happens to be the favorite pet of Policeman Fred Wynn, which proved fortuitous for him yesterday.

Sarrett, poet-professor, was freed of a traffic violation charge when the policeman, fond of Sarrett's poetry, declined to testify against him.

WHEELING, W. Va., May 21.—The body of Mrs. Minnie Lenhart McCullry, 48, was found in a cistern on the farm where they lived by John McCullry, her husband. Coroner Walter Morrison attributed her death to suicide.

E. PITTSBURGH EAGLES CLUB VISITED

Quantities of Moonshine, Wine, Homebrew Seized In Series of Rum Forays

Eleven persons, including a woman, were under arrest today as a sequel to raids by dry agents on six places, among them the East Pittsburgh Eagles Club.

Confiscation of six gallons of moonshine, eight gallons of wine and 42 gallons of home brew was reported in the raid on the Eagles Club at 307 Fall way. Warrants were to be issued for officers of the club, agents said.

BIG WINE SEIZURE

In the basement of the East Pittsburgh Hungarian Singing Society, at 355 Beech street, East Pittsburgh, the agents said they seized 17 barrels of wine, and 18 gallons of moonshine, and a small quantity of liquor behind a bar. Joseph Fabel, 38, alleged steward, was arrested, according to the agents.

To learn the identity of the proprietor of an alleged basement speakeasy at 1108 Lincoln avenue, the dry officers arrested six men found drinking in the place and lodged them in Central Police Station for questioning today. The men gave their names as George LeGoullen, 20; Chris J. Dutz, 31; Joseph McCarroll, 25; Daniel J. Spangler, 46; John Woyckiewicz, 24, and George E. Oldham, 32. All live in the neighborhood of the place.

BARROOM RAIDED

Another raid in East Pittsburgh netted the raiders a small quantity of moonshine, they said, when a barroom at 216 Beech street was visited. Albert Sieg, 46, was arrested.

A small quantity of moonshine was seized in a building at 200 Larimer avenue, where William J. Schuyler, 48, and Mrs. Helen O'Malley, were arrested, it was reported. Mrs. O'Malley was released on her own recognizance. Andrew Rohaw was arrested, according to agents, in a raid on a club in Second street, Oak Hill, where a small seizure of moonshine was made.

SEEK 3 BANDITS FOR HOLDUP

Search for three bandits who held up the Nalitz Tire Company, at 3301 Bigelow boulevard, and obtained $100, was being made by police today.

J. M. Nalitz, the proprietor, is forced to turn over the cash from the register. Fleeing in an automobile, the thugs eluded a police car which pursued them through crowded boulevard traffic for several blocks. The car bore Ohio license plates.

ACTIONS BAR DIVORCE

Judge James R. Macfarlane yesterday handed down an opinion in Common Pleas Court refusing Michael Fedor, Whitaker, a divorce from Mary Fedor, on the ground the husband's actions deprived him of a right to obtain a decree.

Mrs. Fedor, who contested the divorce proceedings, alleged her husband had abused her, her conduct consisting of calling Fedor names and refusing to get him meals. However, she had never struck him, although the wife claimed her husband abused her. Mrs. Fedor who lives in East Pittsburgh, and her husband were married April 29, 1924.

DEDICATE HOME FOR WELFARE WORK

Improvement for Poor Formally Opens Building; Old Officers Re-Elected

Adjudged a monument to the progress of welfare work here, the new Webster avenue building of the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor was formally dedicated yesterday.

Preceding the exercises a luncheon at which the fifty-fourth annual report of the association was read, was held in the main auditorium. Charity workers, philanthropists and members of the ladies' auxiliary attended. D. M. Clemson, president of the association, was chairman. The Rev. Hugh Thompson Kerr was toastmaster.

OFFICERS ELECTED

All officers were re-elected for the ensuing year. The only new official was George Hallman, elected to the board of trustees to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Harvey L. Childs.

No one was named to fill vacancies on the Womens' Auxiliary Board, caused by the deaths of Mrs. William Thaw, Mrs. T. H. Bakewell and Mrs. J. C. Smith.

Speakers were Dr. Kerr, Mrs. James H. Reed, I. W. Frank, vice president; W. W. Matson, H. W. Shepard, general manager of the I. P., and Dr. W. L. McEwan.

Built on the site of old Labor Temple, at Webster and Washington avenues, the new four-story plant contains accomodations for destitute and needy men, both colored and white. Separate dormitories and facilities are maintained.

EQUIPMENT COMPLETE

Innovations are a carpenter and paint shop, mechanic's repair and waste paper room, industrial store, lunch room and restaurant, auditorium, two and a half stories of dormitories and recreation facilities. The structure is fireproof throughout. The roof has been tiled, according to the management, and will be utilized by children of the Hill district.

Swings, sand boxes and other recreational features may be found there, and during summer nights motion pictures will be shown.

BUYING AGENTS CLOSE SEASON

Executives' night was observed by the Purchasing Agents of Pittsburgh last night, when the last business meeting of the year was held at the Union Club. More than 150 were in attendance. E. P. Goetz, president, was chairman. Louis K. Manley, dean of the School of Business Administration, and the Bureau of Business Research, of the University of Pittsburgh, spoke on "International Business."

George A. Renard, secretary of the national association, outlined the work of his office. Other business discussed was the annual summer outing June 10 at Wildwood Country Club, and the national convention in Chicago June 16 to 19.

Wodehouse Signs To Write for Movies

LONDON.—(INS.)—P. G. Wodehouse, the famous English humorist, has been captured by American film interests. He has signed a contract to write original stories for the screen, and to adapt other stories and plays, probably his own.

The contract calls upon Wodehouse to serve the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Company exclusively for six months, with a six months' option.

KILLED BY AUTO, $50,000 ASKED

For the death of his daughter, Alice E. Meyers, struck by an automobile owned by Joseph A. Ackley, of New Kensington, Frank C. Meyers of O'Hara Township has filed suit for $50,000 damages against Ackley.

The accident occurred May 29, 1929, on the Freeport road, at 10:25 p. m. at which time it is alleged that Ackley's car was being driven on the wrong side of the road, that it was not properly lighted and that no horn was sounded.

Miss Ackley left a street car and was crossing to the other side of the road when run down. She received a fractured skull, which caused her death shortly after. Meyers is represented by Attorney Ben L. Steinberg.

CRASHES PANE IN FIGHT, CUT

Two men were being sought by East Pittsburgh police today as a result of a free-for-all fight at Linden and Beech avenues last night, which ended when one man was hurled through a store window and cut severely. The victim is Robert Garoskresky, of Beech avenue. Seventeen stitches in the back and four in the right hand were required to close the wounds.

According to East Pittsburgh police, Garoskresky and two companions were arguing on the street when the fight started. The two fled when Garoskresky was pushed through the window.

40 CASES SET IN U. S. COURT

A panel of 125 petit jurors was to report for duty in the United States Court today. It was expected that criminal cases coming before the court would take up about two weeks.

Forty cases were scheduled for today, 30 of which are offenses against the prohibition laws. The remainder are naturalization cases in which witnesses have arrived from cities in many sections of the country.

Government agents believe that Pittsburgh has been the center of a conspiracy to violate the Federal naturalization act by producing witnesses to falsely swear to petitions for citizenship.

William N. Gabriel and Teddy Tedrus will be arrainged in immigration proceedings in which they are charged with making false statements regarding a visit made by John Abraham Totah to Palestine, and his efforts to bring his wife into the United States.

About 80 persons are listed for trial tomorrow and Friday, most of whom are charged with violations of prohibition laws.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Folk Attend Bridge

Before the warm weather with its languor enervates us to such an extent that we can no longer concentrate on a hand of cards, bridges will be attractive beliefits.

An interesting benefit bridge was given yesterday afternoon in the stately home of the Frederic Ickes Merricks of Holyrood road, by the Women's Auxiliary of the Kingsley Association. There were quartets and quartets of smartly gowned women playing and chatting during the afternoon.

And six young girls were candy sides dispensing their wares in packages gaily tied with orchid and green net. Martha Burdick one of the young aides wore a blue shantung frock and Elinor Cowdrey chose a yellow crepe dress. Eleanor Merrick the Merricks' oldest daughter wore a white crepe gown, sprinkled with small bright flowers, and Betty Evans was in blue crepe. Rosetta and Marguerite Merrick Eleanor's younger sisters looked demure in French frocks of pink crepe with delicate embroidery at the neckline and on the cuffs of the brief sleeves.

* * *

Mrs. Merrick wore a white tailored gown and I saw her chatting with Mrs. Charles S. Winder, a board member, who wore a brown crepe dress boasting a lettuce green motif and a brown straw hat. Chatting with the youthful aides was Mrs. Walter Fundenberg in a printed black and white chiffon gown trimmed in green velvet and a black horsehair hat. Flowered birge crepe, fashioned with a cape collar and a skirt with below-the-knee fullness was worn by Mrs. Donald Pettit with a brown straw hat.

Smart Gowns

Others I noticed were Mrs. D. Martin Boyd, Mrs. Francis C. McClure, Mrs. Walter Dearth and Virginia Fure.

And entertaining tables were Mrs. Arthur Braun, Mrs. William I. Rowe, Mrs. Howard Noble, Mrs. George H. Singer, Mrs. Frederick Schaefer, Mrs. Thomas Cowdrey, Mrs. King Scott, Miss Marjorie Maxwell, Mrs. William U. Pollansbee, Mrs. W. Z. Hartman and Mrs. Pitt Nutty.

From the aristocratic town of Groton, Mass., where the sons of the late President Roosevelt went to the Groton School, comes news of the betrothal of a Groton girl to a Pittsburgh son. The Roger Quincy Peases, of Groton, have made known the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Pease, to Philip Shaefer Riggs, son of the Norman C. Riggses, of Brookside Farms. Barbara is a graduate of Wellesley, class of 1929, and received her master's degree in astronomy this month at the University of California. Her fiance has been taking post-graduate work at Berkley during the past year and is a graduate of Carnegie Institute of Technology, class of 1927.

And on the very last day of this month, several Sewickley folks that I know of will be among the guests at the wedding of Marion Moore and John W. Cross, Jr., which will be solemnized that day in the Church of the Advent, Westbury, L. I. Marion, who is well known among Pittsburgh society and Sewickleyans, is the granddaughter of Mrs. John R. McGinley and the late Mr. McGinley, and the niece of Mrs. Cyrus R. Miller, of Sewickley. And Mrs. Miller and Catharine Miller, also of Sewickley, plan to go East to attend the wedding.

Wedding Attracts

And the Thomas Atterbury McGinleys, of Sewickley Heights, with their daughter, Mary Elizabeth Floyd, a bud of last season, will be at Marion's wedding, too.

On Monday afternoon Mrs. Kenneth Russell Todd, of Fair Oaks street, will be hostess at an informal tea in her home, honoring three brides-elect of June, Betty Seibert, Ann Buchanan and Edith Crawford.

Honors Brides

Betty is the daughter of the Edward M. Seiberts, of Lytton avenue, you know, and on the evening of June 16, at 5:30 o'clock, she will become the bride of Raymond Lynn Patterson, of New York. She will be attended by her two sisters, Mrs. John J. Isherwood and Mrs. William J. Askin, Jr. William Hutchison Patterson will be his brother's best man. And after the wedding there will be a buffet supper for the immediate families.

And Ann Buchanan, who's the daughter of the Edward Robert Buchanans, of Denniston avenue, will marry Donald Albert Burdett, of New Haven, Conn., on June 2. The wedding is to take place at high noon with only members of the immediate families and a few intimate friends present, in the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension.

And Edith Crawford, daughter of Mrs. Charles Sumner Crawford, of South Fairmount avenue, is marrying Clarence Howard Vant, of Ithaca, N. Y., and Pittsburgh, at a quiet home ceremony on the afternoon of June 11. And there will be no attendants.

* * *

THE DAYTIME FROCK KEEP TABS ON COLLARS, CUFFS

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, MAY 21.—We are keeping tabs on some of the nicest frocks this season. The use of little lace-edged tabs of linen and lawn on silk afternoon frocks is frequent just now and provides a daintily demure touch quite in keeping with the very feminine frocks now obtaining. Such details lend charm to any frock and are therefore quite as in keeping with the more elaborate frock as with the simple little model designed for strictly utilitarian wear.

* * *

DESPITE THE variety of materials available this year, taffeta maintains its popularity here, and it is much seen in the form of crisp, bright looking afternoon frocks. When it is in black or dark blue, it is generally relieved with light touches in white or pink, and in these dark shades taffeta is an ideal medium for the all-day, all-occasion frock that is an integral part of the wardrobe these busy days. It is woven without that metallic sheen that made it somewhat difficult to wear, especially by the more mature type of figure, but it is now offered with a fresh, crisp lustre that adds materially to the fabric.

* * *

THE SKETCH shown is of a very smart navy blue taffeta afternoon frock from Lelong. Small lace-trimmed tabs of lawn matching the double collar, are drawn through slits at the front of the bodice and on the sleeves. A circular peplum is superimposed on a straight skirt, and dripping sharply in front is cleverly gathered into two groups of godets. The fabric belt is fastened with a blue enamel buckle.

* * *

THERE ARE many women who are addicted to the strictly sport suit, and for such effects Lucien Lelong has created some most desirable models, one of which is shown here. It is of tweed in a mixture of pastel blue and black. The full length coat has an interesting yoke and sleeve-top, and is lined in pastel blue to match the shade of the wool jersey that makes the neat little blouse. The simple skirt has a wide box-pleat to one side.

This Horse Was Recently Sold

By a Prominent Pittsburgh Attorney to a New York Banker

for $10,000.00

Why was the banker willing to pay so huge a sum for "just a horse?"

Because of its perfection!

A love of perfection, of exquisite beauty and magnificent performance, is humanity's most precious heritage. It is the sure index to superiority . . . the force that drives us forward to constantly higher attainment.

And it is this same love of perfection that leads best families all over America to prefer the KURTZMANN PIANO ahead of any other on earth. This is just as true of professional musicians as of connoisseurs and lovers of music in the home.

But you do not have to pay a huge price for the Kurtzmann. You can have the thrill of its magic performance and the lure of its golden tone at a price well within your means, with plenty of time for payment if desired.

New Model a Revelation

There are structural reasons for the supremacy of this great instrument. Such features as the far-famed Capo d'Astro Bar, Duplex Scale, Triplex Pressure Bar and Double Repeatin Action confer an advantage on the Kurtzmann that will probably never be equaled.

You are invited to hear and see this new marvel of Piano perfection. First showing now at Schroeder's. Come for pleasure and information; buy if you please.

PARLEY HEARS MISSIONARIES

Delegates to the annual Foreign Missions Convention of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Pittsburgh district, today heard field workers describe activities of Far East missionaries as the two-day session neared its climax.

The convention, which opened yesterday, is being held in Soldiers' Memorial Hall. Pastors and laymen representatives of 400 Methodist Episcopal churches in the Western Pennsylvania district are in attendance. Bishop Herbert Welch, of Pittsburgh, is presiding.

Fourteen foreign missionaries are present. Speakers at this morning's session included Dr. George P. Howard, who spoke on "South America for Christ," and Dr. Benson Baker, who chose "The New Day in India." Dr. Howard is stationed in South America.

Later in the day Bishop Frederick B. Fisher, stationed at Calcutta, will describe "India on the March," while the Rev. Matias Cuarda, former Moslem, now living in the Philippine Islands will discuss "Christ and the Moslems in the Philippines." Dr. E. R. Fulkerson will conclude this session with a talk on "The Unfinished Task."

"What Jesus Christ Means to a Chinese Woman," will be described at the closing meeting by Mrs. Emily Ding, Chinese teacher and director of Hwa Nan College, Foochow, China. Mrs. Ding is a daughter of the director of the Pekin-Hankow railway. Augmenting her will be Bishop F. J. McConnell, president of the board of foreign missions, New York. His subject will be "Human Needs and World Christianity."

With nearly 3,000 delegates present, Bishop James C. Baker, of Seoul, Korea, last night spoke on "The Far East." In his talk descriptions of present problems in India, China and Japan were given.

MAYOR OUSTED IN BERLIN

BERLIN, May 21 (INS).—A disciplinary court removed Mayor Gustav Boess, of Berlin, from office. He was charged with "violating his duty and showing himself unworthy of the respect and trust required of his office."

The scandal resulted from alleged irregularities in connection with municipal financial matters. Some months ago Boess toured the United States as a "good-will ambassador."

It leaves Berlin, a city of 4,000,000, practically without government heads.

"Snowy wash every time!" says Mrs. W. E. Baker of Brookline

"Of all the soaps they make nowadays, I like Rinso best. I don't scrub or boil, yet I hang out a sweet, snowy wash every time! All I do is soak the wash in Rinso's safe, active suds; the dirt loosens and rinses off. I like Rinso for dishes, too—it loosens grease like magic."

MRS. W. E. BAKER,
541 Rossmore St., Brookline, Pgh., Pa.

All you need on washday

Rinso alone gives thick, creamy suds. You need no bar soaps, chips, powders. Rinso in tub or washer means gleaming, snowy washes—easily. And the makers of 38 famous washing machines say, "Rinso for safety!"

Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as puffed-up soaps. Get the BIG package. You'll like it for dishes, too—and for all cleaning. It saves work.

IF you're not satisfied with the coffee you get at home, there's an easy way to better it.

Each steaming cupful of this famous blend from the Old South you will find surpassingly fragrant, inimitably rare and mellow in flavor. You will realize how certain restaurants have achieved their reputations for rich flavored coffee.

GOOD to the LAST DROP

And you will understand why a President of the United States once said of this wonderfully smooth-bodied blend—"good to the last drop."

There is only one blend of Maxwell House Coffee. The quality that has made it famous is always the same and there is always the same net weight of coffee as specified on the friendly blue tin, no matter where or from whom you buy it. If you are not completely satisfied, your money will be unhesitatingly returned.

CHICKIE By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER XCI

She lay on the pillows, her eyes closed. And she didn't look at the child and didn't want it in her arms. She lay there. Knives sharp and flashing went piercing through her brain. Her brain said to her: "She's dead. You'll never see her now—never. You wouldn't go, would you?"

She saw her mother with the plump, prim hands crossed on the dress. They were cold hands and Jessica's face was still. She had loved them. She was the one who had caused all this. Now Jonathan was noble—a stranger who robbed of all he had—even all but the golden child.

Then Agnes Robbins came and put the baby in her arms. "A little girl. Mrs. Paris—look at it."

She lowered her head that Agnes might not see her clench her lips that twisted so. Then she touched the baby's head lightly, ran her fingers over it. She wept and brought the tiny face into the cradle of her arm—in a great pity, in a shrieking loyalty. She said: "Poor little thing. Here, only here—she leaned down and kissed its forehead.

It lay so quiet. It opened its eyes and seemed to look right at her. Then its eyes were closed, the little wearied face unmoved.

She heard Agnes speaking to the doctor. She held her breath in fear. Agnes said: "You'll take her to the hospital now, doctor?"

"Better not," she caught a word here and there—"Weak"—"I wouldn't take the risk—"

Agnes Gets Nurse

Agnes went quietly about the room. She took the baby and put it in a basket, leaning down and for a long while searching its face. Agnes shook her head—an almost imperceptible movement. Chickie saw this distinctly as in another world.

She awakened from a disturbing, a mad dream, shaking—mumbling. Then she saw the makeshift cradle and gave a sharp, tortured cry.

Emily Paris, the stout, gossipy woman who had come from a neighboring farm to act as nurse, hurried to the bed. She brought a cup and said to Chickie: "Drink this, girlie—you'll feel better."

Chickie said: "Where is Agnes Robbins?"

"Sleeping."

And Mrs. Paris carried the baby and laid it at her side, saying curiously: "See if it will nurse."

Chickie stared at her, bewildered. Again that shiver of aversion seized her. Ho! What a monstrous thing to ask—incredible word to say to her. And this little quiet thing with its shut eyes and its floss of ruddy hair, lying in her arms—hers—it was hers. She had a child.

When she felt its lips against her flesh—soft, feeble things, the pity touched her. She couldn't help but put her fingers on the bright ringlets.

Mrs. Paris said: "It has lovely hair—if it stays that way"—

Infant Is Weak

"No—but it's weak—it's a weak little thing—don't bother—it won't nurse. It doesn't need anything for a day or so"—She put it back in the basket and began to talk in a monotonous, rambling way. Her children were such strapping infants. They were lively from the start. This little one was a delicate mite—of course, it might thrive—it might get along.

She kept on like that. Chickie said: "What time is it?"

"Five o'clock."

Five hours until the mail came. Would there be another message? Suddenly Chickie asked: "Can I get up tomorrow?"

"No—indeed! Though there are some that do. I never took a child that long at first. Then I was afraid—afraid as a fool."

Chickie began to cry and Agnes came in. She pressed her face in the pillows. Agnes stroked her hair. "Don't cry, dearie."

It seems so strange. Oh, I wish my mother was here."

"Yes, yes."

"Did any mail come for me?"

"No."

Then Agnes had brought over the child. All day they seemed to be doing this. It lay still and didn't cry. It seemed to sleep. The more she looked at it, the more she pitied it.

Once when she was alone in the room she raised it so that its tiny face was close against her neck and she whispered: "Oh, no—"

Silence Appalling

On the third day she asked Agnes to phone to the hotel in Rutland and ask Dorothy Wreden if there was a telegram for Mrs. Clayton. But there was none.

This silence appalled her. It was like the touch of death. And she got up and stood at the bed. She said to herself: "I'm strong—I feel all right!" Perspiration stood on her forehead. They came in and made her get back and lie quietly.

Agnes said: "You must keep your strength for the little one. She'll need it."

For the baby was quiet all day; it lay with its eyes shut and it scarcely nursed at all. Chickie had the basket brought near the bed. She spent the time looking at it. She liked to touch its hair.

A strange fancy had taken possession of her. She had an idea that she took the baby home and no one was surprised.

The fourth day she said to Agnes Robbins: "I want to sit up." She insisted. So they let her.

She said: "I feel wonderful. Did any mail come for me?" None.

Mother Dying

In the afternoon Billy brought a message from Old Lady Arlett. She was dying. Some one ought to go and be with her.

Because Chickie seemed so well, Agnes went. She would stay till the poor lone soul passed.

The moment she was gone Chickie said to Mrs. Paris: "I'd like a little chicken. Will you fry me some?"

When the woman was in the kitchen Chickie stole to the phone. But a strange voice answered her. Dorothy Wreden was off for the afternoon.

Chickie said in a muffled voice: "Is there any message for Mrs. John Clayton?"

"No."

"I expected a telegram. Perhaps you have one for Helena Bryce?"

"Oh, yes—I didn't know where to send it. One came a few hours ago."

And the girl read to her: "Mother will not last through the night. In God's name, hurry. Jonathan."

She said to the girl: "Send an answer to that. Say: 'Coming. Chickie.'"

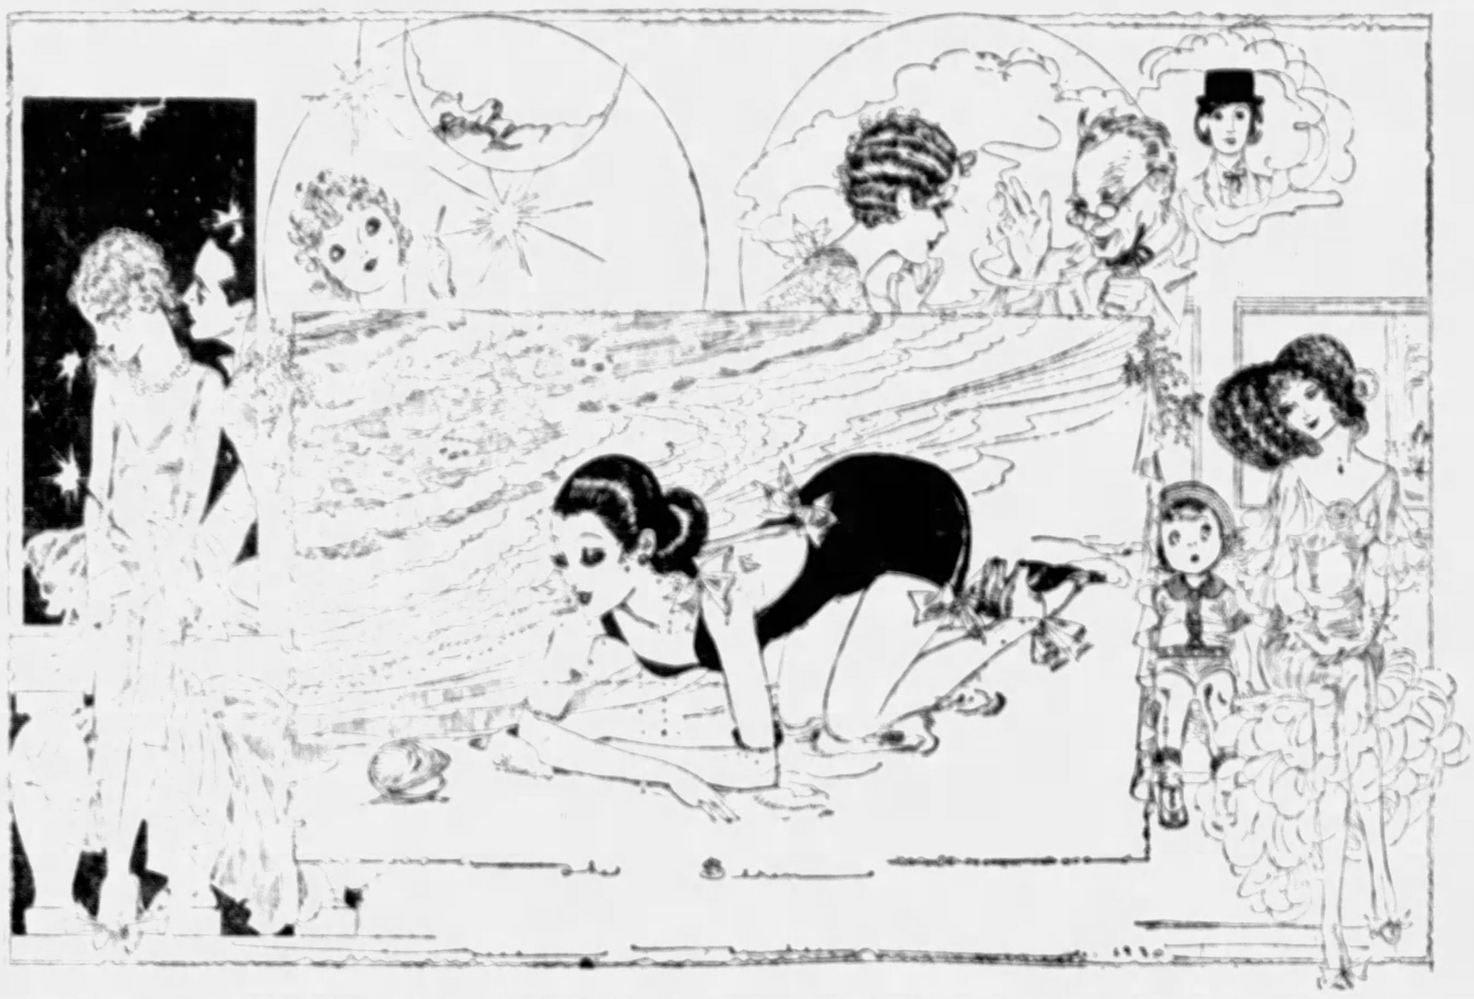
Cleans Mops

To clean an oil mop thoroughly, make a solution of hot water, ammonia and a little washing powder and wash the oil mop in this. Wring dry as possible and hang in the breeze to dry. Rub a little floor oil on the mop and work it in well when dry. Spots of machine grease can be removed by the use of clear ammonia and soap.

Sirens—One and All

DRAWN BY NELL BRINKLEY



SIRENS are not exclusive to rocks in purple seas, or the crags of the storied Rhine. To be truthful, they've fled those old familiar places entirely, fish hide and golden hair of them, and are now scattered the world over—well disguised, sometimes. For instance. Who'd be suspecting, after believing all these years that a certain type of a girl, and a certain one only answered to the famed word, "Lorelei," that the sweet and kind, but good and not ravishingly lovely girl around the corner, was fatal to all young men she met—around the ages of seven and twelve? You would change your mind could you see her out, resembling nothing so much as a honey-pot out for a walk being rushed by bees!

And are as widely different as each girl is from any other.

There's a girl who would flirt with the moon, and no matter how cold he is said to be, would melt him like butter in the warmth of her glances, until he screamed for help.

There's the girl who wins the love of other women, no matter how she gathers in the men at a party. The girl who would flirt with Jupiter were she sure he was a "Mister." The girl who, with the whole landscape divested of that interesting creature, a man, would lure a clam, and make him laugh with delight at her beauty. The girl who is beloved of the old folks, because she listens to all of their personal Sagas, "when I was young." And sincerely finds them interesting.

The true siren Lorelei's the very old gray stones. And man is just part of her field of endeavor!

How to Keep Well

By DR. COPELAND

Deafness in Children

It is distressing to know how widespread deafness in children really is. One of the most hopeless of all ailments is steadily progressing deafness. When once it begins the trouble goes on and on gradually growing worse.

DR COPELAND

A little over a year ago, the Bureau of Education of the United States Department of the Interior made a report on this subject. It gave the unpleasant news that more than 3,000,000 children in the United States have impaired hearing. This is a serious matter.

Probably the most common cause of deafness is catarrh. The common cold may develop into catarrh. The inflammation of the mucous membrane of the nose and throat extends up the passageways to the middle ear. This produces what is called "middle ear deafness."

There can be no doubt that pus absorption from any part of the body will greatly lower the resistance to disease. Fermenting substances in the intestinal tract produce poisons which affect the whole system. Catarrhal troubles are considerably influenced by their absorption.

Even the strongest of us cannot resist the effects of these poisons. The sources should be cleared up. By the right diet, plenty of exercise, and right living habits, we should keep these wonderful organs of ours in the best of working order.

There are other causes for deafness besides catarrh. Some persons have a tendency to oversecretion of the wax glands of the ear canal. Then the wax may accumulate in this canal and it must be removed by a doctor. This form of impaired hearing is sometimes called "external ear deafness."

There is still another kind of deafness—"internal ear deafness."

The nerve of hearing is called the "auditory nerve." This nerve ends in delicate fibers which float about in a fluid found in the cavities of the bone. Except where perfect health is present these structures may not operate as they should.

Various things may cause an unusual drain upon the nerve energy and reduce the hearing power. In children ill health from any source—the after effects of scarlet fever or lowered vitality from other troubles—may bring on deafness.

It is a thing which should not be neglected. Medical knowledge today affords many methods of relief from deafness. If taken in time appropriate treatment may bring about full recovery.

The deaf child labors under many difficulties. His deafness cannot but affect his disposition. Many a deaf child becomes retiring and morose. He cannot hear his teacher or what the class is saying. His contacts with the other children are difficult. He does not progress in his school work. He lags in his classes and gets discouraged.

When the slightest trace of deafness is detected in a child let the family doctor find out what is wrong with him physically. The first step is to make sure that needed measures are applied for building up the health. The deafness may be only temporary, but it is unwise to neglect it.

In some schools classes in lip-reading for permanently deaf children have been started. This is really constructive work and should be encouraged.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Loves Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is Delighted at Prospect of Having Visitors

There is nothing in the world which I enjoy so much as getting ready for the Christmas holidays. I think sometimes that the anticipation and the preparation give me even greater pleasure than the day itself.

I felt the old zest rising within me as I turned from the telephone after hearing Dicky's astonishing news. Not even the prospect of adding Mary's three brothers to my already large family during the holidays dampened my enthusiasm after the first dismaying moment of hearing the news. Indeed, when I had time for adjustment, I realized that these three young guests would add something to our celebration which heretofore had been lacking. Always before, Junior had been the only small small boy. I almost said the only child, for Marion, of course, while reveling in the holiday, was so much older than Junior and they could not share the day with the same comradeships that would have been theirs had they been more nearly of an age.

But this Christmas, Roderick Harrison, only a year Junior's senior, would be able to share all his joys and sorrows—I smiled ruefully at Dicky's prediction of "seven scraps a day," and there would be two other boys not yet too old to be ashamed of Christmas romps. My mind was already spinning threads of anticipation toward the presents I meant to buy them and the stress I meant to lay upon the happy rituals with which we celebrate the day.

Mother Graham's voice calling me from her bedroom solved the only question at all perplexing. I wished to have a long talk with Katie over the Christmas plans, but I knew that it would never do to tell my little maid of the coming of the Harrison boys before their grandmother should know it. Now that she was awake, I could appease her always sensitive dignity by giving her the news first.

"Margaret!" she was saying in her usual peremptory manner, "did I dream it, or were you talking to Richard just now over the telephone? I thought I heard you speak his name."

"Yes, mother, you did." I crossed to her swiftly, "and I was just coming to tell you about it. May I come in?"

"Well, what are you waiting for?" she asked. "Why don't you come out with it? I suppose it's bad news of some kind, or Richard wouldn't have telephoned. Is—is—it Harriet?"

Her eyes were pitiful with the terror of the old. I knew that she never had been quite the same since the death of her daughter, Elizabeth Harrison, and I guessed that ever lurking in the background of her consciousness was the dread that she might lose her remaining daughter or her son before death should release her from all pain and fear.

"No, no, mother." I almost shouted the words in my anxiety. "No one is ill. Everything is all right."

She stiffened in her chair and looked at me with grim eyes.

"Well then," she demanded truculently, "will you tell me what Richard and you mean by talking all that time over the telephone? You must think money grows on bushes. I know that Richard has no idea of money values, but I always have thought you had a little sense before this."

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The Gift a Bit 'Previous'

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Six months ago I met a man from another part of the country. He has given me a beautiful wrist watch and we expect to be married within a year. His parents are coming to this city permanently and he is furnishing a home for them. Is it proper for me to buy a set of dishes as a gift for their new home, even though I haven't met them yet? They know of me and wrote their son that they were very happy to hear the news. Please advise me whether or not I should buy a gift.

QUESTION BOX.

Since apparently they have not written to you directly to welcome you into the family, and since you have not yet met them, I believe that it would be a bit "previous" for you to make this rather personal gift. I advise that you remain on the safe side and make some gift to them for their home, after they have come to live in the house. Really it would be difficult for you to interpret their taste in such an intimate gift as dishes that they will use all the time. Don't you think so?

Breakfast—and the Man

By a man's breakfast shall ye know him.

* * *

* * *

If it is true that the Englishman is slow to see the point of a joke, that he takes himself too seriously, and that he is inclined to be stodgy and short-tempered, after 50, there's a reason. How can you expect a man to be sprightly and jovial and quick-witted on a stomach loaded down with mutton chops, Yarmouth bloaters and a couple of cast-iron English muffins, washed down with a pint of strong tea?

* * *

There are limits to what even the engine of the human machine will endure.

* * *

The Frenchman, on the other hand, has good reason to be frivolous, sparkling, light-hearted and volatile. He faces life, in the morning, with nothing to weigh on his soul except a cup of cafe-au-lait and a delicate croissant or a flaky roll.

* * *

But the American man, alas, treats his digestion like a step-child. He does not eat his breakfast. He throws it in, he shovels it in, he gulps it down, with one bite and a swallow, while he devours the stock quotations or the latest murder scandal in the morning newspaper.

* * *

Is it any wonder that he is so often a nervous wreck at 30, a dyspeptic at 40 and ready for a sanitarium at 50?

* * *

The New England conscience was founded, not on Plymouth Rock, but on a breakfast diet of unmasticated doughnuts, baked beans nd codfish balls. "Sinkers and coffee" at 7 a. m. would sink the brightest spirit into gloom.

* * *

Southern lassitude and inertia are due less to the southern sun than to the effect of southern waffles, hot rolls and kidney stew. And most of the New York neurosis is just the result of rushing for a train or a subway, after insulting the gastric juices with a couple of hastily swallowed soft-boiled eggs, an unchewed muffin and a green melon.

* * *

It's a wise wife who sees that her husband's digestion, his heart and his brain are started working properly in the morning, even if she looks upon him only as a money-making machine. Yet, many a woman who will watch the diet of her pet dog with an eagle eye and defend his tender stomach from everything that might disagree with him, will lie in bed and let her pet husband get his own breakfast and go off to work on a cheese sandwich and a cup of boiled-over coffee, left from last night's dinner.

On the other hand, many a devoted wife will stuff the family bread-winner with pancakes and syrup and heavy sausages, until his brain is loggy—and then wonder why he is such dull company after dinner.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, May 22

While there may be some movement and enterprise in the affairs of this day, according to the astral activities, yet there are some adverse conditions to be encountered. There is a sign of subtle menace attending new projects and there is definite danger from rash investments, loans or speculations. With judicious management and proper precaution things may be made to prosper. Personal correspondence may be of an interesting nature.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a fairly active year, with the spirit of enterprise under good stimulus, but withal new ventures carry a menace of treachery or fraud, and more than ordinary precaution is admonished in the employment of funds in hasty investments, speculations or loans. With due consideration of this possibility of loss there is some promise of success.

A child born on this day will be disposed to be very lively, enterprising and energetic, but it may likewise tend to hold a loose reign on its finances. Thrift and prudence in this respect may assist it to success in its undertaking s. Also, it may be subject (and prone) to subtlety and stratagem in handling its affairs.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Shoes of special design and build are recommended for bow-legged babies. They tend to throw the weight on the inner side of the foot, instead of the outer line. The next generation won't include any bow-legged girls. There won't be any.

Brushing the hair has no effect on the growth; it removes dust and dandruff and produces a gloss. Uncared for hair will not conform to the coiffure design as will hair that is brushed daily, put to bed clean and exercised.

"CAUGHT SHORT"

Based on

A Cosmopolitan Production.

Marie Jones was tickled to death when the book salesman tried to sell her a book on how to make a fortune in the stock market. She sent him across the street to her rival boarding house mistress, Polly Smith.

"Mrs. Smith needs the money more than I do," Marie says. "She has to support a pair of lorgnettes and a lung lizard."

A favorite sport of the younger sons of Polly and Marie was to toss mud balls at each other. Once in a while one of them missed his mark and hit a book salesman, as in this instance.

Polly and her son, William, were delighted with book on how to make a fortune in Wall Street. It was just what they needed to finish furnishing their library.

"After we're rich, ma," says William, "you can get that permanent wave you've been talking about all these years."

After studying the book on how to make a fortune on Wall Street, Polly made so much money that she bought a new bowl for the goldfish and a folding bed.

"I expect to have lots more folding beds," Polly said to Marie, to whom she is showing the rewards of speculation.

BOOL SHINES FOR PIRATES

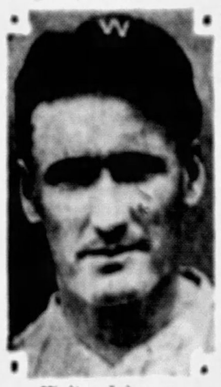
SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

Johnson Fools Critics. Surprise as Manager. French Masters Reds.

Pennock Wins 200th. Bucs at Leaders' Heels. Continuous Mat Act.

SENATORS BEAT A'S SEVEN STRAIGHT

THE MANAGERIAL STANDOUT of the baseball year so far, and the biggest surprise package among the major league pilots, is Walter Johnson. The former pitching king, now bossing the Washington Senators, has not only surpassed all rivals by lifting his club to first place in the American League and winning more ball games than any other skipper in the main tent, but his showing is all the more noteworthy because hardly anybody thought it was in him.



Walter Johnson.

Johnson didn't shine very brilliantly as a manager at Newark, and when Clark Griffith placed him at the head of the Senators last year and ousted Bucky Harris it was looked upon as merely a box office appointment. Griffith himself would be the real manager, it was figured, and in naming Johnson was only making a business play to profit by Walter's Washington popularity at the gate. The club owner was roundly criticized for retaining Johnson for 1930, in view of the fact that the team finished a poor fifth in 1929 and lost 10 games more than it won.

BUT JOHNSON'S SENSATIONAL success this spring has more than vindicated Griffith's judgment. It's too early, of course, to determine with any degree of certainty just what the Senators are likely to accomplish for the season as a whole. There's a lot of old timber on the club that may crumble before the finish, and many a team that starts out like a flag contender is a trailer in the fall.

However, Johnson has shown enough already to make it clear that Griffith knew what he was doing when he kept him on the job. Many thought Walter would be too lenient and easy-going to maintain discipline, but he exploded that theory by shipping Sam Jones home from Boston for insubordination and making it clear to all the other players that he would stand for no trifling. In various other ways he has proved himself a real manager.

THE GENERAL IMPROVEMENT in the Washington club can be traced to Johnson's smart handling. He has developed Joe Cronin into a star shortstop and built up a pitching staff that is the talk of the American League.

Add Liska, the submarine, looked like a bust last year, when he won only three games against nine lost. Bob Burke won only six and lost eight, and Lloyd Brown barely won the majority of his games with eight victories and seven defeats. But Johnson kept working with them, and now, under his coaching, they have all become fine pitchers to back up the veteran corps of Hadley, Jones, Marberry and Braxton.

Clark Griffith

THE MOST SENSATIONAL feature of the Senators' spring drive has been their showing against the Athletics. The fact may have escaped general notice, but Washington has defeated the world champions seven times in nine meetings. Moreover those seven victories were won in succession, and when the A's finally stopped the streak last Sunday it was by only a 1-to-0 score, in a game in which for the second time in the series they were held to three hits. Trimming the Mackmen seven times in a row is something that isn't done every season. The important part of that achievement is that it kept the A's from getting a flying start toward making a runaway race of it, and in doing that Johnson has averted a situation that would have ruined business for the entire American League.

IF THE PIRATES had only Cincinnati to beat they'd probably be running away from the pack in the pennant chase. Yesterday's victory (by the way the locals have won all four games in which Al Bool caught) was the sixth for the Bucs in seven games with the Reds and their fifth in succession at the expense of Dan Howley's troupe. It also was the first time this year the Reds were shut out.

Incidentally, Larry French, in hurling the Rovers to their third straight win and their fourth in the last five games, became the first Pittsburgh pitcher to turn in a shutout this season. The young southpaw appears to have the Reds' number. On April 17 he beat them, 7 to 1, and gave them only two hits. In two games he has held them to one run and six hits. These are the only games to date in which he has gone the route.

NOT ONLY 18 Rogers Hornsby back in the lineup at second base, but the Cubs, as usual, will present lots of additional color in the series starting here today, with Hack Wilson, Hazen Cuyler, Charley Grimm, Gabby Hartnett and other old favorites among the performers.

Hack Wilson.

Wilson is carrying new honors on this trip, as the Martinsburg slugger holds the distinction of being the leading home run hitter of both major leagues. Hack had 12 homers to his credit up to today, two more than Chuck Klein and three more than Walter Berger, his closest rivals.

WHEN HERB PENNOCK, relieving Waite Hoyt on the slab for the Yankees in Boston yesterday, held the Rex Sox to one run and three hits in eight innngs, winning out in the tenth, he did more than give an impressive pitching performance and show signs of a return to form. He broke into the small circle of pitchers who have won 200 ball games in the major leagues. For that was Pennock's two hundredth victory in the big show since he broke in with the Athletics in 1912. Not counting five world series decisions, the veteran left-hander had won 199 games at the close of the 1929 season, and yesterday's triumph was his first of the present season. His defeats total 140. Pennock's best year was 1926, when he won 23 games. Only four other pitchers now in the big leagues have won 200 or more games. They are Grover Alexander, of the Phillies, 373; Eppa Rixey, of the Reds, 244; Urban Faber, of the White Sox, 230, and Burleigh Grimes, of the Braves, 226. These records include the present season.

THAT THE PIRATES, their recent bad slump notwithstanding, had done practically as well on the whole for the first five weeks of the season as any other club in the National League, was attested today by the standing of the clubs.

This showed that not only had the Bucs jumped from fifth place to third by winning yesterday, but that they were only one game from the top and that it would be possible for them to go into first place this afternoon in event of a Pittsburgh victory and defeats for Brooklyn and St. Louis.

ALL OF WHICH serves to make clear that the National League race is the closest and most open that has been known in many years at this stage of the route. The Bucs still are almost as good as on even terms with the foremost in spite of their long off spell.

This because the other contenders also have had their off periods.

DISBROW SETS LOW GROSS PACE

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

M. S. Disbrow, J. W. Henry, Jr., and H. A. Kohman paced the early flunkers in the Pennsylvania Golf Association's inaugural tournament of the season at the Pittsburgh Field Club today. The morning competition was 18 holes medal play under full handicaps, and prizes are to be awarded to the owners of low net and low gross scores.

Heavy dew, which made accurate play on the greens difficult, handicapped the early starters, and the first wave of scores was unusually high.

Disbrow shot consistent golf to card an 83 and take the lead in the race for the low gross prize. Henry and Kohman each scored net 74, and none was able to better this mark.

Four ball best ball play was to follow the medal tourney. The summary:

WOMEN PLAY TODAY

Women golfers of the district are playing today at the Allegheney Country Club in their inaugural one-day tournament. Allegheny, as usual, is in its best condition, and some excellent scores may be anticipated.

The Wildwood Country Club is also the scene of much excitement today. Members are holding a day of golf for new members and guests, and it was expected a lot of fun would be in the making. George Wittmer, Jr., is president of Wildwood again this year, with Charles C. Chalfont, vice president, and Avery J. Bradford, secretary-treasurer. Nelson Zimmerman is boing better than ever as pro, with his brother, Harry, as assistant, and Ernie Loeffler, greenkeeper, has the course at its best for this time of the season. The club's new manager, Axel Jannson, also has become a popular man at Wildwood.

Greenkeepers and the chairmen of their green committees will be at the Highland Country Club tomorrow for a big meeting of experts at keeping grounds in shape. A number of greenkeeping appliances, such as hand and power mowers, tractors, sprinkling outfits, and top-dressing equipment is to be put on display. The affair is being held under the auspices of the Greenkeepers' Association of Western Pennsylvania, and a buffet luncheon will be served. The conclave will gather shortly after 10 o'clock, and will continue until everything has been thoroughly discussed and

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: SHEICH RAFAI RABAL, 156 YEARS OLD—Sheich Rafai Rabal, according to tribal records, was born in 1774 and antedates our Revolutionary War. He is the only man still alive who personally has seen Napoleon I during his campaign in Egypt. All during his life he claims to have freely partaken of alcoholic beverages. SENATOR DESSAULLES—The venerable centenarian, who recently died at the age of 102, established a remarkable record in the Senate of Canada. Although he followed the discussions very closely, and was most assiduous in his attendance at meetings, he never once participated in a debate, nor officially gave expression to an opinion. All parties united in doing him honor. PRO, AMATEUR BOUTS TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Two boxing shows are scheduled in the Pittsburgh district tonight. The Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, will make another and final attempt to stage its Battling Battalino-Vic Burrone fight, failing which it will scrap it as a bad job, while the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. is booked for its opening outdoor amateur show on its new California avenue grounds, North Side. Battalino's world featherweight title will not be at stake.

Meanwhile the Hickey Park Club, of Millvale, is set for its opening show tomorrow night, with Knute Hansen, Melancholy Dane heavyweight, of New York, meeting George Panka, of Homestead, in the 10-round main bout. Hansen arrived this morning, and both he and Panka will wind up their conditioning today, Hansen working in the Y. M. H. A. gym.

AMATEURS IN OPEN AIR

The amateur bouts will not get under way until 9 o'clock, daylight saving time, to give the fans who wish to attend twilight baseball games earlier a chance to take in both sports. Jack McNally, matchmaker, has arranged the following card of bouts:

Jackie Peters vs. Noch Bell, Young Pace vs. Jess Cunningham, John Sheppler vs. Kid Sterling, Joe Penney vs. George Rihn and Howdy McFarland vs. John Tri-

Fight Results

At Cleveland—Sergeant Sammy Baker defeated Paul Pirrone, 10 rounds; Frankie Simms knocked out Ted Sandwina, 8 rounds; Benny Gershe defeated Merle Alte, 6 rounds; Frankie Chatterton defeated Jack Dalton, 8 rounds; Marty McHale, won by a technical knockout over Pete Brancato, 5 rounds; Jimmy Taylor defeated Billy Skully, 4 rounds.

Stage to Get Shires After Season

CHICAGO, May 21.—(AP.)—Charles Arthur (Self-Subdued) Shires, White Sox first baseman, has served notice upon John Barrymore, Richard Bennett, George M. Cohan "and other minof league actors," that he will invade the theater after the baseball season closes.

ROONEY WINS AT POLLS

A football player who can kick 'em high and wide and do a bit of handsome running will be a candidate for the Legislature at the November election, as a result of the victory of Jimmy Rooney, in the Seventh District Republican campaign at the primaries yesterday.

Jimmy Rooney

Rooney, brother of Art and Dan Rooney, other famous athletes of the North Side, was nominated along with James Wettach, the incumbent. He has completed his football career at Pitt, where he has played in the backfield and won renown for his hefty punting.

SHAMROCK V WINS

SOUTHEND, England, May 21.—(AP.)—Winning her fourth successive race, Sir Thomas Lipton's new yacht, Shamrock V finished first today in a 40-mile sail off this port by a margin of about 12 minutes.

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER.

Well, folks, every time we get back from the Pullman League we have a good report to make. I was tellin' Jule on the way over from Cincinnati to try to get the schedule fixed so we could stay on the road and we'd have the flag cinched by the Fourth of July, but he said nobody but a lefthander could come up with one like that.

I cracked right back at the boss and told him a lefthander came up with a pretty one yesterday, so I won the argument. My roomie had so much stuff on the ball the Reds didn't have time to find out whether it was a lively ball or not Larry was dishin' up. We set on the bench and kidded the poor Reds about swingin' at Larry's bird seed.

Durocher got himself run out of the game for a wise-crack he made to Mike Donohue. Not because we won, but I believe Mike is a good umpire and I don't blame him if he shows who's the boss.

LARRY MISSES FIRST

We had a lot of fun kiddin' Larry about missin' first base and losin' a base-hit. He knew he missed it after he got part way to second, but naturally he tried to bluff it out. When Hughey Critz came over toward French to touch him, Larry tried to shoo him off. He was yellin' at Hughey to take the ball away, but Hughey touched him and Larry was minus a two-sacker.

On the level though, it wasn't much of a hit. The ball was bouncin' down the third-base line like it was lop-sided, and it finally hit the bag and rolled around the canvas or in the drainage ditch or somewhere. But Larry had two other good ones and he broke his bat tryin' for another base knock.

Lloyd Waner Reported Out For Season

The chances of Lloyd Waner, Pirate outfield star, getting back into the lineup of the club this season are very remote, according to reports current among the players.

The condition of "Little Poison" is said to be more serious than club officials will admit. He is confined in Union Memorial Hospital in Baltimore, suffering from an intestinal condition that has prevented him from regaining weight and strength following his operation for the removal of his appendix.

The Pirate management refuses to confirm or deny conflicting reports of the player's condition.

JAYS SHUTOUT FAIRMONT, 2-0

The Middle Atlantic League, after being all but stopped for two successive days, resumed play yesterday and ran off a full schedule of games.

At Jeannette, the Jays blanked Fairmont, 2-0, with Wickes hurling. Johnstown downed Wheeling, 9 to 4, at Johnstown, and Cumberland lost to Clarksburg, 6-3. Scottdale defeated Charleroi, 9 to 2, at Charleroi.

Agrella, Arm Hurt, Defeats Middaugh

OMAHA, May 21.—(AP.)—With his arm severely wrenched in an automobile accident 30 minutes before, Johnny Agrella, Omaha light-heavyweight, climbed into the ring last night at Ft. Crook and defeated Chuck Middaugh, Omaha, by a decision in 10 rounds.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

That persistent endeavor pays big premiums is exemplified in the case of Albert Bool, who has risen strikingly from the role of "soft-pedal" boy of the Pirate catching department to the first-string job.

The big Nebraska farmer has been under the bat in three successive games and victory has perched on the banners of the Buccos in each battle. Al's receiving has been marked by hustle and efficiency and his bat has played a heavy part in the present drive of the club.

SHOWS REAL SPIRIT

Bool does not have the finesse of Rolly Hemsley or Charley Hargraves, two polished receivers, but from the day he reported in Paso Robles right up to the present, he has never faltered in his spirit. Moreover, he is of the home-loving type that wants to succeed and he keeps himself in splendid condition all the time. He is one of the strong men of the league, but he is anything but quarrelsome, in fact Farmer Al has a playful nature, although a slap on the back from him is something akin to a Dempsey rabbit punch.

Bool is a long, dangerous hitter and he is rather fast for such a big fellow. He made it posible for the Pirates to get enough runs to win yesterday in Cincinnati. Albert scored the first run of a fine slab duel in the second round after he nicked the centerfield fence with a double, and he singled in the eighth with the bases loaded and two out to give the Pirates two safety tallies.

FRENCH BLANKS REDS

Larry French held the Rhinelanders to four hits and the Buccos copped the second game, 5 to 0. It was the third straight triumph of the Pirates over the Reds, they defeating them Saturday at Forbes Field.

French thus turned in the first shutout success of the Pirates this season. The young left-hander was in a delightful stride and he was accorded fine support, especially by Grantham, whose clever fielding in the first inning enabled the Pirates to run off a snappy double play.

Adam Comorosky featured the clash with a three-bagger and two singles. Commy's steal of second in the eighth with two out was the spark on which the big rally started.

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The race in the National League couldn't be any tighter if Harry Lauder owned the league. You've got five teams scrambling at the top of the ladder like a family of Japanese acrobats. I don't know what happened to the Phillies. They just dived to the bottom of the league and forgot to come up. We've got a nice race in our circuit too, but it's more exclusive. Our Washington outfit is on speaking terms with the A's but we can snub the other clubs. In fact, we've got so little to worry about I almost sleep past my breakfast hour every morning. I said almost.

ROBINS ROUT PHILS; CARDS, BRAVES WIN

YANKS, TRIBE VICTORS IN AMERICAN

Associated Press

The amazing race of the National League clubs for the higher places in the standing has stolen the show in big league baseball from their two circuit rivals. Four games were played yesterday in each major league and while the American was offering but one change in the standing, a shift of the seventh and eighth place clubs, the elder circuit left just two clubs in their former posts.

The Brooklyn Robins who became the leaders only Sunday held their place by thrashing the Phillies, still the tailenders, 16 to 9. All the rest shifted about. The New York Giants dropped from second to fourth place for the day's biggest fall, while Pittsburgh made the best climb going from fifth to third.

BRAVES SINK GIANTS

Even the Boston Braves, latest of all outsiders, added themselves to the struggle as they downed the Giants for their fourth victory in the five-game series. Led by Wally Berger, a hard-hitting recruit from Los Angeles, the Braves pulled out a 10-inning triumph, 4 to 3. Berger scored both of Boston's runs in the regular nine innings, one of them on his ninth homer of the year.

Brooklyn had almost no trouble hooding the top as they pounded three Phils pitchers for 16 hits to get their 16 runs.

Pittsburgh leaped up two places in the standing as Larry French shut out the Cincinnati reds with four hits to give the Pirates their third straight victory.

CUBS IN FIFTH

The St. Louis Cardinals followed the Brooklyn system downing the Chicago Cubs 10 to 5 to move into second place and send the Cubs down to fifth.

Another St. Louis team, the Browns, brought about the only alteration in the American League standing by downing the Detroit Tigers 8 to 7, and exchanging places with them.

With the first and second teams Washington and Philadelphia enjoying a day of scheduled rest, the first division of the league improved its position a fair. The third place Cleveland Indians scored a double victory over the Chicago White Sox, who hold the fifth post by scores of 7 to 3 and 7 to 5.

The New York Yankees had to go 10 innings to gain a 7 to 4 victory over the Boston Red Sox as Ed Durham did some great relief pitching. Taking over the job in the third inning, Durham gave only one hit up to the tenth, then weakened suddenly to yield three hits and as many runs.

At a high school in New York City an intelligent test given showed that the athletes graded higher than the honor students. This is the worst blow athletics has received in some time.

Considering the late start that they get at the University of Wisconsin every year in baseball, Guy Lowman must be given a lot of credit for the fine showing his team makes every spring. This year he has one of the best teams in the Big Ten with a big chance of winning the flag.

In order to make sure that the team next fall using wing backs do not creep up closer than one yard, why not move them back two yards and at the same time let's abolish all man-in-motion plays. There no doubt would be a lot of objection from the "set and go" coaches to this, the words "set and go" coaches to this. The words "set and go" being supposedly descriptive, although many of them just "set." It makes a lot of difference apparently whose ox is gored.

DUKE NETTERS CLAIM VICTORY BY DEFAULT

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Grant Sverd's Dukes tangled with Allegheny College on the Bluff yesterday afternoon. The fracas lasted well into the twilight hour and when ultimately it was over, the outcome was still a subject of doubt, but to maintain confidence.

It seems that 10 days or so ago the Hilltoppers journeyed to the Meadville institution and there dropped a 4-3 verdict in a bout consisting of five singles and two doubles debates. Yesterday Allegheny came to Pittsburgh with only four men, enough for but four singles and two doubles. Anyway, Capt. Andy Smeaton of Duquesne copped his usual singles triumph, while his mates, Bullion, Campbell and brother Bill Smeaton drew man-to-man decisions.

DUKES WIN DOUBLES

Casey the Red and Blue mentor five entrant was ready to cavort but had no opponent. The Hilltopper thereupon claimed this tussle by default from Booth the Allegheny fifth racqueteer who had terminated at home for an examination. Then the Severd delegation, feeling in its might, pooled out two doubles wins and the Casey-Booth situation meant the difference between a 3-3 tie and a 4-3 Duke victory. So that what is what will not be learned until Graduate Managers John D. Monahan of Duquesne and S. S. Townsend of Allegheny can step into a huddle and dope it all out.

TOURNEY GETS O. K.

Formal sanction of the forty-second annual Western Pennsylvania tennis championships was received at local headquarters yesterday from Tournament Committee Chairman W. D. R. Evans, of the Middle States Lawn Tennis Association. The dictum of the parent body constitutes the West Penn event an official sectional title affair, precisely as it has been for many years past, and confers upon victors in the various branches of competition the right to represent this district in national tourneys.

A slight slip-up on the sanction sheet omitted the women's doubles division and slated the entire meeting for the Pittsburgh Golf Club instead of Stanton Heights, where the jousting will actually be staged. These points, however, are mere details to be cleaned up by the simple expedient of a letter of explanation.

It has been announced by the Edgewood Club that Dr. R. E. Peterson will lead the Suburbanites' newly organized second team into P. T. A. Inter-Club League action in the circuit inaugural Saturday of the current week.

Peterson is not a flashy performer but he is a sound tactician and will be of immense value to the troupe of youngsters whom he will be called upon to direct.

Simultaneously with the Edgewood proclamation there came word from Philadelphia Company that Charley Gaul, veteran Trafford ace, has been named captain of the Utilities host. Gaul was perhaps the outstanding individual star of Section II of the loop last summer; his new honors are exceedingly well merited.

Slattery May Lose Gift Boxing Title

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP).—Jimmy Slattery's light-heavyweight crown, a gift to him from the New York State Athletic Commission may be taken back again by the fistic fathers.

The commissioners yesterday warned the Buffalo boxer that he must battle Maxie Rosenbloom at Buffalo, during the week of June 22 or lose on July 1 the title recognition given him for his victory over Lou Scozza last February. Although the match has been pending for months, the gladiators have failed to sign contracts.

BIG LEAGUERS' 'UP' AVERAGE EIGHT YEARS

By BABE RUTH

Baseball's Highest Salaried Player

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—We were playing the St. Louis Browns the other day and as the St. Louis players came through the dugout to take the field Heine Manush spotted me.

"Hello old folks," he yelled.

Heine laughed. "How long have you been up, Babe?" he asked.

"This is my sixteenth big league season," I told him.

"Well," he said, "I haven't checked up, but I'll bet you ten bucks right now that there aren't 10 active players in the two big leagues who have been up longer than you have in consecutive seasons."

I didn't make the bet and I'm glad I didn't. For checking up I find I'm really a veteran. Walter Schang, now with the A's, Red Faber, with the White Sox, and possibly Clarence Mitchell are the only players I can recall off hand who have been up longer. It just goes to show how quickly a man grows old in baseball and how soon the whole complexion of the game changes.

Babe Ruth

AVERAGE EIGHT YEARS

Manush's kidding got me to thinking and along with some of the other boys we got to figuring on a ball player's active life. And do you know the average life of a big league ball player is something less than eight years. The fellow who manages to stick around the big league for 10 years is the exception and the chap who can last for 15 years is a marvel.

And the young players who are coming up today are wise to that fact. A few years ago ball players took life easy and without worrying. They came up, had a good time, and faded out of the picture. Ballplayers today are getting smart. They realize when they come up that their jobs are short ones and they're out to protect their physique, take care of their health and save their money as much as possible.

Which accounts, I think for a lot of the changes in baseball as a game, and a lot of the changes in players as individuals. The old type rough-and-ready ball player has just about disappeared. They don't have Rube Waddells and Bugs Raymonds any more. Baseball today is more of a business than it has ever been and the players themselves are real business men.

PLAYERS GETTING SMARTER

A lot of fans claim that players today are getting soft—and they laugh because the player who gets the slightest injury goes immediately to a doctor. I claim that the boys are just getting smarter. The fellow who goes out there and continues to play despite a sore arm or a charley horse may draw a lot of cheers for that day—but the cheers don't help keep him in the league when that bad arm or bad leg slows him up. Time was when players used to run bases with spikes high. They don't do that any more either. It isn't that they've grown soft or timid. It's because they realize that they may cut some fellow out of a job before his time is up—and by the same token some other play may chop them down right in their prime.

It's taken me a long time to get wise to myself. I wasted a lot of years and a lot of energy in this game before I realized that I was hurting only myself. But I'm getting smart now. Believe me, I take every chance I can get to tip off the young kids who are coming along.

CLAIRTON, ROX TEAMS WIN

Clairton High boys and McKees Rocks girls carried off the championship at the annual track and field meet of the independent schools of Allegheny county held yesterday at Homestead High School athletic field. Coach Waldman's athletes were way out in front scoring 50 points in the boys' class. Dormont in second place, carried 26 points. Wilkinsburg was third with 16.

Reversing the order of the boys' event, McKees Rocks lassies finished at the top of the heap in the girls' division, scoring an overwhelming victory. The Johnston-coached athletes scored in every event, for a 67 points total. Carnegie in second place, scored 19. Bellevue, with 16, captured third.

Girls: McKees Rocks, 67; Carnegie, 19; Bellevue, 16; Homestead, 6.

FLYNN BURIAL TOMORROW

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 21.—Lee P. Flynn, veteran boxing promoter and manager, who died in New York Monday, will be laid to rest here tomorrow.

BUCKEYES BAN THREE STARS AS PROS

COLUMBUS, May 21.—Three Ohio State baseball players were dropped from the squad yesterday in the biggest wholesale shakeup in Buckeye athletic history when it became known that Bill Hinchman, Tom Stull, and Lawton Fontaine had played Sunday baseball with the Coshocton team of the Eastern Ohio League this year.

Hinchman, a son of the Pittsburgh Pirate scout, admitted he had been playing professionally for three years. During the past two summers he had been with the Columbia team of the South Atlantic League, a Pirate farm, playing under assumed names each year.

He is a senior and was a three-year letter man in both basketball and baseball. He is a hard hitter and was used both in the outfield and on the pitcher's mound this spring. He played guard in basketball.

Stull lives in Coshocton and was playing his second year with the Buckeyes. He had been acting captain of the Ohioans this year, performing as shortstop. He is a junior.

Fontaine, whose home is in Akron, came to Ohio State from Syracuse two years ago, where he was a regular end on the football team. He performed creditably for the Buckeyes as an end against Pitt last fall, and was one of the best flankers in the Conference. He was playing his second year on the diamond squad and was used in the outfield where his hard hitting featured all of the games. He was the leading home run slugger.

He had another year of football and baseball remaining and Coach Willaman will be forced to develop another wingman to replace Fontaine opposite the all-American Fesler.

The Buckeyes have four games remaining on the baseball schedule but are definitely out of the Western Conference race.

GENEWICH INJURED

NEW YORK, May 21.—Joe Genewich, veteran right-hander of the New York Giants, will be lost to the club for several days as a result of being struck on the head by a line drive while shagging flies in the outfield yesterday during the Giants batting practice.

Greisser's Release Surprises Fans

CHARLEROI, Pa., May 21.—Diamond fans in the Magic City district were somewhat surprised when Manager Dave Lamb, of the Charleroi Governors, Middle Atlantic League club announced that he had released Pitcher Carl Greisser.

The release of Greisser left five members on the Governors' pitching staff. They are Drugmond, Urinako and Hunt, all of last year's championship pitching staff, and Gumbert and Brower.

Stratton and Masters staged a fine hurlers' duel in the Section I encounter, the Belleflelder having a bare edge over the left-handed star of the East Enders. Schenley got five safe hits and Peabody two.

In Section II, Allegheny defeated South Hills by a 4-to-2 count and practically clinched second place.

North Braddock, defending champions in the W. P. I. A. L., nosed out McKeesport in a playoff game, 5 to 2, scoring a run in the seventh inning to win the game.

In an independent tussle, Westinghouse defeated Shady Side Academy, 6 to 3, and in a Junior League contest, Arsenal walloped Latimer, 23 to 2.

Having crashed through last evening with almost a complete schedule of games, sandlotters in the district hope to be again favored by the weather in this evening and are anxious to resume action with league and independent batting.

One game will be staged in the City League. St. John's, under the leadership of Pat O'Shea, will invade McKees Rocks to do battle with the W. O. W. Club. Mike Jedinak has the Greater Pittsburgh champions all primed for the fight and a good battle should ensue.

FINTEX, ETNA CLASH

In the Central League, Fintex, with Pickles in charge, will make the trip to Etna to hook up with Imhoff's club. Etna has a good ball club, but is not getting the breaks, so the fans at Isabella Field should see a game worth while.

In the Commercial and Industrial circuit, the Dravo Contracting aggregation will strive to break into the win column at the expense of the Carnegie Steel nine. The Steelers also need to get on the right side of the ledger. Stritzinger will probably oppose Engleman on the slab.

The Steel City League will flash four games. The undefeated Demor Club will meet the Clover team, while the Fox A. C. will travel to Pleasant Valley to meet the Observatory Civics.

CARDS FACE TEST

In the Eastern section, a local battle will be fought at the Homewood playgrounds when Young Men's Star Circle meets the East End Cardinals. The other game in this section will find Lincoln Place traveling to Lawrenceville to meet St. Elizabeth.

In the Greater Pittsburgh League Reliance Life will try to keep its standing intact by dusting off Dan Heep's at the Wilkinsburg High School field. The Insurance boys are gong at a great clip, and are favorites to win the first half of the league race.

One game will be played in the Major League. The Liney Club, of Mt. Washington, will travel to Mellon Field to hook up with Iroquois.

INGOMAR WINS

In the North Side Twilight League last evening Ingomar defeated Fineview, 5 to 1, and Immaculate Heart defeated St. Boniface, 13 to 1. Edgewood turned back Verona, 1 to 0, and Reliance Life defeated Universal, 3 to 0, in Greater Pittsburgh League tussles.

In Edgewood's 1-0 victory, Barnum held Verona hitless and fanned five batsmen.

Ingram tied the Methodists, 4 to 4, in a Crafton-Ingram Church League fracas. Soho Traders defeated Fintex, 5 to 2, in the Central circuit, and in the Commercial League National Union hammered out an 11-to-5 victory over Gimbels.

Equitable Gas downed the Pittsburgh Railways, 10 to 5, in the Philadelphia Company loop; Conway won from Kokinos Cards, 9 to 0, in the Ohio Valley League; B. and O. defeated Hornes, 5 to 4, in the C. and I. circuit, and the Lineys defeated Mt. Lebanon, 7 to 0, in a Major League setto.

Long's Sport Comment

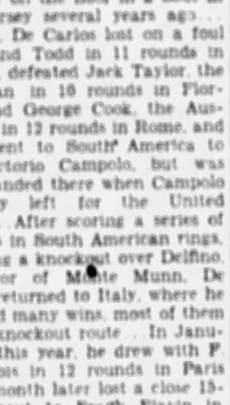
The Cubs, for instance, have lost four of their last five, and seven of their last nine games. The Giants have lost six of their last seven contests. Bill McKechnie's Braves helped to tighten things up by defeating the McGrawites four times in five games. In the five games, three of which went into extra innings, the Boston pitchers held the Giants to a total of 13 runs, never allowing more than three to a game, and a club batting average of .254. The New Yorkers had to go 11 innings to capture the only game they won.



Gus Sonnenberg.

THE WRESTLING CHIEFS in that end of the racket where Gus Sonnenberg is held to be the world heavyweight champion, the same title that is claimed to be at stake on the Dick Shikat-Jim Londos match, scheduled for June 12 in Philadelphia, evidently figure that it will suit their purpose best to keep Sonnenberg at the head of their parade a while longer. At any rate, Sonnenberg was declared the winner in another meeting with Strangler Lewis in Kansas City on Monday night, though the general opinion is that Lewis can defeat Sonnenberg any time he cares to do so. But have you noticed that no matter how one of the so-called championship matches results, the grapplers always leave the road paved and the stage set perfectly for a return number in some other city? Sonnenberg and Lewis have met three times, and each affair ended in such a way as to leave room for argument about the decision. In two Boston shows Lewis accused Sonnenberg of fouling. In Kansas City the decision was given to Sonnenberg on account of a foul by Lewis. Now they'll move on to some other town, probably, and pull the same thing again.

Sport Vignettes

James (Red) Mason, dean of local boxing managers, comes up out of his trunk with an old program issued for a boxing show in Sydney, Australia, back in 1916, and it is full of interesting scandal and other material. Tom McMahon, New Castle heavyweight, now residing in Cleveland, was in the 20 round main bout, pitted against Jim Tracey, who later came to this country highly touted as a heavyweight hope and flopped miserably. . . For the following Saturday night, the program advertised a 20-rounder between Jimmy Clabby, the good American middleweight, and Fred Kay, an Australian favorite, while farther back in the booklet is an announcement of a return bout to be fought at Melbourne on November 6 (Cup eve, corresponding to our Kentucky Derby eve fights at Louisville) between George Chip, also of New Castle, and Les Darcy, one of the greatest of the Anzacs, who later was to visit these shores and suffer a tragic and untimely demise. . . Pictures of Chip and Darcy appear in advertisements recommending patent medicines. . . A boxing note says that Jimmy Wilde, the English flyweight, sometimes boxes six bouts a day, appearing three times in one town and then hopping into an automobile and going to another English town for three more. . . Another note says that the calling to arms of all single men between the ages of 21 and 35 for war service will deplete the boxing ranks and give many of the Australian youngsters an opportunity to display their wares. . . Another reports Benny Palmer, the Mexican featherweight, has had his jaw dislocated for the third time since his arrival in Australia to box. . . A match is in the making between Joe Chip, brother of George, and Fritz Holland, another item says, while still another prophetically advises Darcy not to listen to tempting offers from America, warning him that the managers and promoters would cut up his purses in such a manner that he would have little left for himself. . . Australia was a great boxing center in those days and lured many of the best boxers of this country, who were signed for series of battles before sailing. . . Patsy Brannigan and Buck Crouse were others to go over from these parts. . . Joe Woodman and George Lawrence, of New York, veteran managers, who piloted Sam Langford in the latter's salad days, have a new heavyweight in tow for whom they predict great things and he really has a fine record for a man who is so little known. . . He is Armando De Carlos, an Italian, who recently arrived in this country. . . Armando began boxing in 1927, in which year he knocked out Reverbert in four rounds in Milan and lost on a foul to Phil Scott in four rounds in London. . . His managers declare he floored Scott in the second and fourth rounds and Phil "claimed" his way out. . . Reverbert is the fellow who had Jack Sharkey on the floor in a bout in New Jersey several years ago. . . In 1928, De Carlos lost on a foul to Roland Todd in 11 rounds in London, defeated Jack Taylor, the American, in 10 rounds in Florence and George Cook, the Australian, in 12 rounds in Rome, and then went to South America to box Victorio Campolo, but was left stranded there when Campolo suddenly left for the United States. . . After scoring a series of victories in South American rings, including a knockout over Delfino, conqueror of Monte Munn, De Carlos returned to Italy, where he achieved many wins, most of them by the knockout route. . . In January of this year, he drew with F. Gardebois in 12 rounds in Paris and a month later lost a close 15-round bout to Frank Flavin in London, after which he sailed for the land of milk and honey for heavyweights, which, in case you don't know, is the United States, and here he is now, all dressed up waiting for some place to go or something to happen.

SCHWARTZ RETURNS

Benny Schwartz is back from Baltimore, where he visited following his recent victory over Frisco Grande at Motor Square Garden, and is in training for a match likely with Archie Bell at one of the local arenas. He also is ready to box Jackie Rodgers again.

Francis Flynn, former Moose Club promoter, is planning to stage a few "big shot" matches during the summer months, either in Duquesne Garden or at Forbes Field. He would like to put on a Jackie Rodgers-Johnny Dunn fourth meeting at the baseball park and has opened negotiations for the use of the field.

Harry Smith, New York Negro middleweight star, has been signed to meet the best opponent obtainable in the Meyers Bowl on the night of July 7, according to word from his manager, Dave Brown.

Gus Suhr pulled one for the public library yesterday. Two or three of our rookies was walkin' down the street with Gus when we stopped at a novelty store, to do some window shoppin. Gus saw a deck o' cards and two small whisk brooms advertised for a dime and he bolted in. He came out with his bargain and said he could use the cards and one brush an' he was gonna give the other broom to a certain umpire who has been missin' them on him.

SUHR BUYS BROOM

Suhr was showing his bargains to the gang at the hotel and Larry came up with a wise remark. He told Gus to keep one of the brooms in his pocket in the series with the Cubs so he could dust his uniform off after the Cub pitchers knocked him down.

HEARST SHOOT CHAMPS GET AWARDS

FARGO, N. D., May 21.—The North Dakota farm boys, some of whom has ever been farther away from home than Minneapolis yesterday received the first of the awards to come to them because their sharp eyes and steady aims won the senior division of the Hearst intercollegiate rifle matches.

Featuring the annual inspection of the North Dakota Agricultural College cadet corps was the presentation of the mammoth trophy given by William Randolph Hearst to the rifle champions. It is the first time it has been won here. Lieut. Col. Bertram Lenz, U. S. A. P. S. and T., Minnesota, who inspected the cadet unit, presented the trophy on behalf of Mr. Hearst.

Receiving the bronze plaque, President J. H. Shepperd of the College paid tribute to Mr. Hearst and the interest he awards have brought in the realm of marksmanship. He said:

"Mr. Hearst every year is getting thousands of young men to live right because they wish to win his honors. I know and everyone knows that rifle marksmanship makes the maximum demands on the nerves and condition of the competitors.

"I am proud that five students of our college lived right and won. I join with the state of North Dakota in thanking Mr. Hearst, not only for his trophy but for the good he is doing all over the land."

WOMEN GAMES CAUSE ROW

BERLIN, May 21.—(AP)—Strong pressure in favor of the continuance of women's Olympic track and field events in the 1932 games at Los Angeles was brought to bear today by the International Amateur Athletic Federation in session here.

Unless the women are allowed to compete the world's male athletes as represented in the I. A. A. F. will adopt a policy of non-co-operation in regard to the Olympics, it was indicated.

A resolution proposed by Gustavus T. Kirby, of New York, was adopted by the federation at its closing session today which provides that the I. A. A. F. shall remain in Berlin in recess ready to be called together should the Olympic Congress, convening next week, decide to eliminate the women's track and field events.

Although it was not stated in the resolution everybody present knew that recalling the I. A. A. F. into session would mean voting to withdraw from the Olympics.

There is only one possibility of the I. A. A. F.'s accepting elimination of feminine track and field competition, namely, if the Olympic Congress should decide also to cut out all other women's events, such as fencing and swimming.

In that case the I. A. A. F. was ready to abide by the new decision of the Congress, although with regret.

In addition to the 16 new world records accepted yesterday, a new world standard for the 16-pound shotput was recognized. A heave of 52 feet 7¼ inches, made by Emil Hirshfeld, of the German Olympic team on July 26, 1928, in Bochum, Germany, replaces the old mark of 52 feet ¾ inch made by John Kuck, of the United States, in beating Hirshfeld and the rest of the field for the 1928 Olympic crown.

New Castle Night Track Meet Friday

NEW CASTLE, Pa., May 21.—Western Pennsylvania track fans will be treated to an unusual sports event on Friday night when close to 1,000 "cinder pounders" will compete in the New Castle High School night track carnival, which will be staged at Taggart Field.

Many schools from this section will have contestants competing in the mammoth meet in the hope of winning the numerous awards which will be given the winners in the different events. Ralph H. Gardner, faculty manager of athletics at New Castle High, who is in charge of the first meet of this kind ever attempted in the United States, has arranged close to 35 events.

Kiski Golfers Win Prep School Title

SALTSBURG, Pa., May 21.—The Kiski golf team won the Eastern interscholastic team championship at Greenwich, Conn., with a total score of 676. Hotchkiss School was second with 678. The tourney was played in a downpour of rain.

The Kiski team was composed of Wilson Marks, of Saltsburg, captain; George Hunter Beaver, Pa.; Herbert Levine, Toledo, O.; Kent Zimmerman, of Detroit, Mich. At a banquet at Greenwich Country Club, Wilson Marks was elected president of the Eastern Interscholastic Golf Association for the coming year.

FATS GOURLEY QUITS MAROON GRID POST

By JESS CARVER

After much fussing and fidgeting about, Cullen "Fats" Gourley has quit his job as line coach at Lafayette College at Easton, Pa., and Herb McCracken is peering anxiously about for a suitable successor.

For the past three years the popular Cullen has been threatening to give up the coaching racket. Gourley is a lawyer and draws a right nice pay check as a member of the legal staff of a local firm. He's been waiting to break away from active participation in his favorite sport but each fall the intoxicating call of the gridiron has drawn away from all good resolutions and carried him back to Easton and his job as first mate to McCracken.

A leg injury that never entirely healed was the only thing that kept Gourley from being an all-America tackle while at Pitt. He is a fine teacher, was a fine player and always will be a fine guy.

I have a strong hunch that before he decides to take on a Lafayette graduate as Gourley's successor Coach McCracken will seek to secure Hank Hangartner another former Pitt star and for two years line coach at Bucknell.

The Tipoff

The Canonsburg Townies are billed to appear at Washington on a return engagement with the Washington Cardinals. This match is a post-season affair which was waited for by the fans of the Maple Leaf city for the past couple weeks.

Coaches Sims of Pitt and Hadley of Tech are grooming their Owls and Bull squads for the Blue Game that confronts the Big Saturday. The Panthers have Geneva, City to worry over and Pitt had West Virginia.

So far it looks as though Temple is the class for the 100 yard dash in the Pitt Intercollegiate meet Saturday. There will be a second effort. Both-sides Thomas Penn State negro Olympian, and Jacobs be ing pushed to character preliminary heats.

The Carnegie Tech F. R. D. athletic council will meet in the near future to take up the matter of letters which the members have been withheld because they will lose the rest of the college year with the exception of West Virginia.

Penn Relays and University of Pittsburgh Pentad will head a delegation of prominent track men to Europe this summer. Following the Relays and the state will send a team to the Nationals. A. A. U. meet. George Simpson and Lee Bontemps have accepted offers to make the trip.

HELEN JACOBS, PARTNER, WIN

AUTEUIL, France, May 21.—(AP)—Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal., was the only American to see action in the French hard court tennis championships yesterday, but two of her compatriots advanced without striking a blow.

While Miss Jacobs and her Belgian partner, Irene Sirard, played in a drizzling rain to defeat a team of sisters, Veronique and Josephine Gallay, of France, 6-3, 3-6, 6-0, the all-California combination of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Elizabeth Ryan was spared the trouble of playing at all.

Mrs. Moody and Miss Ryan advanced to the third round through the default of their adversaries, two obscure French girls, who took one look at the soggy courts and decided they did not want to get their feet wet. Mrs. Moody, the champion of the United States, England and France, was ready to go on and so was Miss Ryan.

Mid-Western Pilot To Race at Speedway

One of the real veterans of the automobile racing realm and a pilot, while not listed among the big money winners, regarded among the best in the country, is the fifth entrant in the 100-mile AAA derby at the Pittsburgh-Bridgeville board speedway Memorial Day afternoon. He is Cliff Hamm, of Kalamazoo, Mich., who, for the last 10 years has been cutting a wide swath on Chicago and other mid-western tracks and the boys who carry the eastern banner in the local inaugural will find a stiff and potent foeman for the first prize.

Hamm announces in his entry that he will drive a Frontenac four, powered by the same motor used by Gaston Chevrolet when he won the Indianapolis classic, and when he was killed at California.

B. Ward Beam, sponsor, anticipates at least a field of 20 starters in the qualifying trials which will be staged on the morning of the race.

Sammy Baker Wins Over Paul Pirrone

CLEVELAND, May 21.—(AP)—Sammy Baker, New York welterweight, won a 10-round decision over Paul Pirrone, of Cleveland, last night.

OLD TURFMAN DIES

ORANGE, Tex., May 20.—(AP)—John Kathan, 86, once said to have been the oldest race horse driver in America, died yesterday of complications resulting from a fall last week in which he suffered a broken hip. He was a Civil War veteran. Kathan drove in his last race here last summer.

LEONARD BOXES WITH GOB

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., May 21.—(AP)—An old-timer, Benny Leonard, the retired undefeated lightweight champion, volunteered as a sparring partner for Jack Sharkey yesterday and got his nose nicely reddened with left jabs in a one-round bout. Leonard, weighing 163, still has much of his old skill for a round, but was easily outboxed by the Boston sailorman.

Leonard plans to box with Sharkey for a week. Jack boxed a round each with Johnny Grosso, Paul Cavalier and King Solomen and his work was impressive. He weighed under 200 pounds.

MATES "SHOW UP" MAX

ENDICOTT, N. Y., May 21.—(INS)—Long and vigorous training may be ordered today for Max Schmeling to prepare him for his heavyweight bout with Jack Sharkey in New York on June 12. The German heavyweight appeared slow and feeble, some critics said, in his workout yesterday.

He worked with Don Petrin and Stan Poreda, two new sparring partners, boxing two rounds with each. Both of the sparring mates jabbed the German at will and pasted him, whereas, in the routine, they shoud have been receiving blows.

Ring Board Ordered To Surrender Purse

MILWAUKEE, May 21.—(AP)—Judge John J. Gregory has entered an order directing the Wisconsin Boxing Commission to surrender a $10,000 purse withheld from Joe Dundee, Baltimore, former welterweight champion, for three years.

But Dundee did not win either the ring or the legal decision. Attorney George A. Burns, counsel for the Eagles' Club, which started the litigation, said:

"The order is pursuant to a recent United States Supreme Court decision upholding the referee's finding of 'no decision' in the Pinky Mitchell-Dundee bout staged by the Eagles' Club three years ago. For all practical purposes turning over the money to the clerk of courts is a formality preliminary to paying it back to the Eagles' Club."

'Tis Often Darkest Just Before Dawn; Look Ahead a Year

By B. C. FORBES

OFTEN the darkest just before the dawn. Weak-kneed individuals are terribly distressed. They are sure that commodity prices will do nothing but go down and down. They cannot see what can happen to infuse real life into business. Unemployment—it is beyond all hope. As for the stock market, it has hardly a friend left.

Sure conditions are far from ideal. They are so far from ideal that in my humble opinion they are bound to get better. I believe for example, that commodity price levels—apart from certain manufactured goods which are constantly being produced more economically—are little likely to sink much lower but are entirely likely shortly to show strength. General business, too, impresses me as already on the up-grade, although miracles must not be expected.

As for the stock market, it looks infinitely more attractive to me now than it did a year ago. I, for one, was selling stocks then, whereas I was a buyer during the last sharp break. If stocks were alluring a year ago, when they were selling at fancy prices, surely they are better investments today at drastically lower prices.

I don't want to be considered as holding out hopes for an immediate boom in the stock market. A considerable period of dullness would be logical. So would drifting quotations, with more declines than advances. While I have retained ownership of a majority of the stocks I acquired during the panic, I sold enough to be in a position to take advantage of any unreasonable weakness which may occur—it is always wise to hold on to a comfortable reserve.

But my very definite opinion is that within 12 months—and probably very much sooner—the stock market will again start moving spiritedly upwards.

It takes no irrational courage to predict that industry and business in general will also be doing distinctly better by this time next year. America is too inherently sound, too rich in brains, resources and money, too dynamically energetic and enterprising to stay down for very long.

RESEARCH carried on quietly in the oil industry will by and by astound the world by its fruits.

One fairly safe rule for investors in industrial stocks is to acquire shares of companies which spend large amounts of money in research.

The president of one well-known food company has just sent out this letter to his stockholders:

"It gives me great pleasure to know that you have expressed your confidence in our company by becoming one of our 70,000 stockholders. As a stockholder, you are interested in your company's success.

"I am writing you today about our—coffee. This is a quality coffee with a reputation of long standing in sections where it has been sold. Coffee deteriorates with age. In buying coffee you are protected against age. It is delivered fresh direct from the roaster to the store twice each week. Every can is dated; not a single can is allowed to remain on the grocer's shelf more than 10 days; thus you are assured of its fragrance and flavor. Your company is the only company equipped to deliver freshly roasted coffee nationally. It is on sale at all leading grocers.

"If you are not drinking our coffee, may I suggest that you drink it and ask your friends to drink it. I can assure you it is delicious; delicious, because of its quality and freshness."

This very evening I am going to ask my wife to give it a trial, as I happen to be a modest stockholder. Besides, I like to do business with people who show enterprise.

THE OPINION is spreading that President Hoover will veto the tariff bill. It certainly is a masterpiece of political huggermugger, displeasing to all at home and abroad—except those who have maneuvered to get a share of the swag.

THE SALARY OF GATES McGARRAH, president of the Bank for International Settlements, which has just started business in Basle, Switzerland, is $50,000 a year. That was probably about what he received when president of the Mechanics and Metals Bank, before Al Wiggin made it part of his Chase Bank, and is very much less than now paid to most presidents of huge American enterprises, but th figure will probably make Europeans gasp. Over there $50,000 salaries are almost unknown. The man who rules the British Empire, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, gets $25,000. I know one private secretary of an American multi-millionaire business man who earns more than $200,000 a year.

MY HAT'S off to Alexander Legge. Although he has been assigned one of the most impossible tasks in the world, he has tackled his superhuman difficulties with indomitable courage, refusing to let his confidence be shaken.

Study the careers of the men who have made the greatest marks in this coun' and you will discover that the one outstanding characteristic of nearly all of them was unconquerable courage.

TRADE PICKUP FOR REST OF YEAR SEEN

Indications Now Point to Most Rapid Gains in Third Quarter, Sages Say

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Although recent business improvement has been little more than seasonal in character, public and private forecasters continue to try to compile a time schedule for the return of prosperity.

Since early March when I learned while at the White House that President Hoover believed that the business of the country was facing darkness before the dawn, there have been gains in business volume and in employment, largely as the result of seasonal factors. Total building awards in April amounted to $483,000,000, the largest monthly total since last August. The general business slump started last July, and if the prediction of Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce, to the effect that business will be normal in three months proves correct, the total slump will have lasted less than 14 months.

Academic support for Mr. Lamont's viewpoint comes from the economic sages of Harvard University, who were a little premature in heralding a substantial spring recovery. The latest forecast of the Harvard Economic Society follows:

"In view of the probable improvement in several major industries, the favorable outlook for commodity and security markets, and the outstanding fact of cheap and ample credit, we conclude that general business is likely to improve continuously, or nearly continuously, through the rest of the year. Indications are that the most rapid gains will be made in the third quarter, and that the fourth quarter—despite political developments which may be adverse—will maintain a level substantially above normal.

BUSINESS STEADY

"Seasonal changes aside, general business for some time now has neither lost ground appreciably, nor gained it. The latest break in stock prices, both because of the fresh losses entailed and the effect on business sentiment, is an influence temporarily retarding business improvement. On the other hand, there are certain powerful forces which make for improvement; the stimulus afforded by very easy money, the closer balance which has now been attained between production and consumption, and the current low prices of raw materials. Moreover, greater activity is already indicated for important industries. We believe, therefore, that business—with due allowance for seasonal movements—will turn for the better this month or next, recover vigorously in the third quarter, and end the year at levels substantially above normal."

Economists have long known that consumption, the actual using up of materials by the public, does not fluctuate as much as production. Recovery, therefore, naturally follows recession, which is a period marked by the using up of accumulated stocks of merchandise. The reported sales of mail order houses, chain stores and department stores, as compared with the corresponding months last year, give an exaggerated impression of the extent of the decline in consumption, but as the management of Safeway Stores has pointed out, this decline, reported in dollars, reflects in part a recession in commodity prices. Measured in physical units, the setback in consumption has been relatively moderate.

United Engineering to Increase Profit

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

EXPANSION IN THE PROFITS of the United Engineering and Foundry Company was on a pronounced scale in 1929 and the gains are being continued during the present year. The company has large contracts which will keep its plants operating at a good rate for the balance of 1930. This does not mean that production will be at capacity. Due to the wide diversification of the organization's products, there are always some types of equipment which are not producing at their maximum rate. At present the demand for heavy machinery is exceptionally large while the orders for lighter machinery are not so great.

Expansion and modernization of steel mills have been responsible for a major share of the company's large order book. The placing of additional orders are expected in the near future since several steel companies are contemplating major improvement programs.

United Engineering probably will share in the $200,000,000 expansion program of the United States Steel Corporation.

Further Improvements Needed

OFFICIALS OF THE COMPANY have expressed the opinion that changes have taken place in steel mill practice at such a rapid rate that many other steel organizations will probably find it advisable to engage in improvement work on a large scale in order to keep their products and costs in line with those of the balance of the industry.

Increased installation of four-high mills for rolling plates and sheets on a continuous basis are seen among the outstanding phases of steel mill improvement work of the next few years. The difficulties which were encountered in the pioneer mills of this type have been overcome.

Earnings Gain

NET PROFITS in 1929 were double those of the preceding year. This was partially due to the fact that the bulk of orders secured in 1928 were obtained late in the year and delivery of the equipment did not take place until 1929. Net profit after all charges for 1929 was $1,671,881. After deducting dividends on the preferred stock, this was equivalent to $3.75 a share on 416,118 shares of common stock. In 1928 net profit was $826,591 or $1.72 a share.

Earnings for the current year are ahead of those of last year. Orders on hand indicate that the final results for 1930 will show a substantial gain in profits although the increase is not likely to be as large as last year's gain over 1928.

Pays Extra Dividends

THE COMMON STOCK pays regular quarterly dividends of 40 cents and extra dividends of 35 cents. These are equivalent to an annual basis of $3 a share. Last year the present regular and extra dividend rate was earned with a margin of 75 cents. With greater earnings expected for this year, the continuation of the extra payments seems assured.

The company will be able to handle its present volume of business without making any major plant improvements. The company will continue its practice of making minor additions to equipment in order to keep the plant in condition to meet changing requirements in the market for heavy machinery.

CAR LOADINGS DECREASE

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Revenue freight loadings for the week ended May 10, were reported by the American Railway Association to have totaled 933,931 cars.

This was decrease of 8,968 cars below the preceding week, and a reduction of 115,029 cars below loadings for the corresponding week a year ago.

Miscellaneous freight loadings for the week ended May 10 aggregated 367,923 cars, a decrease of 43,999 cars below the corresponding week of 1929; loadings of merchandise less than carload lot, 249,244, decrease 15,036; coal, 137,713, decrease 15,748; forest products 53,617, decrease 15,713; ore, 51,515, decrease 20,079; coke, 12,115, decrease 3,013; grain and grain products, 37,466, increase 583; live stock, 24,278, decrease 2,024.

NEW YORK, May 21.—New construction contracted for in the 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains during the week ended May 10 reached a total of $119,586,400, the F. W. Dodge Corporation reported today, as compared with $126,681,000 in the like period of 1929. Contracts since the first of the year aggregate $1,850,161,900, against $2,205,156,600 for the like period in 1929.

GRAIN EXPORTS INCREASE

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Grain exports from the United States during the week ending May 17 totaled 3,023,000 bushels compared with 1,630,000 bushels in the preceding week and 2,802,000 bushels in the corresponding week last year.

Commerce Department reports show wheat exports for the week ending May 17 as 2,062,000 bushels against 1,363,000 in the preceding week; barley 712,000 against 158,000; corn 160,000 against 89,000; oats 49,000 against 10,000; no exports of rye were shown.

United States and Canadian wheat flour in transit for the week ending May 17 totaled 265,000 barrels against 150,000 barrels for the previous week.

Canadian grains in transit cleared from United States Atlantic ports for the week ending May 17 totaled 1,733,000 bushels compared with 1,248,000 bushels for the previous week.

Notes: Certain subsidiary and affiliated companies were contingently liable at December 31, 1929, for notes receivable discounted at banks and accommodation endorsements, aggregating $186,000. This Balance Sheet does not include operated lessor companies with outstanding capital stocks of $16,179,000 and bonds of $5,085,000, certain of which are guaranteed as to dividends, principal, and interest.

THE CONSOLIDATED SURPLUS of Standard Gas and Electric Company and subsidiary and affiliated companies for 1929, amounting to $10,298,053 before deduction for dividends on the Company's common stock, was equivalent to $7.01 a share on the average of 1,467,904 shares outstanding during the year, and $6.59 a share on the 1,562,607 shares outstanding December 31, 1929. The surplus of $9,328,698 for 1928, before deduction for dividends on the Company's common stock, was equivalent to $6.57 a share on the 1,418,946 shares outstanding December 31, 1928.

Consolidated gross earnings of all subsidiary and affiliated public utility companies increased $6,832,429, or 4.63 per cent, to $154,198,087, and net earnings before provision for retirement of property and depletion increased $5,510,876, or 8.04 per cent, to $74,041,516.

Common Stock Dividends and Rights

During the year holders of Standard Gas and Electric Company common stock were given the right to subscribe to additional common stock, on the basis of one share at $85 a share for each ten shares of stock held. The amount of the Company's common stock outstanding increased during the year from 1,418,946 shares to 1,562,607 shares, of which increase 142,055 shares were issued as a result of the exercise of the rights.

Quarterly cash dividends were declared regularly on the common stock at the rate of $3.50 annually.

Preferred Stock

The Company also issued and sold during the year 70,730 shares of $4 Cumulative Preferred Stock, increasing the amount of such stock outstanding from 656,850 shares to 727,580 shares.

Proceeds from the sale of the additional preferred and common stocks were used for investments in securities of subsidiary and affiliated companies and for other corporate purposes.

Subsidiary and Affiliated Companies

The subsidiary and affiliated companies made substantial progress during 1929, efficient operating results being reflected in a greater proportionate increase in net earnings. The properties have been maintained in excellent physical condition and are operated at a high standard of efficiency.

A number of rate reductions were made during the year, consistent with the policy of reducing the cost of service to the public wherever warranted by conditions of service and decreased operating costs.

Seventy-one communities were added during the year to the properties now comprising the system. At the close of the year the number of communities served totaled 1,588, having an estimated combined population of 6,300,000.

Many of the subsidiary and affiliated public utility companies made important extensions of their transmission and distribution facilities to serve rural territories. As of December 31, 1929, a total of 1,592,188 customers of all classes was served, an increase during the year of 63,078 customers, or 4.13 per cent. These figures include an increase of 49,857 customers, or 4.69 per cent, in the electric department, and 11,989 customers, or 2.68 per cent, in the gas department.

Electric connected load, or business served, increased 288,466 kilowatts, or 10.19 per cent, to a total of 3,118,283 kilowatts. Electric energy output for 1929 amounted to 4,546,305,017 kilowatt-hours, an increase of 9.75 per cent, while gas output was 46,408,384,000 cubic feet, compared with 43,243,262,000 cubic feet in 1928, an increase of 7.32 per cent.

The sale of domestic electric and gas appliances and the continued development of new business added a large amount of revenue producing load to the system's lines.

Deep Rock Oil Corporation, formerly Shaffer Oil and Refining Company, despite adverse conditions existing in the petroleum industry, maintained its net earnings at practically the same level as 1928. Slightly higher prices on station sales were offset to some extent by lower prices prevailing on tank car sales. The refinery was operated at full capacity, and the Company continued its policy of acquiring desirable acreage for drilling.

Byllesby Engineering and Management Corporation continued to show growth consistent with the development of the subsidiary and affiliated companies.

New Construction

Net construction expenditures of the subsidiary and affiliated public utility companies during 1929 totaled $38,059,019. Electric generating capacity increased 23,670 kilowatts during the year. As of December 31, 1929, the aggregate capacity of the generating plants of the subsidiary and affiliated public utility companies was 1,390,214 kilowatts.

The construction budget for 1930 totals $60,127,000, of which $39,870,000 is for new projects, while $20,257,000 is for completion of work started prior to January 1, 1930. Of the total budget, $9,712,000 is for extensions to serve new business. Generating capacity aggregating 130,300 kilowatts is scheduled for completion during 1930.

Stockholders

The approximate number of shareholders of the subsidiary and affiliated companies at the close of the year was 143,000, of which the customer or home shareholders are estimated to number in excess of 114,000.

In addition to the shareholders of the subsidiary and affiliated companies, Standard Gas and Electric Company had more than 38,000 shareholders at the close of the year.

MARKET FINDS SELF AT FORK OF ROADS

List Hesitates, Unable To Decide Which Way To Turn—Rally Dies Out

NEW YORK, May 21 (A.P.)—The stock market again found itself at a fork in the road today, and was unable to decide which way to turn. Speculation for the rise concentrated in the rail and food shares, made some headway for a time but was challenged by another spell of speculative apathy and the week's steel trade reviews published early in the afternoon were fairly distinct ening.

The first railway [illegible] come opposite to appeal for [illegible] have provided little encouragement. The freight car loading figures for the second week of May, appearing today, showed a decline of nearly 9,000 cars from the previous week, when a sharp turn of about 50,000 was shown, and the total was nearly 1st below the like periods of 1929 and 1928. There have been several sporadic efforts of late however to start an upward move in the rails, based on favorable dividend yields in this period of cheap money and vague rumors of constructive developments in Washington.

REVIEWS PESSIMISTIC

The weekly steel trade reviews were of a somewhat pessimistic tone, with prices still giving ground and with selling increasingly aggressive the ball in iron and steel market has become more pronounced, according to Iron Age. Iron trade review pointed out that in addition to unsteady demand and dwindling prices a new complication had been added by the revision of freight rates. The American Petroleum Institute's weekly statistics were also less favorable showing a moderate gain in crude production and a new upturn in gasoline stocks.

New developments in the copper situation was declaration of a dividend of only 50 cents by Calumet & Arizona compared to $1.50 three months ago and a slackening of consumer buying.

Among the more reassuring items in the day's news was the statement by James A. Farrell, president of U. S. Steel at the foreign trade convention in Los Angeles, that despite the present low levels of export and import trade, the world outlook is improving and an increasing volume is indicated as the year progresses. Also, it was rumored in Wall Street that large rubber manufacturers are considering cooperative efforts to stabilize the industry. F. W. Dodge Corporation's weekly figures for building contracts let showed but small reduction from the like period of 1929, but building was depressed a year ago.

BREAKS WIDE

Calumet and Arizona broke more than 10 points to the lowest price in five years, and Jersey Central, a comparatively inactive, high-priced issue, tumbled more than 25 points to a new 1930 low. Among the leading industrials U. S. Steel, Eastman Kodak, International Harvester, Westinghouse Electric and Air Reduction were among issues losing 2 or 3 points, or more.

In the early rise Hocking Valley, also a high-priced erratic issue, rose more than 30 points, and Atchison, New Haven, Chesapeake and Ohio, Baltimore and Ohio, Wabash, Reading and Norfolk and Western mounted 2 to 4 points. National Biscuit, Loose Wiles, and United Biscuit gained about 2 points, and gains of a point or so were common among the food issues.

AUTO OUTPUT UP IN APRIL

WASHINGTON, May 21.—April production of motor vehicles in the United States as reported to the Department of Commerce totaled 442,630, comparing with 401,582 in March and 621,910 in April, 1929.

Output during the first four months of 1930 was 1,466,590 against 2,074,820 in the corresponding period in 1929.

Foreign Demand For Copper Drops

NEW YORK, May 21.—Sales of copper for foreign account in the forenoon today totaled 5,250,000 pounds. Foreign sales Tuesday totaled 9,000,000 pounds.

Copper consumption in the United States during the first quarter of 1930 was 25,000 tons less than in the corresponding period of 1929, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reports. The building industry consumed 11,000 short tons in the first quarter, compared with 15,000 in the first quarter of 1929, automobile industry, 24,000 against 37,000, and electrical goods manufacturers 53,000, contrasted with 52,000.

Salt Lake Purchase In Public Interest

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Purchase of the control of the Denver and Salt Lake Railroad by the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad, the Interstate Commerce Commission was advised today in a tentative report by one of its agents, is in the public interest and should be permitted.

The Denver and Salt Lake line now holds a lease of the Moffat tunnel, a tube piercing the continental divide west of Denver, and the fact is rated as making the Salt Lake line strategically important in transcontinental service.

U. S. to Strengthen Cali[illegible]ia Fort

MONTEREY, Cal., (INS).—More than $100,000 will be spent by the government during the next year for improvements at the Presidio of Monterey, it has been announced by Col. Robert Fitch, the commandant.

Army officers stationed here received with satisfaction the news that $25,000 is to be spent on the extension of natural gas mains to the garrison so that wood and coal stoves and open fireplaces, now used for cooking, may be discarded for modern equipment.

Japan to Exploit Gold Discovery

LONDON, May 21.—A Tokio dispatch states Japanese newspapers report discovery of alluvial gold deposits in Formosa estimated in value at a huge figure. Strike will be exploited by Japanese government.

Rubber Market.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Rubber futures opened steady: May, 13.70; July, 13.90; September, 14.30; Nov., September, 14.43. Spot smoked ribbed, 14¾.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 21.—Trading in Curb stocks slipped back into an uninteresting routine today. There was an upward trend at the opening on the continuation of yesterday's late rally but as soon as covering orders had been filled the list sagged slightly and then hardened. Sales were small.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange giving all stocks and bonds traded in (00 omitted in sales column of stock list, 000 omitted in sales colum of bond list.

DAILY TRUE STORY

It Will Work Out

"It will work out, you see if it doesn't."

Mrs. Malvern was talking over the telephone to her very dear friend, Mrs. Kingston.

"What devilry is this?" he said, amiably, as his wife put back the receiver. "that will work out?"

"Woman's affairs, my dear."

"I thought so."

"As if you know, Peter."

"Match making."

Mrs. Malvern started slightly, and the guilty expression wasn't lost on him.

"I do believe," she said rather faintly, "that at times you are a mind-reader."

"At all times," he boasted.

"How about HXN?"

"Oh, the market crash? My dear Polly, the people behind HXN had no minds to read, but I became a bear and cleaned up, didn't I?"

"Luck, you bluffing old dear, and you cannot read minds at all."

"What's this game you are up to—about Ted Hargrave and the Ryerson girl?"

"I read minds."

"Then why ask me what's up?"

"I desire details."

Cartright rolled the tea wagon in and came back with a glass in which ice tinkled. He departed and Malvern settled back to sip his iced drink while his wife sipped her tea.

"You know as well as I do, Peter," Mrs. Malvern said suddenly, "that it would be an ideal match—"

Back to a Long Line

Mrs. Malvern waved a silencing hand.

"—and Ted Hargrave has none."

"That makes him with the majority."

"But Helen's father was a mechanic. The gadgets he invented brought the money, but they have no social position whatever. Now the Hargraves—well, they are the Hargraves. They date back to ancestors who were—er—"

"Metal riding habits and were baronial robbers, I know. So, if the Ryerson millions could offset the Hargrave poverty and the Hargrave social glory could offset the Ryerson plebianism—then it would work out, as you told Sally Kingston."

"Pouf, that isn't mind reading. That's just plain common sense."

"Is it? Suppose Ted doesn't care for Helen? Suppose his heart yearns for some fluffy little blonde? And suppose Helen secretly wants a stalwart sort of chap whose ancestry can only be found one generation back and that in the telephone book?"

"But think how nice it would be, Helen's really a dear, and married to Ted she'd get in with the right crowd, while with her money Ted could restore the old home and have his polo ponies and airplanes and things."

"Matchmaking is a dangerous and thankless endeavor, my dear."

"But they are terribly interested in each other already. That's why we are having both of them out at Sally's place for the week-end."

"Um," said Peter Malvern, who knew when to close an argument as well as a business deal.

Malvern liked to be out at the Kingston place. He liked Tom Kingston. He liked to swim in a lake and not a cement pool, and he liked to hide away in the gun room and read and smoke and indulge in cocktail shaker experiments.

He watched Ted Hargrave and Helen Ryerson at dinner. Ted had been assigned to take her in. He told his wife that this was "coarse work," and that more finesse should have been used.

Ted talked a great deal to Helen, but Peter Malvern found no reason in this for the gloating exchange of glances between his wife and Sally Kingston. Malvern could see that they were talking a lot, but saying nothing of interest to each other.

Couldn't Save Old Home

Even as she talked Helen Ryerson seemed to keep her eyes across the table on David Carter, who had come back from some successful Upper Nile explorations. Carter was a college professor. It was his means of livelihood, which is one way of saying that he wasn't at all burdened with the material things of the world, such as stocks and bonds or even ready cash.

As for Ted Hargrave, he spoke rapidly to Helen and stared down the table to little Bessie Thurman, who had been taken in to dinner by old Major Young. Now and then Bessie smiled at Ted and then, Malvern noticed, Ted seemed to forget what he was saying to Helen.

Helen danced a little with Ted and finally sat in a corner and listened with shining eyes to Prof. Carter. Malvern saw Ted and Bessie below on the terrace.

Malvern and Kingston nodded at each other. "I'll slip away soon," Kingston promised. Malvern went alone to the gun room and a servant brought up ice and siphons and various ingredients and departed.

It was a long gun room, with an angle at one end opening to an upper verandah top. Malvern was experimenting with some Bacardi and things when he heard a door slam in the angle. he was just going to call out, "Is that you, Tom?" when he heard a voice.

"Worked out be dashed, I want you, Bessie."

"I haven't anything to use for money, dear boy—and Helen could give you everything—"

"Hang it, Pet, I don't want her. I want you—we can manage."

"We might manage, but you'd miss your opportunity. You couldn't save the Hargrave place and you couldn't have the things you used to have before your grandfather died and there wasn't any more. Hargrave money. I can't let you do it, Ted."

Holding Her Hand

Malvern felt guilty sitting in the wing chair, but he didn't dare speak then—it was too late. Bessie seemed to be sobbing.

"I'll chuck the old place and get a job in a garage—or in your real estate office. How's that?"

"My little real estate office just about keeps me in food and fluffies and gas for the old car, and I heard Mrs. Malvern saying something to Mrs. Kingston about what an ideal match it would be, you and Helen—and I won't let you spoil your life! I mean it, Ted—you'd always be thinking of the millions you might have married."

"Well!"

Perhaps that wasn't what Ted Hargrave said, but it sounded something like it. They moved across the gun room and out the south door. Malvern sat up, drank his Bacardi, lighted a cigar and began thinking.

Kingston joined him. They had some more drinks and discussed various things.

Malvern took a turn on the south terrace for a last cigar and came upon Helen and the Professor.

"It is all so wonderful," he heard Helen Ryerson say.

"The most wonderful thing, to me, is being back here, and with you in this perfect environment," the Professor replied, and through the shrubbery Malvern saw him holding her hand.

He dived from the canoe landing and when he came up Ted Hargrave was approaching.

"It's great," Hargrave told him.

"I'm expecting someone, Mr. Malvern. Have you seen——"

"Miss Thurman? No, not yet, Ted."

"That's a hot one—how did you guess? Every other damn fool—I don't mean it that way—everyone else has practically got me married to Helen."

"Listen, young man," said Malvern.

He listened. At first he was bored, then he was excited.

All Works Out Well

Bessie looked around.

"Listen, Miss Thurman," Malvern said.

"I expected to find—"

When he looked back Ted and Bessie were standing right there, embracing. They seemed to have forgotten that the lake was full of nice water to swim in and they had their swimming suits on.

At tea time on the south terrace Malvern joined his wife and Mrs. Kingston. Down under the old yew tree Helen Ryerson and Prof. Carter were sitting on one small folding stool, looking at pictures in one of the professor's snapshot albums. They had to hold each other on the stool.

"If you laugh I'll scratch and go 'Pf-f-fft!'" Polly Malvern said. "Look down there! And Ted has gone and so has that silly little Thurman girl and—"

"It will work out, my dear, don't worry!" Malvern assured her.

"That's once you are not a mind reader, Peter."

"It will work out. Ted is president of the Hargrave Development Company. The Hargrave acres are to be laid out in streets and suburban homes built on them. The Thursman Real Estate office will merge—so will Bessie and Ted—it has been all financed. Ted will make heaps of money."

"For goodness' sake," Polly Malvern cried, "I'll bet you and Tom Kingston financed it!"

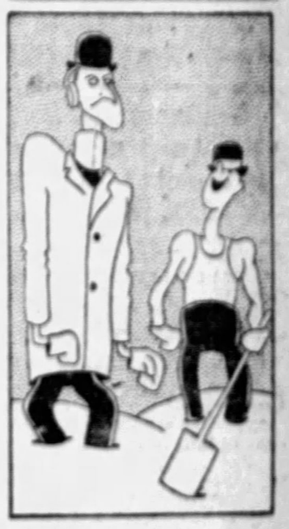
THEME SONG



Yesterday's mails brought the following poem, which, we assume, was dashed off according to the restrictions of our nation-wide contest. The rules require that the poem be written by a child—at least the contestant must be childish. The winning poem will be declared the International Theme Song for 1930, and the text will be carved on the side of a mountain in South Dakota.

And tossing it for fair,
Throwing it on the ladies' legs
And in the ladies' hair—
A big he-man then chanced along
And to that oaf says he,
"You threw your snow in that lady's face
And also on her knee!"
Then the horrible oaf gave a horrible sound
"Ha ha—ho ho—tee hee!
If she waits a while she won't have snow
But water on the knee."
The big he-man swore a terrible oath,
"Oh woe to thee betide!"
And he broke the oaf across his knee
And strewed him far and wide.
So let this story a lesson be
To all oafs here below—
Be careful not to be too free
When you are shoveling SNOW!

Davis' Great Victory

Fisher-Grundy Machine Repudiated—Splendid Vote for Pinchot, Especially in Allegheny County, is Gratifying.

While the outcome is still in doubt so far as the gubernatorial contest is concerned, Pennsylvanians have reason on the whole to be satisfied with the results of the primary election.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis has received the Republican nomination for United States Senator by a decisive majority. The Fisher Grundy machine has been definitely repudiated. The citizens have let it be known unmistakably that they do not approve of Joseph R. Grundy's record and feel there are other things demanding attention besides the tariff.

In Secretary Davis there is assurance of a senator alive to the needs of all classes. And there is naturally pride in the fact that he is a fellow-citizen of Pittsburgh.

Regardless of whether he has been nominated, the splendid showing made by Gifford Pinchot, particularly in Allegheny County, is cause for congratulation. It discloses refreshing and encouraging independence on the part of the voters. They have shown they think for themselves and will not blindly accept the dictation of the bosses.

The tremendous vote polled by Pinchot in the face of the machine's opposition is convincing proof of the sentiment in favor of the things he advocated, notably the abolition of the coal and iron police and relief from the oppression of the public utilities. Pinchot's vote also attests the admiration of the voters for a candidate who does not straddle important public questions, but says plainly where he stands.

The nomination of Judge James B. Drew for the Superior Court is gratifying. Allegheny county is sending to the higher bench a jurist who will grace it and whose record guarantees good service.

The anti-dry candidates are to be complimented on their impressive showing. It is notable that in several counties, on incomplete returns, Thomas W. Phillips is leading Francis Shunk Brown, which is another indication that the voters like a candidate to face an issue squarely. Without the support of any political organization, the anti-drys defeated the gang in a number of places, and have shown they are a power that will have to be reckoned with in future elections.

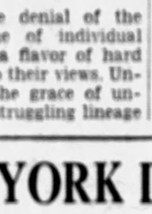
THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

But the significance of his work was not recognized at the time. His communication to the little Natural History Society at Brunn (now called Brno) dealt chiefly with peas and arithmetic, not the sort of things that cause excitement and clamor, and in the confused tumult of the Nineteenth Century Evolution Controversy they passed unnoticed.

Only in the opening years of the twentieth century was his work disinterred and brought to bear on the discussion of Evolution.



H. G. Wells

This rediscovery was the stimulus for an enormous amount of careful experimental breeding of animals and plants. New conceptions arose of how variations originate and are handed on from generation to generation, and of how they may play their part in the struggle for existence.

Here we are merely revising the broad issues before us. Later on we shall discuss the question whether variations occur through a "life force" driving the whole species in a definite direction or through some blind disposition to vary evoked by the action of external conditions upon the reproductive process.

That is an interesting issue of profound importance. And we shall have to consider the still-vexed question whether the inheritance of individuality acquired characteristics, which was the essence of the original theory of Lamarck, occurs or no.

This was flatly denied by Weismann (1934-1914) and disproved in many instances. He and his followers are sometimes spoken of as Neo-Darwinians. They believe variation to be a purely random process, resulting neither from a persistent urge nor from the Lamarckian moulding of the individual body; the direction of Evolution being determined entirely by natural selection.

Their complete denial of the evolutionary value of individual experience gives a flavor of hard pre-destination to their views. Unless it vary by the grace of unknown forces, a struggling lineage is doomed; no individual luck or effort can save it. And clearly no education, no social protection can cure the innate defects of any inferior human family. Its role is extinction.

A very fine and curious issue to which we shall later direct the reader's attention is that of Orthogeneals. It is alleged that in a certain number of cases, species, even though fairly well adapted to their conditions and without experiencing any change of conditions, have, by virtue of a sort of inner drive, an innate destiny of the species, gone through considerable evolutionary change.

Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborn finds this drive convincingly displayed in various great fossil series, such as the horses, camels and titanotheres. Of course, where the changes produced by the orthogenesis have been disadvantageous, natural selection has at last arrested the drive and extinguished the line. But the supposition that the new form, new structure or other characteristic is not advantageous or is insufficiently advantageous to have "survival value" is difficult to establish.

It may involve an advantage which the observers has not recognized. And it is still more difficult to show that the drive toward variation in a definite direction was innate. There may be a thousand other influences working upon the minute elements in reproduction of which as yet we know nothing, from obscure chemical factors in the food to electromagnetic radiations from outer space.

There may be a thousand subtle selective influences rejecting this variation and preserving that. Here again our duty will be to sum up the known facts and views and leave the conclusion to the reader.

We have then still active in the biological field (1) the elanvitalist, (2) the Neo-Darwinian; three distinctive schools as to the origin of variations. They are by no means mutually exclusive.

Marsh, Too, Advises Against 'T' Traffic Plan

Another voice has been raised against the adoption of Plan "T" as a traffic arrangement contemplated as part of the improvement of streets in connection with the erection of the projected new passenger terminal of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

"Plan 'Z' or a temporary surface arrangement utilizing the property lines of Plan 'Z' are the only plans that are recognized by engineers as being at all adequate for the district in which the new Federal Building and Pennsylvania Station are to be built," asserted Burton W. Marsh, former traffic engineer in the employ of the city.

The importance of Mr. Marsh's opinions on such matters may be indicated in the fact that he was lured from his Pittsburgh connection by a higher salary in an eastern city. Here to spend a few days he said Plan "T" would cripple traffic in the eastern downtown district.

No Bread Line Need Here, Committee States

A reassuring statement is that of a committee representing 16 social agencies that there is not—and has not been—need for a bread line in Pittsburgh and that the city can meet the problem of the homeless man "more constructively."

"There is adequate food and lodging for every man who is willing to register for employment," the committee states.

We are glad of that, of course. "Breadline" has a disconcerting sound, suggesting depths of misery and poverty in association with conditions that do not exist here, according to the committee.

Delegates Cannot Judge Naval Treaty Impartially

Why does the United States Senate permit Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, and Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, to take any part in the judicial examination of the London naval treaty which the Committee on Foreign Relations is making for the Senate?

Neither Senator Robinson nor Senator Reed is eligible to sit in judgement on that treaty because both are incapable of judging it impartially.

Why should Senator Robinson, as a member of the Committee on Foreign Relations, sit in judgment upon a treaty which he helped to negotiate and which he is now defending as special counsel for the administration?

Why should Senator Reed, as a member of the Committee on Foreign Relations, sit in judgment upon a treaty which he helped to negotiate and which he is now defending as special counsel for the administration?

The truth is that both these Senators in their eagerness to serve the administration and commend their London activities to the American people have forgotten that no man, not even a senator, can serve two masters.

No senator in Congress ought ever again to disqualify himself for sitting in impartial judgment upon a treaty as a member of the Committee on Foreign Relations by going to a conference as a delegate of the President to negotiate a treaty upon which the Senate must subsequently pass judgment.

Meantime a decent sense of the proprieties ought to prevent the senior Senator from Arkansas and the senior Senator from Pennsylvania from taking any part in the independent and impartial and judicial examination of the London naval treaty which it is the duty of the Committee on Foreign Relations to make as advisors to the Senate.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Art for Art's Sake

The art center, which seems to be in the exact middle of nothing in particular, says that American culture exceeds the world. But we are bozos on art.

"Bugs" Baer

We have too many art students who get their hands full of paint and charcoal during the day and wipe them on each other at night.

An art student is a comatose duke who floats through life as easily and gracefully as whiskers on a chin.

We are told that there has been a decided improvement in streamline Fords. But they still rattle and trifle and twitter with the language of mechanical canaries. Henry may have made them beautiful, but he never made them dumb.

Our landscapes have been chewed right up to the far flung horizon by filling stations and hot bowser stands. We admit that there is nothing exquisite about a torrid frankfurter booth. But if we cannot dabble in oils and water color we will dabble in mustard.

The assembled ethical and temperamental critics object heavily to the sordidness and ugliness of our steam radiators in American rooms. Now, only an artist could think of that.

A steam radiator is like a rich husband. He doesn't have to be handsome. The idea of a radiator is to heat up a room. If you want romance and beauty why not flutter off the Palisades with a parachute made of buttercups?

Our linoleum and wall paper indicate that we have as much conception of the finer things of life as a turtle has about road clearance. Well, they don't expect us to smack a roach with a mop on one of Coret's paintings, do they?

We may not know anything about art. But we certainly know how to dial a phone. And we're nervous since the Supreme Court passed a law against liquor receptacles. Why, a man can be arrested for having a hollow tooth.

When you are talking about the average American and art you are merging two subjects that are best when they are changed. We don't know anything, we admit it, and if you have got to have dandruff on a velvet collar to be artistic, we will go around baldheaded, bow-legged and industrious.

(Copyright, 1930.)

EINSTEIN THE CONSOLIDATOR

By Archibald Henderson

There is much mystery and a world of misunderstanding still associated with the name of Albert Einstein. It is believed by the general public, although not by mathematicians and physicists, that Einstein's theories represent a complete break with the past. The real truth of the matter is that Einstein consolidated the gains of the past and went further forward to new triumphs.

Thirty years ago Lord Kelvin said, in addressing the Royal Institution of Great Britain, that there were two clouds on the horizon. These clouds threatened the carefully erected scientific structure of the past. These two clouds gradually spread and ominously covered the heavens. They might be given the names of the discrepancies regarding energy and ether. They may be said to embody the Michelson-Morley experiment and the quantum theory.

Until very recent times great faith was expressed by physicists in the concept of the ether. Sir Oliver Lodge described it as "one continuous substance filling all space; which can vibrate as light; which can be sheared into positive and negative electricity; which in whirls constitutes matters, and which transmits by continuity, and not by impact, every action and reaction of which matter is capable."

When Einstein began to wrestle with the discrepancies of modern physics and electro-dynamics he saw clearly that it was necessary to set up a theory which would reconcile these differences. It was a definite effort, through generalization, to correlate and unify the discordant features of the new physics. The problem he faced was: Where can we find a fixed reference system in order to determine absolute velocity?

The Michelson-Morley experiment showed the hopelessness of seeking such a medium in the ether. Very recent experiments conducted by St. John fully confirm the conclusion that there is no known way of determining absolute velocity through the ether.

Einstein was not the only physicist seeking to reconcile these differences. Lorentz, the Dutch physicist, who died only the other day, anticipated Einstein by a year in advancing a theory very similar in technic to special relativity. Both Lorentz and Fitz-Gerald attempted to explain the null result of the Michelson-Morley experiment by assuming that a body, say a bar of iron, moving in the direction of its own length, is shortened a small but appreciable amount, depending upon the size of the velocity.

Einstein derived almost the same equations as Lorentz; but he gave these an entirely different interpretation. He not only postulated that it was impossible to detect the uniform velocity of a system, but he also laid down the principle that the apparent velocity of light in empty space is unaffected by relative motion between the observer and the source of light.

Many extraordinary and bizarre consequences flowed from these postulates. But one great and important gain was registered: the reconcilment of discrepancies between physical and electromagnetic theories. Einstein consolidated them in his famous equations, known as the Lorentz Transformation.

Moreover, a fundamental consequence of his theory was confirmed by a curious physical fact which had been observed for years without any satisfactory explanation being found for it. This phenomenon was that as a body moves at very high velocities it shows an appreciable increase in mass. This had been demonstrated in 1893 by Sir J. J. Thomson, by showing that an electrically charged sphere in motion through the ether would exhibit an increase of inertia, that is, mass. Kaufmann's experiments in 1901-2 tended strongly to contened strongly to confirm this view.

Einstein's theory, as Heyl points out, correlated and consolidated the scientific gains of the past.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Some day you're going to be wise and kind and powerful and well beloved. You will think splendid thoughts and perform noble deeds. Your spirit will be at peace. All dishonesty and cowardice and laziness and stupidity will be removed from your nature. And men and women will look at you in awe, for you will be one of the Great Ones of the earth.

Is this a prophesy? No! I'm just telling you your own secret thoughts about yourself. You really believe that those fine things will happen to you some day. And how are they going to happen? Who or what is going to lift you out of your present weakness and foolishness and set you on high? Who is going to save you? There are various answers to that.

If you're one kind of a person, you believe that Luck will save you. If you're another kind of a person, you believe that God will save you. But if you're a HUMANIST, you believe that YOU MUST SAVE YOURSELF.

Humanism is a new religion, which is spreading rapidly. It has come in answer to that clamor for "some faith which will fit into modern life." It was founded by Charles Francis Potter, who has written a brief book about it, called "HUMANISM." You had better read that book, for it is a very significant part of the life of your world. It may make you mad or sad or glad—according to your nature. But, whatever your nature, it will make you THINK. And the biggest thought it will force upon you is that question I have already asked:

"WHO WILL SAVE YOU?"

Here's the Humanist's answer to that question: "NO MAN OR GOD CAN SAVE ANOTHER MAN. IMPROVEMENT COMES FROM WITHIN."

I'm no humanist, but that seems to me a pretty good answer. Maybe is isn't ALL the answer, but it's ENOUGH of an answer to change your whole life over, if you'll use it.

I'm not denying Luck. I'm not denying that Jesus Christ did a lot for man, also Moses and Buddha and Confucius and all the other saintly seekers after truth. But here's the point—THERE'S PLENTY YOU CAN DO FOR YOURSELF AND YOU SHOULD DO THAT PLENTY BEFORE PASSING THE BUCK TO ANY GOD.

Personally I don't WANT God to do a thing for me if I can do it for myself. It's like having your mother still wipe your nose after you're 40. There are some things in life which you CAN'T do for yourself, whether you're 40 or a hundred. But most of our necessities are as simple as nosewiping and as much up to us.

Nine-tenths of our miseries are of our own making. We do darn fool things and then pray to God to help us out of the jams we ourselves have caused. We deliberately indulge our cussedness and then yelp at the consequence. Why should God bother to save us from consequences? Of what use would we be, if we were so saved? Of none at all—for the qualities which got us into the first jam would speedily get us into another. We CANNOT be saved, until we ourselves eliminate from our nature those traits that keep us among the damned.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Two Views

This is a world of greed and haste,
Of ruthlessness and pain,
Of cruel want and careless waste,

Ah, can it truly be
This is the world you see,
When here before your eyes
This world breathes loveliness,
And brims with joy and light,
Where sun and stars confess
God's glory day and night!
The sad, dark place you see
Of misery and care
Is but a phantasy
Of some dark hour's despair.
Then turn, ah, turn away
To this real world that glows,
Glad world of work and play

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 21.—What might have been the most disastrous season in the history of the fashionable dressmaking establishments was averted by a freakish quirk. And instead of possible bankruptcy, they enjoyed one of the most profitable seasons in 10 years.

The lengthening of Milady's skirts was the fortuitous circumstance that brought the amazing puff of prosperity. Ladies who follow the styles suddenly discovered their entire wardrobes were outmoded. Short hems precluded the possibility of lowering skirts on hand.

Thus women had to be completely re-outfitted or step out of the parade. The designer who brought about the quick change, but save in the trade did not receive credit therefor, was Louise Boulanger, of Paris. Her introduction of the idea was acclaimed with a hoot.

But the unexplainable happened. Holdouts began to fall into line. Only one Parisian dressmaker refused stubbornly to comply with the new dictum. As a result, the American customers of that salon found themselves in Palm Beach for the season as out of date as the puff sleeve.

Never were the mercurial vagaries of fashion so strikingly illustrated as in the restoration of a longer skirt. The greatest experts were convinced the short skirt, due to trimness and freedom, would not be changed for many seasons. It was a fixture.

American women took to the change with more enthusiasm than their European sisters. There is still a little reluctance among die-hards, especially in England. But as nearly as anyone can judge in the trade, a longer skirt will remain for some time.

That America, or rather New York, is out in front as a style leader and riding hard is now apparent. Lelong, Worth, Patou, and other foremost Parisian modistes now come to this country twice a year to study conditions before making up collections. A frock is hailed as "very American" instead of "very Parisian."

* * *

Contrariwise, three of New York's leading dressmakers who used to make four yearly style scouting excursions to Paris make but a single trip these days. And Jean Nash, reputed best dressed woman of Paris, announces her Fall wardrobe will be selected in New York.

* * *

In Paris, an expert designer is paid the top price of $8,000 a year. The majority receive about $6,000. Four New York designers receive $50,000 each annually. Two were immigrants.

* * *

New York couturiers have abolished what has long been known as "openings"—at which seasonal creations are privately shown to favored patrons. It was discovered many who received exclusive invitations would pass them on, sometimes to servants.

* * *

One more observation and needlework will be dropped for the day. The most expensive frock of the season was made for a musical comedy star for $750.

* * *

A colored elevator man in 43d street, in reply to my observation the weather had moderated observed: "Yessah, the wind has debated considerable."

* * *

Which recalls the time a darkey in our town saw an 11-inning tie game between the Cincinnati and Chicago ball clubs. He postcarded his employer: "Game lasted 11 endings. Not airy one made by airy one."

* * *

"I notice," write George B., "a certain sanctimony in your writings lately. It is an opportune time to tell the world about the time my aunt caught you writing a dirty word on our coal house."

I certainly picked a fine time to go straight.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

What has happened to bring about a change in your home, to make it less interesting to you?

For some reason it does not seem as attractive to you as it once did.

There are several changes you would like to make in it and you would like to have certain pieces of furniture replaced and others added.

Because you cannot afford to make these changes in your home you are losing interest in it.

Aren't you allowing its appointments to overshadow what should be more important in it as a home?

As long as it is your home, the best you can afford and its furnishings as good as you can provide, why allow yourself to become dissatisfied?

There is so much more to home than the investment in money and materials.

If you become displeased with your home you make the situation worse by adding a discontented mind which affects the rest of the family.

And when you have communicated your unhappy state to your family you have robbed the atmosphere of the very charm of home-peace and contentment.
